

550 PEOPLE WERE KILLED

Terrible Disaster in the Iroquois Theatre at Chicago.

A Chicago despatch says: About 550 people were killed in ten minutes on Wednesday afternoon during a fire in the Iroquois Theatre, the newest, the largest, and so far the most human power could make it, the latest theatre in Chicago. Estimates of the dead and injured vary. The police account of the dead is 530. The estimate of the newspapers is 550. The bodies of the dead were piled up in the aisles, on the seats, and on the balconies in great numbers. In some places they were piled up in the aisles, three and four deep, where one had fallen, and others tripped over the prostrate forms and had had their heads crushed by the falling bodies. Others were bent over backs of seats, where they had been thrown by the rush of people for the doors, and killed with hardly a chance to rise from their chairs.

In the aisles nearest to the doors, the scene was horrible. The bodies lay in every conceivable attitude, half-naked, the look on their faces revealing some of the agony which must have preceded their death.

The theatre had been constructed but a short time, and all its equipment was new. The fire started in the rear of the building, where a fire escape in the rear of the building, which the iron ladders were attached, were up, but the ladders had not yet been constructed. When the panic was at its height, a great number of women, who were engaged in the performance, only to find as they emerged from the doorway, upon the little iron platform, that they were 30 to 50 feet from the ground, a fire behind and no method of escape in front.

FORCED FROM FIRE ESCAPES.
Those who reached the platform first endeavored to hold their footing and to keep back the crowd that pressed upon them from their rear. In many moments the iron ladders were jammed with crowds of women, who screamed, fought, and tore at each other like maniacs. This lasted but a brief time, and the rush from the interior of the building became so violent that many of them were crowded out and fell to their death. Payment was made for the iron ladders, and two were picked up at this point, with fractured skulls, having been instantly killed.

GAS TANKS EXPLODED.
Following this rush of bodies, a gas tank exploded in a position which lifted a great mass of the theatre from its walls, shattering the great skylight into fragments. So soon as the flames first appeared beyond the curtain a man in the rear of the hall shouted, "Fire, fire," and the entire audience rose as one person and made for the doors. It is believed that the explosion was caused by the flames coming in contact with the gas reservoirs of the theatre, which were in a position which will have a manager of the theatre, after the catastrophe, that if the people had remained in their seats and had not been excited by the cry of fire, not a life would have been lost. This, however, is contradicted by the statements of the firemen, who found the bodies of numbers of persons sitting in their seats, their faces directed toward the stage, as if the performance were still going on. It was the opinion of the firemen that the gas tanks were situated at the rear of the theatre, and that the flames which came from behind the gas tanks came from behind the gas tanks.

A WALL OF DEAD.
Outside of the people burned, and succumbed by gas, it was in these two doorways, on the first and second balconies, that the greatest loss of life occurred. When the firemen entered the building, the dead were found stretched in a pile, reaching from the head of the stairway at least eight feet from the door, back to a point about five feet in the rear of the door. This mass of dead bodies in the doorway of the doorway reached to within two feet of the top of the passageway. All of the corpses at this point were women and children.

The light for life, which must have taken place at these two points, is something that is simply beyond human power to adequately describe. Only faint idea of its horror could be derived from the aspect of the bodies as they lay. Women of all ages, of all colors, and of all complexions, were crawling on their hands and knees over the bodies of those who had died before. Others lay with arms stretched out in the direction toward which life and safety, holding in their hands fragments of garments, evidently torn from them when they had endeavored to pull down and trample underfoot as they fought for their own lives. As the police removed layer after layer of dead in these doorways, the sight became too much even for the police and firemen, hardened as they are to such scenes.

The bodies were in such a terrible mass, and so tightly were they jammed, between the sides of the door and walls, that it was impossible to lift them one by one and carry them out. The only possible thing to do was to seize a limb or some other portion of the body and pull with main strength.

FIGHTFUL SCENES ENACTED.
Men worked at the task with tears running down their cheeks, and the sob of the rescuers could be heard

CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.

A Montreal despatch says: There cannot be any doubt that Dr. Marcorek of the Pasteur Hospital in Paris has found a positive cure for all tuberculosis diseases, and the first exhibition of his cure on this side of the Atlantic will be given in this city. Dr. Marcorek has kindly given me all the instruments required for the treatment, and the first patient upon whom it will be tried in Canada will be a gentleman from Glasgow, who accompanied him to Canada and is suffering from tuberculosis of the lungs. The cases that I saw cured included all kinds of tuberculosis of the throat, and lungs, and it was found that in every instance the serum killed all the germs.
