SKOKIE SCHOOL

"Christmas Books" was the subject of Miss Jane Olson, Librarian at Skokie school, at the Mothers' meeting held last Monday afternoon in Miss Krenwinkle's room. Tea was served by Mrs. Bull and Mrs. Ritchie.

The Social committee of Skokie school is sponsoring its second annual Christmas luncheon and gift tree, December 21, at Skokie school. Both teachers and committee contribute to the tree and the gifts.

Exhibition of Aztec pottery was on this week in Miss Eggbert's and Miss Wilson's rooms, Skokie school. Christmas orders for the pottery are also being taken at Horace Mann school.

GREELEY SCHOOL

On Monday, November 26, Mrs. William F. Coale planned a meeting for Miss Hayes' second grade. Miss Pressler gave a very valuable talk on the meaning and purpose of social activities in the schools.

Tuesday, November 27, a meeting was planned by Mrs. Ralph Snyder and Mrs. Max Murdoch for nursery mothers. Miss Hess talked on toys and books for children of this age. She arranged with Chandler's to send out an exhibit of books to show the parents.

Monday, December 10, all the mothers of the second, third, and fourth grade pupils were invited to hear two talks on books for children. Miss Olson, school librarian, talked of books from a literary standpoint, and Miss Pressler talked of books to enrich the children's background and the social activities work in the school. Each speaker had brought to school an exhibit of the books on which she was to speak, and had prepared mimeographed lists to give the parents.

Miss Nechak's sixth grade children gave a program Wednesday, December 5, for their parents. They told of the medieval feast which they had planned for the Christmas program. This was followed by a talk by Miss Wygant on books for sixth grade children. She gave the mothers mimeographed lists of books most valuable for these children. Tea was served by Mrs. George Johnstone, chairman of that room.

Mrs. J. A. Merrill planned a tea for parents of Miss Baer's room Monday, December 10. These parents were invited to listen to the talks on books given by Miss Olson and Miss Pressler, and following that, to meet Miss Baer and discuss the work of that room.
