Raymond Hitchcock, Famous Stage Star at Granada Theater

The parade of stars for Greater Show season at the Granada theater continues. Raymond Hitchcock arrives there this Saturday, October 6, for a personal appearance of one week in Charles Kaley's new stage show, "The Jewel Box."

Hitchcock is the comedian of nation-wide reputation from his featured roles in Ziegfeld shows, Earl Carroll's "Vanities," George White's "Scandals," "Greenwich Village Follies," "Artists and Models," and numerous musical comedies and revues.

His engagement at popular prices is considered a feat among theatrical people, many of whom were astounded previously at the local engagement of Eddie Cantor, John Steel, and Juliar Eltinge.

With the show at the Granada starting Saturday is the screen melodrama "Scarlet Lady" starring Lya De Putti and Don Alvarado. It is a story of a love that endured through the revolution in Russia while the powers of the higher and lower classes became reversed.

FAIRBANKS AT WORK

Douglas Fairbanks is in active production of "The Iron Mask," the sequel to his story of "The Three Musketeers," which he made six years ago. Again Mr. Fairbanks is playing D'Artagnan, Alexander Dumas' swash-buckling hero of the seventeenth century.

BARTHELMESS NEXT

Richard Barthelmess is to be seen in the near future in "Scarlet Seas," for which sequences are being filmed at Cataline island. Barthelmess is supported by a cast including Betty Compson, Loretta Young, Jack Curtis, James Bradbury, Sr., and others.

"The Shady Lady," Phyllis Haver's new starring vehicle, with Robert Armstrong as the male lead, is in production at the Pathe studios.

Shackelton's Antarctic Expedition on Screen

The first Chicago showing of "Shackelton's Last Antarctic Expedition" will take place at the Playhouse for one week beginning this Sunday, October 7. This is in addition to the Moscow Art Players great Russian film "Czar Ivan, The Terrible," which is being held over for a second and final week.

The film record of Sir Ernest Shackelton's expedition has been guarded in the British Government archives for the past six years, and this is its first American showing. The film is a vivid record of the struggle with nature among the grim white wastes that have held death for so many explorers recently. The course of the expedition is the very same one to be pursued by both Commanders Richard E. Byrd and Hubert Wilkins and their party of daring explorers.

On this expedition Shackelton contracted a malady from which he died, and he was buried by the members of his party on a little island in the midst of the desolate Antarctic waste.

Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., has agreed to play a fresh reporter in "Power of the Press."

"The Patsy" Is Graeme Players' Next Offering

Next Friday, October 12, the Graeme Players, stock company appearing weekly at the Alcyon theater in Highland Park, will present the rollicking comedy drama, "The Patsy," which Claibourne Foster made famous in long runs on Broadway and in Chicago, and which Marion Davies further popularized with a screen version.

The Graeme Players' presentation of "The Patsy" features Joe Driscoll as "Tony," with Miss Hazel Dell Christy as "Patsy." The picture for the evening will be the Paramount comedy sensation, "Just Married," starring Ruth Taylor and James Hall.

"Enter Madame," with Miss Sigrid Graeme, director of the stock company which bears her name, in the leading role, was scheduled for presentation last night. This was to be Miss Graeme's first stage appearance in Highland Park.

"Companionate Marriage," which is scheduled for release this month as a picture, has in the cast Betty Bronson, Alec B. Francis, Richard Walling, Hedda Hopper, Edward Martindel, Arthur Rankin, and other well-known names.

DIRECTOR SELECTED

Clarence Brown has been selected to direct the motion-picture adaptation of Herman Sudermann's novel, "The Wife of Stephen Tromholt," which will reach the screen under the title, "The Wonder of Women." Brown is now completing "A Woman of Affairs," new co-starring vehicle for John Gilbert and Greta Garbo.

RUSSIAN FILM FOR BILLIE

Antonio Moreno will be Billie Dove's leading man in her next picture, a story of Russia and of Paris after the Russian revolution. Miss Dove will play a Russian noblewoman, a refugee from the revolution in her own country. The picture is not yet titled.

COSTLY PICTURE

"The Miracle," Max Reinhardt's stage spectacle, is to be brought to the screen at an estimated cost of $2,000,000. The picture is said to be the biggest and most costly ever made.

Jacqueline Logan has signed a contract to play the feminine lead in "Red Velvet."

Richard Arlen will play opposite Fay Wray in "Four Feathers."

The Right TYPES

IF TYPOGRAPHY be an art, as it is so often called today, then types of every "color" should be available to paint the picture.

And if we are to regard typography as a craft, then types, the tools of the craft, should be worthy of the craftsman.

Art—or craft. Here you will find the types—plus the knowledge of how to use them—to produce adequacy in the final results.
