THE TRIBUNE,

STOUFFVILLE, NOV. 1, 1889.

THE objects and aims of the Literary and Debating Club which was fairly launched on the world on Thursday night are such as to commend the society to the minds of all persons who have a soul above dollars and cents and are disposed to count the acquisition of even a passable facility in the art of expressing one's ideas in intelligible form as a desideratum. It is true that some super-modest individuals are disposed to say that they dispair of ever being able to "make a speech," but these same persons are very frequently able to express their views in conversation very fluently and forcibly and all that is necessary on their part is a fair amount of practice and a cultivation of their quota of assurance (of which, who so unfortunate as to possess none,) in order to make a success of an argument in public.

Beyond this the intelligent discussion of public questions cannot fail to have a broadening influence on the minds of all, whether they take part in the discussion or not, and it is the duty of all Canadians to become as well informed as possible on the vital questions now so prominently before the world and in an especial manner is this true of Canadian affairs. As has been intimated it is intended to introduce the parliamentary form of debate into the meetings of the society and with the form will come the questions. It would be presumptuous in the part of one to endeavor to outline the work of the session, but it may do no harm to mention a few topics which would fairly come within the scope of discussion. The Equal Rights movement has stirred up a healthy feeling of alarm as to the possibility of the undue growth of sectarian and race privileges and it will be wise to examine into the causes and remedies. Out of this would naturally grow the questions of ultramontanism, separate schools, dual languages, etc.

The relation between Capital and Labor is forcing itself more and more on the attention of statesmen and political economists and the various theories propounded for the amelioration of the poor, are full of food for reflection and discussion. The nationalization of the land and assumption of all property and industry by the state might profitably come up for consideration and it is quite possible that many new and original ideas may be advanced.

Again, the Commercial and Political relations of Canada is an all-important subject just now, and whether Unrestricted Reciprocity, Imperial Federation, Independence or a preservation of the status quo would best serve the interests of our country are questions involving not only our sentimental interests but our financial and commercial existence.

These and kindred subjects open up a practically unlimited field for argument and debate and will involve an amount of careful reading and thought which must prove beneficial in emancipating the rising generation of voters from the control of the "machines" and making all who are capable of forming and maintaining an opinion of their own fitter to perform the duties of citizenship. The Club cannot fail to be a pronounced success if members take an enthusiastic hold and keep the interest up to the boiling point.

Maladies Multiply one Another.—A simple fit of digestion may—especially if the constitution is not naturally vigorous—throw the entire mechanism of the liver and bowels out of gear. Sick headache follows, poisoning of the blood by biliousness, and there is grave and serious disturbance of the entire system. Check the threatened dangers at the outset with Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, the medicine that drives every impurity from the blood.

$400 in prizes are offered at the plowing match at Sainthill on Friday, Nov. 8th. Competition is opened to the Dominion.

About ten cars loaded with coal left the track near Holland Landing on Thursday of last week.

WASHINGTON LETTER

From our regular correspondent.

Washington, Oct. 28, 1889.

It is the experience of the Government that it pays more for a given amount of work than a business firm or corporation would pay for similar services. This is so palpably true that whenever it is possible, work is given out by contract, and then the Government has only to look out that the work is performed according to specifications. This does not always result in the absolute protection of the Government, but it is a more economical method than having the work done by salaried employees of its own.

There is one department, however, where the reverse is the case. This is in the Department of Justice. No private firm would attempt to conduct its legal business as economically as does the Government of the United States. Large corporations pay the highest kind of salaries to their legal advisers, and get the best talent that is at the command of money. There is a consequent drift of high-class lawyers in that direction, and the Government, with all its great interests, does not attempt to enter the field in competition. Doubtless it secures many men for much less than their services are really worth, because a lawyer who has been active in politics and has political ambition prefers to take a position where he can look out for the future better than if he were merely pursuing his regular practice. This is rather an uncertain dependence, but it is really surprising how much good legal talent is secured by the United States at salaries far below the income the appointees received when engaged in practice in general.

One of the features of real estate operations here just now is the securing of options by a number of enterprising individuals on sites which are suitable for the location of hotels. In case the exposition of 1892 is held in this city, the present hotel facilities will be largely increased and desirable locations for hotels will be eagerly sought after. There seems to be a growing conviction that this city will be selected and the energetic citizen is preparing to be in the front ranks when the proper time comes. The present facilities in this city for the accommodation of strangers are perhaps superior to those of any other city. The hotels are supplemented by boarding houses, which give to this city an astonishing capacity for entertaining visitors. The reputation of the city in this respect was fully sustained when the Knights Templar were here attending the triennial conclave.

Independent of the fact that the exposition will probably be held here, the movement that has been going on during the past year or so that has resulted in the erection of a number of new hotel buildings and the enlargement of several already built will, it is likely, continue. The growth of the population and the constant increase in the number of visitors to the city has been the cause of the past activity in this direction, and the movement has been merely to meet a legitimate demand.

Army officers are much interested in a longevity ration case now pending before the Second Comptroller involving the question of pay for longevity rations for almost every officer in the Army. The total amount of all the claims involved is about $1,500,000. When the first claim was presented to the Second Auditor it was disallowed. The Court of Claims, however, decided that officers were entitled under the law to allow a 2% for longevity rations and the Supreme Court affirmed the decision. The Second Comptroller still hesitates to allow the claims as he is doubtful whether the decision of the Supreme Court operates to reopen accounts which have already been settled. The Second Comptroller has devoted much time and thought to the case, and has finally written to the Attorney General asking his opinion on the subject. If this should be decided in favor of the officers there will at once commence a raid upon the surplus in the Treasury, which will equal, if not exceed, Corporal Tanner's celebrated attempt to reduce the pile by re-rating all the pensioners.

Nobody in the world thought more of Tanner than President Harrison," said Marshall Randall the other day, and when Corporal Tanner's attention was called to this statement he paused, stroked his chin, and slowly remarked: "Well, perhaps he was wise to dissemble his love. But why did he kick me down stairs?" The query of the lover in the old ballad seems to suit the situation.—L.

HOSPITAL REMEDIES

What are they? The growth of intelligence in medical matters has given rise to a demand for a class of genuine, reliable medicine. The opportunity of the ignorant quack, who grew rich curing everything out of a single bottle has passed. To supply satisfactorily this demand this list of remedies has been created. They are the favorite prescriptions of the most famous medical practitioners of the day, gathered from the hospitals of London, Paris, Berlin and Vienna. Prescriptions which cost the patients of these specialists from $25 to $100 are here offered prepared and ready for use at the nominal price of one dollar each. Not one of them is a cure all; each one has only the reasonable power of curing a single disease, and each one keeps in contract. Sufferers from Catarrh, Diseased Lungs, Bronchitis, Asthma, Consumption, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, Liver and Kidney Complaints, Fever and Ague, Neuralgia, Female Weakness, Leucorrhœa or Nervous Debility, should send stamp for descriptive catalogue to Hospital Remedy Co., 3084 West King St., Toronto, Canada. If your druggist does not keep these remedies remit price and we will send direct.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.

The Special Announcement which appeared in our columns some time since, announcing a special arrangement with B. J. Kendall Co., of Enosburgh Falls, Vt., publishers of "A Treatise on the Horse and his Diseases," whereby our subscribers were enabled to obtain a copy of that valuable work free by sending their address (and enclosing a two-cent stamp for mailing same) is renewed for a limited period. We trust all will avail themselves of the opportunity of obtaining this valuable work. To every lover of the Horse it is indispensable, as it treats in a simple manner all the diseases which afflict this noble animal. Its nominal sale throughout the United States and Canada, make it standard authority. Mention this paper when sending for the "Treatise."

O. B. Comstock, Caledonia, Minn. writes: "I was suffering the most excruciating pain from inflammatory rheumatism. One application of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil afforded almost instant relief, and two bottles effected a permanent cure."

Miss Wilkins, a dressmaker, of Newmarket, on Saturday issued a writ against Joseph H. Belfry, merchant, of the same place, for $5,000 damages because of breach of promise of marriage. It will be tried in Toronto. Belfry kept company with the plaintiff for five years, and was engaged to her. In August last he married Miss Lundy, daughter of ex-Reverend Lundy, of Whitchurch. Miss Wilkins is a sister of Lawyer Wilkins of Toronto.
