

A CAUSE OF INDIGESTION

People Who Complain of This Trouble Usually Are Thin Blooded.

Thin blooded people usually have stomach trouble. They seldom recognize the fact that thin blood is the cause of the trouble, but it is. In fact, thin, impure blood is the most common cause of stomach trouble: it affects the digestion very quickly. The glands that furnish the digestive fluid are diminished in their activity; the stomach muscles are weakened, and there is a loss of nerve force. In this state of health nothing will more quickly restore the appetite, the digestion and normal nutrition than good rich, red blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly on the blood, making it rich and red, and this enriched blood strengthens weak nerves, stimulates tired muscles and awakens the normal activity of the glands that supply the digestive fluids. The first sign of improving health is an improved appetite, and soon the effect of these blood making pills is evident throughout the system. You find that what you eat does not distress you, and that you are strong and vigorous instead of irritable and listless. This is proved by the case of Mrs. J. Harris, Gerrard St., Toronto, who says: "About three years ago I was seized with a severe attack of indigestion and vomiting. My food seemed to turn sour as soon as I ate it, and I would turn so deadly sick that sometimes I would fall on the floor after vomiting. I tried a lot of home remedies, but they did not help me. Then I went to a doctor who gave me some powders, but they seemed actually to make me worse instead of better. This went on for nearly two months, and by that time my stomach was in such a weak state that I could not keep down a drink of water, and I was wasted to a skeleton and felt that life was not worth living. I was not married at this time, and one Sunday evening on the way to church with my intended husband I was taken with a bad spell on the street. He took me to a drug store where the clerk fixed up something to take, and my intended got me a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. By the end of the first week I could feel some improvement from the use of the pills, and I gladly continued taking them until every symptom of the trouble was gone, and I was again enjoying the best of health. These pills are now my standby and I tell all my friends what they did for me."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

GERMAN SOLDIERS HOMESICK.

Write Their Letters From the Front in Melancholy Tones.

The "Kölnische Zeitung" remarks that it has been generally observed that numerous letters from German soldiers at the front are couched in melancholic tones, giving to friends and relatives the impression that the writer is sad, and filling the hearts of those at home with uneasiness. And yet, after exact investigation, says the "Kölnische," it has been proved that the writers of these letters are in excellent spirits. What, then, is the explanation? The writers are simply afflicted with homesickness. They are thinking of their homes. They do not wish to make those at home sad or cheerless, but so long as they have a pen in their hands they see their home life swim before their eyes, and hear the children's talk, they see the friendly faces of wives, parents, friends; they see the sunshine round their homes, and a longing for the old life and peace comes over them. It is this that casts a shadow over their surroundings, and this shadow finds its expression in their letters. As a matter of fact, says the "Kölnische," they do not know what they have written. After they have written and sealed their letters they wonder what they hear from home, why their friends are all so anxious about them. That is the explanation. It is only homesickness.

Simply Ferocious. "Yes," said the cynical old sea captain, "when I was shipwrecked in South America I came across a tribe of wild women who had no tongues." "Good gracious!" exclaimed a listener. "How could they talk?" "They couldn't," was the reply. "That was what made them wild."

GREAT BRITAIN'S PRIME CONDITION

JOHN BULL'S REMARKABLE FINANCIAL POSITION.

Lending to Russia, France, Italy and Serbia, and Supporting Belgium.

John Hart, political economist and director of "London Opinion" Corporation, who has just arrived in the United States, gives a lucid explanation of the financial conditions of Great Britain. He says: "Notwithstanding the heavy expenditure of Great Britain since the outbreak of the war, and the heavy drafts upon the public, the debt of Great Britain to-day is only about one-half of what it was per capita at the end of the Napoleonic War. In 1816, just after the Battle of Waterloo, the public debt per capita was £48. That amount in proportion to the income of the country at that time, compared with the income of the present day, represented a debt of £120 per head. In August, 1914, the public debt was £14 per capita, and every one thousand millions of pound sterling issued since represents £20 per capita; so that the present day debt of Britain is not much more than 50% of the equivalent debt at the end of the Napoleonic War."

A Creditor Nation. "It should be borne in mind that England is financing France, Italy, Russia and Serbia in the present war, and is carrying the entire charge of Belgium. The money so employed is loaned to these nations so that England is still largely a creditor nation. The financial condition of Great Britain at this advanced period of the war is most remarkable. The markets are all buoyant, the minimum restriction on sales of stocks is being removed, and as they reach a proper level as regards the value of money to-day (due to war conditions), there is a tremendous amount of money for investment. A large part of the money whereby England is financing herself and other nations is the proceeds of the sale of American securities, made by private holders to the British Government, which is being used as it is collected. Another large part is derived from the enormous amount of profit being made by manufacturers of war supplies. Then again, the restriction imposed by the Government on the investment of British capital outside of the country is responsible for a tremendous amount of money being kept at home which would otherwise find investment abroad.

Benefits of Advertising "Strange as it may sound, an enormous portion of the money raised by the British Government has been due to advertising. For the first time in history the British Government has made use of the gratuitous service of some of the leading advertising men, which service has been immensely profitable to the Government. The British Treasury has used the same methods adopted by high-class mercantile houses to sell their goods and they have succeeded beyond expectation. A very large amount of the five-year Treasury bonds has been sold to the working classes. The lowest denomination of these bonds is £1, which is sold as advertised for 16s. 6d. for which amount the investor obtains the face value of the bond at maturity; or, in other words, he makes a profit of 4s. 6d., or a little over 29% in the five years, which represents nearly 6% annually.

It is calculated that 70% of the war revenue is contributed by payers of income tax and other direct taxation, that is by persons whose income is above $800 per annum, and only 30% by those with smaller incomes. The entire taxation, direct and indirect, last year amounted to about $350,000,000. Of the $5,000,000 daily war expenditures of England about 40% is coming back to the country in wages and expenditures for war supplies; about 40% is money loaned to the Allies, the colonies, India, and other dependencies, so that of the total amount only about 20% is an actual charge against the Government."

ARMY GROWS POTATOES. British Soldiers Planting Between Camp Huts. The army has started to grow its own potatoes. Instructions have been sent, or are being sent, from the War Office to every command, indicating the lines which should be followed, says a story from British army headquarters.

Military requirements are very large and little more than half the usual supplies of potatoes are coming into the markets, with the result that pre-war prices to the public are nearly doubled. At one camp in Surrey digging operations began last week, and the seed potatoes are to be planted in a few days in rows between the huts. A number of men are being told off each day for digging, and others are being asked to help in spare time. At a camp in Yorkshire potato growing began some weeks ago. It is understood that instructions will soon be issued for the growing of vegetables.

And the more some people are worth the more worthless they are.

A FAMOUS HORSE.

Thoroughbred Stallion "Anmer" Will Be Seen at Canadian National Exhibition.

In the interests of the breeders of Ontario and the united efforts of the various breed societies to encourage the farmers and breeders of Canada to raise horses that will meet the demand expected from buyers from foreign countries during the years succeeding the termination of the war, the Canadian National Exhibition, at Toronto, has arranged with the Dominion Government and the Canadian Thoroughbred Horse Society to have Anmer, the thoroughbred stallion presented by His Majesty, King George, as a sire suitable to improve the stock in Canada, paraded every afternoon during the Exhibition.

As an encouragement to breeders the Thoroughbred Horse Society has decided to distribute the revenues obtained from "Anmer's" stud fees in premiums at Agricultural Shows to classes of horses sired by a thoroughbred, which are best suited for remount and cavalry purposes.

Thoroughbred Stallion "Anmer."

"Anmer" is a beautifully bred horse and stands over 16 hands, with plenty of quality and substance, and a good disposition. He was elected by Lord Marcus Berezford from the Royal stud as a horse most suitable for the Canadian requirements, and has been pronounced by successful breeders to be the best stallion that has ever left the shores of the world's greatest nursery.

It will be remembered that in 1913 "Anmer" won the King's Derby cup and was running well up in that historic event when a suffragette ran out on the course, endeavoring to snatch at the bridle. "Anmer" was thrown and the woman was trampled to death. The fall also nearly proved fatal for the jockey, Herbert Jones.

"Anmer" was a winner in England in the 1 1/4 miles Hastings plate, second in the Payne Stakes, third in the Newmarket, St. Ledger and Royal Stakes. His sire, Florizel II, was a winner of the Ascot Gold Vase, Jockey Club cup, Goodwood cup and Manchester cup and an own brother to Diamond Jubilee and Persimmon, both Derby winners for the late King Edward and both successful sires. Diamond Jubilee was sold at the end of his racing career for $150,000 to go to the Argentine Republic, where he has headed the list of winning sires for several years. Guinea Hen, the dam of Anmer, is also a winner and the dam of Brakespear, Pintadeau and Jungle Cock. She is by Gallinule, sire of the great Pretty Polly.

The gracious and timely action of King George in presenting to Canada such a stallion for the improvement of thoroughbred stock is very much appreciated by horsemen. "Anmer" has been quartered at Ennislaire farms, Oakville, but will be brought in to Toronto for the whole period of the Exhibition, the only place where the Thoroughbred Horse Society has consented to exhibit him.

Seven Out of Twenty Males Engaged in War Duty. The Bulletin of the Armies of the Republic, which is sent to all French soldiers at the front, published recently a page of statistics showing how the whole of the French nation actually takes part in the war.

Out of every twenty Frenchmen six or seven are actually under arms or engaged in manufacturing munitions. The unit of twenty is composed of the following: One aged or infirm, two small children, two boys at school, two young men under military age either studying or working, four to five soldiers mobilized, one or two men working in munition factories, three engaged in agriculture, three uncalled working men or clerks.

There is only one man in France out of every forty in governmental positions, such as functionaries, judges and teachers.

PEARLS OF TRUTH. A "just and lasting peace" cannot, in the present case, be negotiated. It must be imposed.—Ocell Chesterton. He who does wrong does wrong against himself. He who acts unjustly acts unjustly to himself, because he makes himself bad.—Marcus Aurelius. Men serve the wealth which they seem to command. There is no slave so helpless as the greedy man whom gold makes greeder still.—W. H. Phelps. A man cannot speak but he judges himself. With his will, or against his will, he draws his portrait to the eye of his companions; by every word.—Emerson. There is some help for all the defects of fortune; for if a man cannot attain to the length of his wishes he may have his remedy by cutting them shorter.—Covley. A spinster says an old bachelor is a man who has overlooked an opportunity to make some woman miserable for life.

YOUNG FOLKS

The Circus Baby.

Before Billy Hall was a year old and of course long before he ever saw a circus, or even knew what a circus was, they called him "the circus baby."

It came about this way: One Saturday in June just after the circus came to Belton Dick and Dorothy, who are Billy's brother and sister, joined with a dozen or more other little folk of the neighborhood in having a circus of their own in the Halls' big stable. Dick was one of the clowns. He wore a long gown, spotted with many colors, a big ruff round his neck and a pointed paper cap on his head. Dorothy was a Spanish dancer, with a dress of bright colors and many ribbons in her hair.

What fun they had that day! To be sure, the cat that was to be the tiger in the menagerie got out of the box and ran away; and old Major, the Newfoundland dog, was too good-natured to make the right kind of lion; but most of the other animals did very well indeed, especially the rabbit that was a kangaroo and the toy snake that jumped out of a box.

The performance itself was wonderfully pleasing to those who saw it from the row of boxes that served for seats. When Tom Skinner hung by his toes from the flying rings above the haymow there was much hand-clapping, but there was even more when Dick, the clown, tried to do the same thing, only to tumble into the hay below. And when Dorothy had danced gracefully on the bottom of an overturned box, Dick climbed up on the box to do the same thing, and fell through the bottom of the box and disappeared inside.

When the performance was over, "Reddy" Carter, the ringmaster, made an announcement: "Ladies and gentlemen," he shouted, "don't miss the great side show! It is sabetter than the main performance! Step right into the house and see the wild man of Borneo! He has been in this country only a few months. No one can understand a word of his language, and he has to be kept in a strong cage. Step right in and see the wild man of Borneo!"

So everyone that was there, with many giggles and whispers, filed into the house. There they found that "the wild man of Borneo" was Betsy Billy, who was lying in his crib, which was indeed a strong cage for him. Anr of course it was true that no one could understand a word of his language, although it was plain that he was trying to tell his callers something very important.

When they had all gone, Dick and Dorothy lingered a moment beside Billy's crib. "Wasn't he a dear?" cried Dorothy. "No one did his part better than Billy!"

"That's so," agreed Dick. "And see, he's trying to stand on his head now!"

"No, he's just trying to get his foot into his mouth," answered Dorothy, "but he's doing it easier than anyone else in the circus could."

"Next year we'll have him in the main performance," said Dick, "and perhaps he'll make even more of a hit than he did to-day."—Youth's Companion.

THIRD OF FRENCH SERVE. Different. Redd—An automobile is so different from a horse. Greene—Why, of course. "You see, a horse goes faster when he's going home than when going away from home."

"Well, doesn't an automobile?" "Oh, no; you see, an automobile often has to be towed home."

A Flat-Dweller's Stratagem. Mrs. X.—"Bothered with time-wasting callers, are you? Why don't you try my plan?" Mrs. Y.—"What is your plan?" Mrs. X.—"Why, when the bell rings I put on my hat and gloves before I press the button. If it proves to be someone I don't want to see, I simply say: 'So sorry, but I'm just going out.'"

Mrs. Y.—"But suppose it's someone you want to see?" Mrs. X.—"Oh, then I say: 'So fortunate, I've just come in.'"

Taking a Chance. Lawyer—What evidence have you that he promised to marry you? Girl—What evidence? Why, my face, my form, and my sweet disposition.

Lawyer—Well, I'll do my best to get a near-sighted bachelor jury. The trouble is that by the time a girl is old enough to help mother wash the dishes, she is also old enough to know that sort of work makes her hands red.

Lashing a Lazy Liver

with pills may give temporary relief—but the pill habit is not a health habit. It will put the liver out of business in time—and then everything else goes out of business. Get the health habit by eating Shredded Wheat Biscuit, the ideal hot-weather food, which contains more digestible, brain-making, muscle-building material than beefsteak or eggs. The tasty, delicious crispness of the baked wheat gives palate joy and stomach comfort. It supplies the maximum of nutriment in smallest bulk, and its daily use keeps the bowels healthy and active. For breakfast with milk or cream, or for any meal with fresh fruits. Made in Canada

Pepsin Supplanting Rennet.

A Wisconsin cheese firm, in a letter to the Trade Bulletin, states there is a revolution in cheese making in that state, owing to the use of pepsin instead of rennet. It coagulates the milk better, is of uniform strength, and the test of the whey shows that there is less butter fat and solids in the whey. The price of pepsin is very much cheaper.

They have cheese on hand made with pepsin that are four to six weeks old, and the curing process seems to be identical. The factories are using about 3-8 to 1-2 ounce of pepsin dissolved in warm water at about 90 degrees temperature, then emptied into a bucket of water and put into the milk the same as they have always done with rennet. The use of pepsin will materially relieve the situation on the scarcity of rennet, in fact they believe that in the future pepsin will be used instead of rennet.

GEN. SMUTS' CONQUEST.

Usambara Described as the Gem of German East Africa. Wilhelmstal, the capital of the Usambara Highlands, was occupied a short time ago by General Smuts, and as the enemy have abandoned its support, Tanga, it would appear that the whole of this region, the most settled and most prosperous part of German East Africa, will shortly be in undisputed possession of the British.

Its healthy climate, picturesque valleys and mountains, and luxuriant vegetation attracted attention to Usambara from the first establishment of German rule, and its nearness to the coast rendered it easily accessible. To-day it possesses scores of thriving plantations, pleasant and well-built towns, and excellent roads. Its European population is about 8,000.

Bordered east and west by arid scrub-covered steppes, north by open country, and south by dense jungle, the highlands form an oasis in the wilderness. Extending southeast and northwest for 75 miles, they vary in breadth from 1 to 45 miles. The hills rise abruptly 1,500 feet to 1,700 feet from the surrounding plain, and the most lofty peaks are over 7,500 feet above the sea. The valleys, deep and narrow, through which rush picturesque torrents, and the hillsides, are under cultivation; the native population is dense, and long before the coming of the white man they had flourishing and extensive shambas. Soon after the proclamation of the German protectorate a site in one of the south-western valleys was chosen as a Government post. Named Wilhelmstal, in honor of the Kaiser, it has grown into a considerable town, with fine public and private buildings.
