RAILWAY TRAINING

Some weeks ago, while railway officials were complaining of the scarcity of experienced help, we suggested in these columns that some means should be taken towards the practical training of young men for such positions, and in so doing turn them over to the different railway companies as practical and experienced men and prepared to accept responsible and lucrative positions from the beginning. We are glad to note our suggestion has been acted upon by the establishment of the Canadian Railway Instruction Institute, which has been located in the Oddfellows' Building, corner of College and Yonge streets, Toronto. Upon investigation, we find at the head of it Mr. Hugh Miller, as president, a gentleman of exceptional ability in that line, having been for the past 25 years continuously in the service of the Grand Trunk Railway System in Canada, and the United States, in various responsible positions from that of telegraph operator, to chief despatcher and assistant trainmaster, and having recently resigned the position as agent, Bay City, Mich., to come here and take up the work of educating young men and women in telegraphy, train despatching, freight and ticket clerk and agents work. This is much needed and the young people in Canada should be greatly benefited by its establishment.

FUNERALS IN GREECE.

They are somewhat of a shock to the American tourist.
"One thing sure to shock the American tourist is a Greek funeral," said a recently returned traveler. "It is a spectacle, which most persons of convention governed decency desire to avoid, because the body of the dead is exposed in an open bier. The coffin is shallow, so that not only the face and head, but the hands and much of the body, can be seen from the sidewalk as the procession moves through the streets."
"The lid of the coffin, frequently richly upholstered and decorated with garlands and wreaths, is carried on the bier by the undertaker. The priest, relatives and other mourners follow and as the ghastly spectacle moves along it is customary for bystanders to remove their head gear and cross themselves."
"In the Athens cemeteries graves are rented for a term of years, just like the habitations of the 'hick.' Only the wealthy own burial lots. This is invariably an evidence of wealth or aristocracy. The poor seldom dream of buying a lot or tomb. Such purchases would be deemed among them an unnecessary luxury."
"At the end of the term for which a grave is rented the bones are dug up, placed in a bag, labeled with the name and date and deposited in a general receptacle."
New York Herald.

Rewards For Lost Property.

"More lost and stolen articles would be recovered if the losers would adopt different methods in advertising for their property," said a headquarters detective the other day. "Of course honest persons do not haggle over the remuneration for returning a pocket, a dog or anything else. But every one is not built along those lines. It may sound very nice to say, 'Liberal reward if returned to owner,' but there are different ideas of liberality. The sum usually divides in the mind of the owner when he sees his property before him, and no one knows this better than the finder."
"It is far more effective to set forth a definite sum in the advertisement. Five or twenty-five dollars means more than a vague promise to be real generous. Of course there are cases when it is not wise to be too explicit, but in nine cases out of ten a stated sum will bring better results than an indefinite offer. This is nearly always true with watches with the owner's monogram engraved on the case, as the pawnbroker refuses to loan so much on articles so easily identified."

Read Less, Think More.

The average person of so called culture who has leisure to read reads too much and thinks too little, and in consequence his conversation lacks freshness and spontaneity. An exchange, after saying that people generally read too much and read more than they carry, tells a story of a man who had been a great reader, but had changed his ways, and people after he read less, finding him much more interesting. He exclaimed: "How entertaining John was today! He must have been reading a good deal!"

More Reading is a Waste of Time.

To conduce to intelligence the reader must train the mind to concentration on the subject in hand, and to concentration must be added the effort to clothe and transmit thought in appropriate phrase.

Why do you say he's a wonderful actor?

"He sat through an amateur dramatic entertainment and actually made people think he enjoyed it!"—Chicago Post.

The Japanese Acrobat's Trick.

The little Japanese acrobat, in his short robe of black embroidered with gold dragons, walked slowly up the slanting wire cable to the very roof of the circus tent. There he paused a moment, and then—swish, swish— he slid smoothly and gracefully down the steep wire to the ground. Elevating his voice above the loud applause, an old circus man said: "That sliding trick has never been learned by a European. It's a trick that the Japs alone do. If you watched our little friend you noticed that he always kept the wire between his big toe and the second toe. When he slid, the wire was between his toes. That is the way the Japanese learn to walk the wire, but we English and Americans can't learn to walk in that way because our toes have not the same suppleness and strength. Our toes, confined for generations in unsanitary, tight heavy leather boots, have no muscle and no mobility. To slide down a wire requires well developed toes, first of all. We, therefore, can't match the Japs in this showy, telling and difficult feat."—Philadelphia Record.

Our Chinese Placer Mines.

A place where the Chinese have assumed control of a British Columbia industry is on Wild Horse Creek, in East Kootenay. This is one of the most famous historical placer mining camps, and from it fully $15,000,000 were taken in the early days. The Chinese work the "side hill ground," with modern hydraulic appliances and no little success. The gold they obtain is worth $18.25 an ounce, and the exact amount they win is never told, though it is expected to reach $50,000 for the current year. That it is considerable is shown by their staying by the creek. The Bun Quon company has two six-inch "giants" in operation on the lower part of the Injavia ground. The "nip" and "tick" ground has been leased by Celestials and several other Chinese outfits are working along the top of the creek, taking out an average from three to five dollars a day per man.

To Encourage Latin.

An interim schedule of regulations for high school examinations has been published. One change is to give encouragement to pupils to take the Latin option in languages by allowing all marks over 50 per cent in Latin to count as a bonus on the other subjects. The examinations for the commercial course diploma are abolished, and hereafter each school board will lay out its own commercial course, and grant its own diploma, the object of the change being to provide greater elasticity. Each district may now teach the commercial subjects best suited to its individual requirements. At the same time, cities may place emphasis on stenography, and in towns the greater stress may be put on simpler forms of bookkeeping.
