

Your Children

By Olive Roberts Barton

THAT properly training a child for a start in this complex civilization is a true science, every parent knows—so does Mrs. Barton . . . She also knows that the science is successful only in its common-sense application—that human nature seldom changes . . . Great today is the child's need of clear, straight thinking, unbiased by prejudice and unwarped by complexes of mind and character . . . Child health, the bulwark of successful character and habit training, is given full attention. . . . Articles that are human, interesting, enthusiastic!

On the Magazine Pages

Today and Every Day in The

CHICAGO EVENING POST

A PAGE FOR EVERY AGE