

The Only Newspaper of Its Kind in the World

The Christian Science Monitor
An International Daily Newspaper

"No intelligent, forward-looking individual who wishes to be truly informed on vital issues of the day and age can afford to be without the CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR."
A University Professor.

"I am sure there can be no newspaper or magazine which can bring the world closer to one's door than the CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR, for its news is assembled from all parts of the world. In its columns one often reads of things and events which do not appear even in one's home paper."
A Traveller.

"What a blessing the postman brings to our home each day in the CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR! I am pleased with the "Daily Features" section. The "Word a Day" is interesting and helpful. Our six year old loves the "Sun Dial" quite as much as the "Children's Page."

Stocking Up on Coal? Buy Certified!

ALL of us who are not more than ninety years away from childhood will remember the fear they held for the threat that Santa would fill the stocking of the bad boy or girl with coal!

As we grow older, one often suspects that stockings filled with good coal would be a very welcome gift, provided no limit was placed on the number of stockings permitted for hanging by the fireplace—or by the furnace, where it would be more convenient.

No, we are not going to suggest that Mother surprise Father with a load of coal on Christmas. But when Father buys CERTIFIED fuel, so that the whole family can enjoy its friendly warmth, he doesn't call it a Christmas gift, but he knows he's doing much to assure the entire household a truly Merry Christmas and a comfortable home!

Note: When we mention good coal and CERTIFIED coal in our advertising, we refer to the same thing. Merry Christmas!
