

BAHA'I LECTURE

"It is New Year; that is to say, the rounding of the cycle of the year. A year is the expression of a cycle of the sun; but now is the beginning of a cycle of Reality, a New Cycle, a New Year, a New Age, a New Century, a New Time and a New Year."

This subject is to be presented in the Baha'i lecture, next Sunday, December 30, at 4 o'clock in foundation hall of Baha'i temple, at Linden avenue, near Sheridan road, Wilmette, when Dr. Albert Vail will speak on "The New Year and the New Cycle."

LEW SARETT ON TOUR

Poet and Lecturer Will Begin Travels in January

Lew Sarett, who will return to Evanston at the beginning of the second university semester in January to resume his classes as member of the faculty of the School of Speech, Northwestern university, will begin a transcontinental lecture tour soon after Christmas, according to word that comes from his home in Laona, Forest county, Wisconsin.

His tour is expected to include a visit to Northwestern before he returns later on to assume his faculty duties and to bring his family here for several months' residence before spring takes them back to their home in the north woods.

Mr. Sarett, widely-known and affectionately regarded by both "town and gown" in Evanston, is a poet whose writings concern chiefly the things of the woods and Indian life and lore. He has written three books of poetry, "May Moons," "The Box of God" and "Slow Smoke," and has another interesting work in the preparation at the present time. He is an advisory editor of "Poetry," and in 1925 won its Helen Haire Levinson prize. He also wrote the ode read at the dedication of the memorial stadium at the University of Illinois.

He has been on the faculty of the School of Speech since 1920 when he came as an associate professor from the University of Illinois. He was later made professor of argumentation and persuasion and has since held the position, taking a recent sabbatical year's absence, and returning the last two years for the second semester to teach at Northwestern.

Holiday Festivities

There Never Seems to Be Enough Time to Enjoy Them

Especially for Mother

Holiday time . . . beautiful . . . spirited
. . . holy . . . significant . . . green with holly . . . red with poinsettia . . . twinkling candles . . . joyous children . . .
happy grown folks . . . a time when everyone is filled with cheer.

The busiest of persons during the holidays—the one who should be the happiest—is Mother. Time is what she needs to enjoy the Yuletide festivities and friends. And Time is what she will have if she gives the family laundry to a Washington Laundry Man.

Mother can enjoy holiday leisure 52
times a year if we do the weekly laundry.
