

Grade Pupils to Discuss Presidential Candidates

The political issues of the presidential campaign and the merits of the two candidates for president will be discussed by pupils of the Skokie school at an assembly to be held there next Tuesday. The "political" assembly will be a part of the pre-election campaigning in connection with the mock election which the school will hold at the time of the regular election on November 6. Pupils of the school have already held a mock registration day.

Mrs. Randolph Buck of Scott Avenue has returned to her home after a three weeks' visit at Washington, New York City, and in Connecticut with her daughter, Mrs. F. Eugene Ackerman.

Indian Boy Entertains at Three Winnetka Schools

Harold Loring, representative of the school Assembly association, and the full-blooded Sioux Indian boy who is accompanying him, appeared at the Horace Mann, Greeley, and Hubbard Woods schools in Winnetka last Wednesday. Mr. Loring explained the traditions, customs, and other interesting things about the Indians, while the Indian boy, named Evergreen Tree, gave bird calls and sang and danced in costume.

Winnetka to Have First Torchlight Parades

Echoes of an earlier day when torchlight processions and blaring brass bands heading long lines of enthusiastic partisan marching clubs featured national political campaigns are again to be heard in Winnetka.

It is said to be quite possible that the Floyd E. Thompson parade this evening and the Hoover rally and parade being planned for Friday evening, November 2, may, in reality, be the first big political demonstration of their kind the village has ever seen.

In days of old political rallies were not complete without their marching flambeau clubs, but when some of the older residents of Winnetka were consulted for information as to the last big rally in the village, they scratched their heads and thought—then declared, "there were no such things here."

But they are coming. And tonight and again on November 2, enthusiastic partisans will, for the first time in history, march through Winnetka streets, shouting lustily for their favorite candidates, to the accompaniment of the band and amidst the blazing glory of smoking campaign torches.

Thus the world do move.

Hubbard Woods Pupils Plan Hallowe'en Play

Miss Lila Graham's fifth grade at the Hubbard Woods school will present a Hallowe'en play at an assembly to be held at that school next Wednesday morning. In the afternoon the pupils of the school will spend the last half hour of the regular school session at Hallowe'en parties in their rooms.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. White entertained last Wednesday evening at a small dinner party for their daughter, Elizabeth, on the occasion of her ninth birthday.
