The railroads of Russia are being provided with an "umbrella" to protect them from the heavy snows which fall and, covering the tracks seriously interfere with travel. The umbrella consists of a couple of rows of trees, planted in such a manner that the snow will be diverted from the tracks and will collect at other points.

The newest machine for the post-marking of letters has been introduced into the Chicago post-office, and it is said to have a capacity of handling 48,000 letters per hour. It is the invention of Earnest R. Malmberg, of that city, who has spent eight years in its perfection. It has four feeding hoppers, and, when being operated at its full capacity, keeps two men busy feeding and otherwise attending to it.

The war in South Africa is gradually wearing out. The Boers are evidently in a bad plight as neither Botha nor Dewet has been actively engaged for a long time. Horses, ammunition and food are getting scarce among the Boers and they are hopelessly overmatched so that further resistance is the height of absurdity. After spending so much blood and treasure Britain seems determined to make a thorough conquest of the country.

Probate Judge J. J. Walter, of Warakoneta, Ohio, has made application for a patent of a burglar-proof and fire-proof safe of novel design. It is operated on the time-lock principle, and every day at a fixed hour the safe sinks down to the bottom of a fifteen-foot well filled with water, and of course in this element it can be readily seen that it would be very difficult to work on it with tools or explosives. At the opening of business the next morning the safe rises of its own accord again to the surface.

For some years there has been a general agitation throughout the province for the abolition of toll gate Municipal authorities have had power to deal with the matter, but many toll roads still exist. The Honorable G. W. Ross, believing that travel on all highways should be free, brought in a bill during the recent session of the legislature making the purchase of toll roads compulsory, when the ratepayers of the municipalities interested petition the municipal authorities to take the necessary proceedings. The prices to be paid for the roads are to be determined by arbitration and the purchase money may be paid by a county or a township, and, if the municipal authorities cannot agree on any of these plans, they may continue the tolls until the amount required to pay for the road has been collected, but not for a longer term than ten years.

It may surprise most persons to know that the British possessions in North America and the West Indies are larger than the territory of the United States in America, even including Porto Rico and Alaska. King Edward's possessions are nearly 100'000 square miles larger than those of the United States, and, taking the West Indies and Newfoundland more than 200,000 square miles larger.

No man ever reigned over an empire so great as King Edward's. The empire to which Victoria succeeded in 1837 covered one-sixth of the land surface of the globe; the empire to which King Edward has succeeded covers nearly one-fourth. It is 53 times as big as France, 52 times as big as Germany, three and a half times as big as the United States (without Alaska and the island possessions, and three times as big as Continental Europe.

Toronto Council has ordered that that flags be hoisted on all public buildings in Toronto on May 15, the date of the assembling of the first Australian Parliament.

Instructions have been issued to Chief Game Warden Tinsley, to advise the Wardens and Deputy Game Wardens under him, not to prosecute anyone for shooting the wood hare or cottontail rabbit at any season.

A naturalist says that every time a farmer shoots a hawk he throws $50 into the fire, for, though the hawk takes an occasional chicken, it destroys at least a thousand rats, mice, and moles every year.

It is proposed to have a meeting in Toronto on Dominion Day for representatives of all the municipalities in Ontario, for the purpose of discussing ways and means of trying to halt the growing aggressiveness of companies, and in that way protect the interests of municipalities. Circulars are being sent out to the various municipal bodies, inviting them to participate in the meeting.

Railway companies are moving in the direction of demanding abstinence from intoxicants by their employees. Recently, a notice was posted up by the Chicago and Northwestern prohibiting the use of intoxicating liquor in any form or at any time, by their employees. This notice prohibits them from entering saloons or using liquors, and the penalty is instant dismissal. The order applies to all employees alike. It is said that the rule will be adopted by the Grand Trunk.

A gentleman who was once being taken over an insane asylum, asked an attendant how they knew when an idiot was considered to be sufficiently restored to sanity to be discharged. "Oh," said the attendant, "it is easily managed. We take them into a yard where there are several troughs. We turn on the taps and then give the idiots buckets to ball out the water and empty the troughs Many of them keeps bailing away while the taps keeps running, but them that isn't idiots stops the tap."

Oscar Freeman, a Brooklyn inventor, has applied for a patent on a device which, he says, will prevent suicides in hotels by inhaling gas, and also accidental deaths of this character. It gives an alarm at the office of the hotel when the gas in any room approaches a point where it is dangerous to human life, and to demonstrate that it would not allow the escaping gas to get beyond the danger line before ringing the alarm, Mr. Freeman recently tried the apparatus on a rabbit confined in a box. The animal was held prisoner, and the gas turned on; and as soon as the alarm was given the rabbit was taken from its cage, and it had not yet been seriously affected. When it was allowed to escape it did so in quite a lively manner.

An order in Council just passed by the Ontario Government makes new regulations for the prevention and destruction of the coddling moth. These provide that it shall be the duty of the occupant of every lot to scrape all rough bark and all loose bark around wounds from trees, and to place heavy bands of sacking or other suitable material, upon all bearing apple trees and pear trees located upon said lot, and such work shall be completed to the satisfaction of the Inspector not later than the 10th day of June each year. The bands shall between June 20 and September 20 be removed every twelve days, and the larvae therein destroyed. Our opinion is that it would take a host of inspectors to superintend the carrying out of the above order-in-council; besides many people do not know a codling moth when they see it.

Seven hundred doctors refuse to pay to the Medical Association their annual fee of $2, and are airing their grievances at the Parliament Buildings, their names having been erased from the roll of legal practitioners. It is time that a curb were placed upon the absolutism of this organization.

A writer proposes that some eminently habitable island be provided for all convicted of anarchic crime, the inhabitants having been previously removed therefrom. That they should be provided with the means of living for a sufficient time to enable them to get their living from the soil. This would thus have the their ideal conditions—no government and full freedom to follow their own ungoverned will. The community that would be thus formed would find that it had the choice of two courses, either to stick to anarchism, in which the strong would presumably rob the weak, or establish some sort of government. The writer assumes that a revolution against anarchy would certainly follow. It would at all events be an interesting problem to watch.

There are much more profitable investments in this life than bank or railway stocks. We can get more real pleasure occasionally out of a ten dollar bill by spending it in lifting some poor soul out of trouble than we can out of $100 spent on ourselves. We are in reality only stewards of God's property and have no absolute ownership, yet all are hustling with might and main to get the legal possession of all we can, and often regardless of the wants and rights of others. The day is drawing nigh when the veil will be lifted and we shall enter upon the stern realities of the future life, divested of everything material, and be obliged to allow coming generations to enter into possession of our earthly accumulations. It is human to fancy that period far away but it is soon here and the wise man will have taken advantage of the means to be ready for the momentous change.

The depression in trade, which has prevailed in Germany since last autumn, is a serious and disquieting symptom. It has been an extremely severe reminder that the empire which does not lie between autocratic Russia and democratic France for nothing, and has peculiar social difficulties of its own, is acquiring all the evils as wellas the advantages of industrial development. Labor has already begun to be thrown out of work, and it is feared that as summer approaches the numbers of the unemployed will become very large. In the coal trade stocks are accumulating, though the out-put is restricted by laying off night shifts. The state of the metal trades, which are a good index to the general condition, is worse. Many blast furnaces have been blown out, and there is a dearth of orders. The pig-iron syndicate is accused of keeping up its prices beyond reason—for the trust system is spreading rapidly in Germany—and making profitable production of steel impossible. The Koelnische Zeitung pointed out the other day that under present conditions "capital is being swallowed up and there is no recovery many works will be ruined." Here again we must not take too soon as an industrial disaster what may indeed become so, if the general commercial reaction which has set in everywhere should be prolonged and severe. But Germany is suffering from the familiar effects of over-production and over-speculation.

The Backache Stage may be just that incipient form of kidney disease which, if neglected, will develop into stubborn and distressing disorder that will take long tedious treatment to cure. The next combination is one to control watchmaking. The capital is said to be 75 million dollars. The publishers of music are also forming a little combine with a capitalization of from three to five million dollars. A huge deal in American coalfields is also said to be engineered by agents of J. P. Morgan.

Gladstone's advice to young men. Be sure that every one of you has his place and vocation on this earth, and that it rests with himself to find it. Do not believe those who lightly say: "Nothing succeeds like success." Effort, honest, manful, humble effort, succeeds by its reflected action, especially in youth, better than success, which, indeed, too easily and too early gained, not seldom serves, like winning the throw of the dice, to blind and stupefy. Get knowledge, all you can. Be thorough in all you do, and remember that though ignorance often may be innocent, pretension is always despicable. But you, like men, be strong and exercise your strength. Work onward and upward, and may the blessing of the Most High soothe your cares, clear your vision, and crown your labors with reward.

This life in the case of many is continually either a push or a pull. The man who is looking for fame, position or wealth elbows every person aside who is in his pathway, and, if necessary, uses all the "grips" and "signs" possible to make the strongest "pull". He will use money, politicians, and even the church in his efforts. No strings are too servile to be pulled and no person too sacred to escape his machinations. He makes "pull" take the place of brains, energy and integrity. Dignity, honor, and industry are prostituted to mere success and the man becomes indeed a mere machine, losing every vestige nearly of his noble origin and lofty destiny. We are here for the purpose of exercising all our faculties, physical mental and moral, but along right lines, and he who misdirects and misuses his God-given capabilities will at last reap the reward of him who knew God's law and did it not.

A leading railroad lawyer, who has had much to do with human nature, said to a Detroit reporter: "Never cross-question an Irishman from the old sod." And he gave an illustration from his own experience. A section-hand had been killed by an express train and his widow was suing for damages. The main witness swore positively that the locomotive while the had not sounded until after the whole train had passed over his departed friend. "See here, McGinis," said I, "you admit that the whistle blew?" "Yis sor, it blewed, sor." "Now if that whistle sounded in time to give Michael warning, the fact would be in favor of the company, would'nt it?" "Yis, sor, and Mike would be tistifyin' here this day." The jury giggled. "Very well. Now what earthly purpose could there be for the engineer to blow his whistle after Mike had been struck?" "I preshume thot the whistle wor for the nixt man on the track, sor." I quit, and the widow got all she asked.

A newspaper man was asked to publish an article roasting a citizen. "Certainly," he said to the caller, "What shall I say?" He was furnished with an outline of what was wanted, and wrote an article that was a scorcher. "That's splendid," exclaimed the friend, delightedly, when the article was read to him. "That's right that'll make his old hair crinkle!" "All right," said the editor, "let me see what are your initials?" "Good heavens!" said the citizen, you are not going to sign my name to that!" "Why not," asked the editor. "I would'nt have anyone know I had anything to do with that for the world. I can't afford to get into a scrap with my neighbors." The editor smiled benevolently and said, "Why should I mix up in a scrap that does not concern me? Why should you expect me to assume the blame for the publication of an article to which you are afraid to sign your name?" The man stopped his paper and went away mad.
