OILOLOGY

by P. Troleum

Napoleon Had a Flivver

And lots of nerve and brass—
His engine stalled in Russia—
'Cause they drank up all his gas.—P. Troleum.

Napoleon learned a costly lesson. Hosts of unthinking motorists have learned theirs also. The wise car owner is steering clear of the inferior and low quality gasolines and oils. He is demanding quick, clean-burning gasoline—smooth, perfect lubrication. The popularity of Red Crown and Ethyl gas and Quaker State oil is evidence that demand is being met.

Better use them regularly.
