Reviews At the North

War in the Air Shown in "Wings" at the Norshore

"Wings," the spectacular picture of war in the air, will be on the screen at the Norshore for a week beginning this Saturday, November 3. The film was first shown in Chicago at the Erlanger last winter, when it was adjudged one of the best pictures of the year. Since then it has been made with sound, and again has been playing to Chicago audiences for several weeks.

Clara Bow, Charles Rogers, Gary Cooper, and Richard Arlen head the cast of "Wings." The acting is good. Many of the settings are unusual. The air battles to the death are not only spectacular but thrilling.

On the stage Al Kvale will lead the Jazz Collegians in "Bowery Blues."

WITH JOHN BARRYMORE

Camilla Horn, the blond European actress who made her American screen debut in "Tempest," starring John Barrymore, again appears opposite him in his latest United Artists' picture, "King of the Mountains," an Ernst Lubitsch production.

William J. Locke, English novelist, is writing an original story, to be filmed as Norma Talmadge's next United Artists' picture.

One of the unusual sights of "Ritzy Rosie," forthcoming picture, will be the appearance of Alice White in a glass evening gown.

Music and Election Returns on Program at Community House

The Community House is offering a special election night program next Tuesday, November 6. In addition to election returns and two feature pictures, George Glover and his syncopators, a six-piece orchestra, and the Troubador glee club will entertain.

"Slightly Used," with Conrad Nagel and May McAvoy, and "Home, James," with Laura LaPlante and Charles Delaney, will be on the screen. The former is the story of an elder sister whose father refuses to let her younger sisters marry until she is "off the shelf" herself. The latter is the story of a department store clerk, played by Miss LaPlante, who comes to the big city to be an artist, but who, instead, sells art goods behind the counter of a large establishment in which she is merely a cog in the wheel. After meeting and falling in love with the boss's son Laura becomes the main cog, as the picture will show you.

"The Student Prince," one of the world's simplest and most appealing love stories, will be shown at the Community House next Friday, November 9, with Ramon Novarro and Norma Shearer in the leading roles. With their love as the central theme, a cast of thirty-five famous players and several thousand extras was necessary to reproduce the famous old story, immortalized on the stage by Richard Mansfield, and recently revived in musical form. "The Student Prince" required one of the most lavish settings ever built for a film.

German Professor Says N. U. Students Queer But Capable

American university women aren't only flighty little girls with short skirts and powdered noses but are splendid scholars and research technicians, says Dr. Ludwig Mueller, German educator who has come to Northwestern university to learn American customs and thought. The scholastic attainment of the women in American colleges equals that of their German sisters and in addition the American coed has life and pep, Dr. Ludwig declares.

"Your students are strange," says Dr. Mueller. "The men beat one another in their fraternity houses and yet they respect and cooperate with each other. In fact, I have never seen such remarkable cooperation as displayed by American student groups.

"The American girl is so intent and so concentrated upon whatever she is doing. In fact, everyone in your universities seems crowded with activities and studies. I do not see how the average student can do so many things in one day."

Dr. Mueller is head of the City Lyceum and Realgymnasium of Barmen in Rhenish Prussia and he comes to Northwestern university as an exchange professor. During the war he served as a major before the American front and was wounded three times. He intends to write a book on American educational institutions when he returns to Germany in July.
