Indian Hill Estates Now Mecca for Banker Colony

With the purchase last week of Chateau House, valued at $42,000, by Kellogg Logsdon, sales manager of the Chicago offices of Spencer, Trask and company—Chateau House being located on Blackhawk road, Indian Hill Estates—there is added one more of the LaSalle street bond house fraternity to the very considerable number who already have made their homes in this Wilmette estates community area.

In addition to the purchase by Mr. Logsdon, C. F. Fisher vice-president of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, has purchased three-quarters of an acre on Ramona road, and adjoining the three-quarter acre earlier purchased by George Kremm, vice-president of the Old Dearborn State Bank.

George Young, vice-president of Hoaglund, Allum and company, who leaves them to assume a similar position with Howe, Snow and company, has purchased two lawns, one for himself and one for an associate, just south of the Chateau House of Mr. Logsdon and plans building two houses in the near future.

Another banker is Floyd Weakly, secretary of the Peoples Trust and Savings bank, who was the first resident in Indian Hill Estates, and whose home is located at the corner of Locust road and Blackhawk road.

F. W. Bills, vice-president of The Bills Trust company, with offices at 208 South LaSalle street, has just recently occupied his home to the west on Blackhawk road.

The North Shore Oberlin Women's club will meet with Mrs. F. E. Smith, 1426 Forest avenue, Evanston, Monday at 2:30. Miss Rebecca Ashley, principal of Roycemore, will lecture on "Italian Art."

Tumalty Medicated Baths Brought to North Shore

November 1, saw the opening of the north shore establishment of the famous Tumalty medicated vapor baths. This bath, which has gained a national reputation for its successful treatment of rheumatism, colds, lumbago, neuritis, neuralgia, etc., has heretofore operated only on the south side of Chicago, much to the inconvenience of the patrons from the north shore.

Mr. Tumalty, one of Chicago's pioneers, now 86 years old, invented the bath to cure his own case of rheumatism. When specialists told him that the medicine required to cure his case would probably injure his stomach, he conceived the idea of absorbing the medicine through the pores by medium of steam vapor. With the aid of the physicians he perfected his process to the extent that his rheumatism disappeared. Friends came in and were treated with similar results. They brought their friends. Mr. Tumalty had no desire to commercialize his project; he simply wanted it for his own convenience, but business came and would not be refused. And women found it a pleasant substitute for exercise.

The Evanston establishment is located at 1703 Sherman avenue, directly across from the Varsity theater, and is operated by S. Budahl.

EMPLOYMENT AGENCY MOVES

The North Shore Employment agency announces the removal of its headquarters from 1618 Sherman avenue, Evanston, to the second floor of the Wieland building at 1616 Sherman avenue, Evanston. This agency, which is the oldest on the north shore, was founded in 1905 by Miss Ella Kline; in later years the business was continued by her sister, Mrs. R. L. Chrimes, and is now under the management of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Chrimes. The telephone numbers will not be affected by this removal.
