Built like an Army Tank-- that's why the Cleveland is so efficient!

THE ability to travel over almost any soil—that's why the Cleveland always stays at work. That's why it gets so much work done.

And it is small enough to turn around in the corners—to get into the farm lots—saves the waste ground that can't be reached by the ordinary Tractor.

Yet there is sufficient power and speed to enable it to get a great volume of work done. Pulls a two-bottom plow—at a speed of 3½ miles per hour. Plows 8 to 10 acres per day.

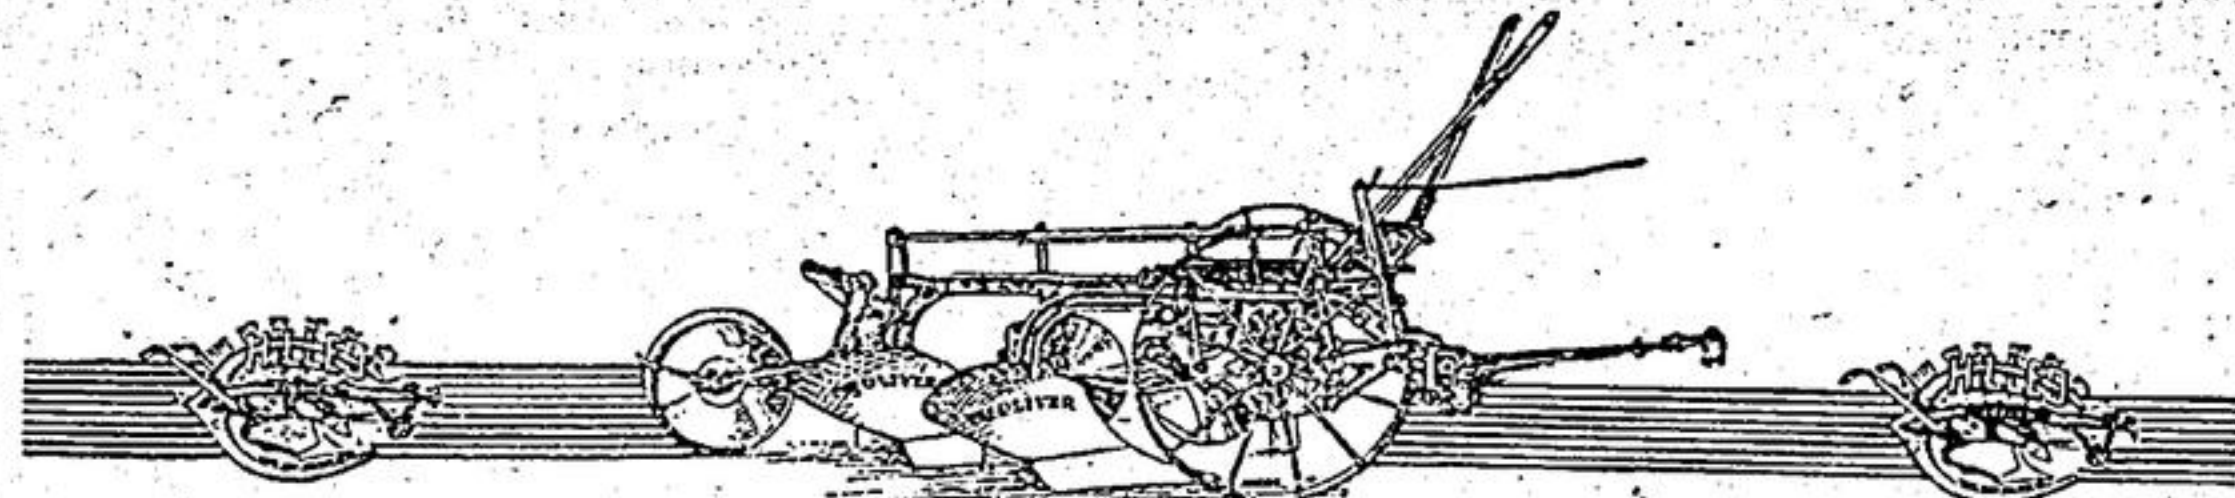

Easy to operate—economical on fuel—the Cleveland is a machine for the farm. Thousands are now in use—building profits—making farms more productive.

Use it with an Oliver Plow

An Oliver plow and a Cleveland tractor is a splendid plowing combination for any farm. The Oliver plow is superior from every viewpoint. It was designed especially for tractor work. Buries all weeds and trash at the bottom of the furrow—maintains an even depth of plowing—is controlled from the driver's seat on the tractor.

Come in and let us explain the many other good features of the Cleveland tractor and Oliver plows.

The way of the coal dealer will be harder than it has been, according to legislation that went through the House recently at the instance of Hon. W. D. McPherson. Municipalities are given power to pass a by-law prohibiting coal dealers from booking or taking orders for coal early in the season under promise of delivery later. The dealer cannot take the order under such a by-law unless in the position to make the delivery. He cannot deceive the purchaser.

SEED POTATOES

Do Farmers escape tax

The Toronto Saturday Night contains the following comment concerning the farmers and the income tax:

The income tax collectors found, says the Toronto "Globe" the following farmers with taxable incomes: Ontario, 396; Quebec 30; New Brunswick, 4; Nova Scotia 12; Alberta, 2,326; and Manitoba 1,454. If these figures are correct, and the income tax collectors cannot do better, then our system of income taxation falls by the wayside. Just imagine only 396 farmers paying taxes in Ontario, one of the richest Agricultural districts in the world. In 1916 the value of the Ontario farmers' live stock was $385,000,000; the value of Ontario's field crops in the same year amounted to $190,000,000; the acres tilled in Ontario amounted to 7,600,000, while the rural population, according to the last census figures, stood at 1,194,000. And out of all this 396 Ontario farmers too the scratch and acknowledge that they have incomes of upwards of $3000 per year. Alberta and Manitoba farmers should sit up and take notice. Old-fashioned rural Ontario is not so slow after all. For one thing it is self-evident that their book-keeping methods would do credit to the late Jesse James.

All of which reminds me that Sir Thomas White, in the early days of the war, in discussing the practical side of the income tax, expressed his inability to see how it would gather in any great amount of wealth. As Sir Thomas spent his youth in close touch with the farming community it is self-evident from these returns that he had information which was not then available to the average mortal. In any event, the Finance Minister was right and the rest of us were wrong. The Eastern farmer will not pay his shot. He is quite prepared to take all the good which the gods give in the way of outrageous prices for his produce, but when it comes to bearing his share of the load of taxation, not for him, as the returns go to show."
