Yule Lane Will Be Street to Intrigue Both Old and Young

Yule Lane at Community House Tuesday and Wednesday, December 4 and 5, is going to be a street of lively interest, well worth visiting. It will offer entertainment for the young and gifts for all ages at prices that will appeal to the thriftiest buyers. That is only possible where materials and time have been largely donated. There will be so many articles that cannot be bought elsewhere, lovely hand-made things done by the women of Winnetka throughout the past summer and collected in a series of fascinating shops.

There will be a tea room operated by Mrs. Heber Smith and Mrs. I. B. Connor. Luncheon will be served by Mrs. Royal Hoagland and Mrs. Robert Smith. On Wednesday evening dinner will be served at Yule Lane Inn by Mrs. James White and Mrs. John L. Hamilton.

One feature that promises great pleasure to the youngsters will be the grab-bags for which articles have been carefully selected by Mrs. Lee Adams and Mrs. William Groene. A group of high school girls in costumes of old English street vendors will have them in charge.

The Stitch in Time club, under the direction of Mrs. David Laiser and Mrs. Dudley French, will have the aprons and utilities. Their field covers the thousand and one things that are indispensable to a well regulated home, but are such a bother to make. It will be an opportunity to make needed renewals for one's own home or to select a thoroughly practical gift.

Mrs. Morris Wilson and Mrs. Edmund Bartlett are directing the Boudoir shop which is specializing in pajamas, nightgowns, bed jackets, and pillows. It is a shop of the luxurious necessities and the necessary luxuries. It will be very interesting.

The Children's shop, under the direction of Mrs. J. M. Winscott and Mrs. Warren Agry has charming things for babies and young children. They cover the requirements of children from 10 minutes to 10 years old.

The dolls have a shop to themselves under the management of Mrs. Stephen Foster and Mrs. William Ayer McKinney. There are dolls with beds and wardrobe trunks and numerous changes of costume. There are baby dolls in bassinets whose clothes are like a real baby's and are sure to be the joy of a young mother's life. Then there are French dolls brought over by Mrs. Foster, who spent the summer abroad. There are even automascot dolls for young people who have grown up and cannot have the other kind.

Mrs. Sherman Aldrich and Mrs. Austin D. Jenkins have the Book shop. They are specializing in children's books, but they will have others, and they are in a position to execute orders at prices no greater than elsewhere. They will have Christmas cards, seals, and lovely wrapping papers for Christmas gifts.

The object of the Yule Lane Holiday shops is to raise money for the new church fund, but the spirit of the undertaking is one of good fellowship, and there is an honest effort being made to give full value for every dollar received.

The Dorcas society of Winnetka will meet Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Othar Eilertsen, 1092 Ash street. The assistant hostess will be Miss D. Torgersen.
