

WHAT DOES YOUR MIRROR REVEAL?

Does it Tell You That Your Blood is Thin and Watery?

When a growing girl becomes pale, complains of exhaustion, dizzy spells, headache and stomach trouble, she should know that these things are evidences of anaemia or bloodlessness. A glance in the mirror will tell the story. There is immediate need for a tonic, a system builder that will completely restore the missing qualities to the blood that every part of the body will share in the benefit.

A good example of the result of wise treatment in cases of this kind is given by Mrs. George R. Smith, of Queensport, N.S., who says: "I cannot praise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills too highly for what they have done for my three daughters. My oldest daughter, Edna, at the age of 14, became run down, and I got her three boxes of the pills, and by the time she had taken them she was in good health, and is now a healthy married woman. My second daughter, Martha, at the age of 16, was awfully run down and pale. In fact she had always been a delicate child, but gradually became worse. At last she could not go upstairs without having to sit down and rest, and could not even do any kind of light work without being greatly fatigued. Finally I gave her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after taking them we found they did her more good than all the other medicine she had taken, and she is now in good health. Then my younger daughter, Greta, now 15, became so run down that she had to stop going to school. But after taking eight boxes of the pills she is now a big, healthy girl. I feel that after what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done in my home there can be no doubt of their value, and I hope someone else will benefit from our experience."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail post-paid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Birds Rob Chickens.

Any observant person may notice that sparrows are no longer numerous in the streets of our cities. It is because food is lacking. The sparrows, thus driven from their urban haunts, have sought to pick up a living in the suburbs and outlying farming districts. They have become a very serious nuisance to poultry raisers, especially in winter, when they invade chicken yards in flocks, and even make themselves at home in poultry houses, devouring the feed provided for the fowls.

It is no trifling matter, for fifty sparrows will eat a quart of grain per day and will spoil three times as much as they consume. But the chief trouble is that they spread disease, particularly the dreaded chickenpox.

Poultry keepers find themselves obliged to make their chicken houses sparrow-proof with wire net. Many of them have resorted to systematic trapping. Sparrows are easily trapped and can be skinned with a mere twist of the fingers. Thus dealt with, and with the wings and legs pulled off, they make, when boiled, most excellent food for chickens.

Planes Hunt Fish.

The airplane service of the United States Fisheries Bureau has proved especially useful in locating, for the benefit of fishermen, the menhaden, which travel about in schools numbering millions at the surface of the sea, their presence being indicated by a widespread rippling. Menhaden are not good to eat, but their oil has high commercial value, and, after it has been pressed out, the residue makes an excellent fertilizer. During the last year the production of menhaden oil in the United States was 3,676,453 gallons. This was more than the output of whale oil, which was 3,073,574 gallons. The production of herring oil was 380,379 gallons, and of cod-liver oil, 196,108 gallons. Other oils of marine origin, including that derived from sharks' livers (commonly sold as cod-liver oil), totalled 1,060,323 gallons.

Unreasonable.

Angry Customer—"See here, you overcharged me for that suit and it was full of moths."

Tailor—"What do you expect for fifteen dollars. Humming birds?"

A Love Feast.

Better is a dinner of herbs where love is, than a stalled ox and hatred therewith.

The first key which opens the door of success is the trading instinct, the knowledge and sense of the real value of any article.

The annual report of the Chief Inspector of Stock of Western Australia shows that there are no fewer than 5,995 camels in that section of the Commonwealth.

Think this over. The Great War lasted from August, 1914, to November, 1918. The estimated cost (not including loss of property) was $186,000,000,000. A total of 12,990,000 men were killed and 20,300,000 men were wounded. And still some men refuse to believe in limitation of armament.

Surnames and Their Origin

MacKINLEY
Variations—Mackinlay, Macinally, Macinally, MacNally, MacGinley.
Racial Origin—Scottish and Irish.
Source—A given name.

The origin of these family names is more or less confused, concerning the clans from which the various forms come, so that the following explanation must be accepted as general, and allowances made for the fact that there are numerous individual exceptions.

For the most part, then, these names are founded on the Gaelic given name of "Findia" or "Fionnladh," which has given rise to the Scottish family names of Findlay, Finlay, Finley, Finlayson, and the like.

In fact, Mackinlay is but another form of "MacFinlay" (which spelling is not to be met with, the Gaelic form being "MacFionnladh.")

Such forms as Maekinley, Mackinlay and Macinally are to be found mostly among descendants of the Clan Buchanan, but there was also a small sept of this name in the Clan MacFarlane. Sometimes, too, these names are changed spellings of "Mac-an-Leight," an entirely different name, which is found principally among the Stewarts of Appin. But this should more properly be rendered English by MacLay or MacLeay, ay.

The forms MacGinley and MacN22, (occasionally) are also derivatives of the foregoing Scottish sept names transplanted into Ireland in many cases, though there are other channels through which similar names have been developed in Ireland.

A Doll That Swims.

Altogether a novelty is a swimming doll which owes its invention to an Illinois man. It can dive, and cut all sorts of capers in the water.

In the body of the manikin (which is made of wood) is a hollow chamber that extends up into the head. Similar chambers are provided in the upper arms, the forearms, the thighs and the lower limbs. In these cavities small quantities of lead shot are placed.

The arms are pivoted at the shoulders and elbows; the legs likewise at the hips and knees. Thus the doll is jointed, and the limbs may be made to assume any position desired. They have, however, a frictional grip sufficient to hold the joints fixed when set. If the manikin is to dive, the arms and legs are adjusted suitable for that action. Then, when it is plunged into water the shot in the body-and-head chamber gravitate to the upper end thereof, and it sinks head foremost until, as it assumes the horizontal, the head rises; the shot presently falling into the lower part of the body cavity and causing the doll to ascend on a slant to the surface like a real diver.

Marvels of the Tongue.

When we speak of the "sense of taste" we think at once of the tongue, for here is the seat of the principal nerves of taste, transmitting the sensation which we call "taste" directly to the brain and registering an impression there precisely as sound or pain registers.

But, in order to be apparent, the object tasted must be at least partially dissolved, either in water or in the natural fluid—saliva—secreted by the glands of the mouth, for even substances with marked tastes, such as salt or quinine, will not make the "taste impression" upon the brain unless applied in the form of solution to the nerves of the tongue or throat. These nerves are not regularly distributed through the mouth, but are clustered together at the tip of the tongue and at the back than they are at the centre and the sides.

The difference in tastes noticeable in different kinds of substances is due to the effect which these solutions have upon the brain cells which control our nerve-reactions, just as sounds have varying intensities and the nerves of feeling indicate different degrees of pain or pleasure.

The Christian indeed is allowed to rejoice where other men rejoice; but he is also bound to rejoice where others cannot.—Jeremy M. Vernon.

DRUMMOND

Racial Origin—Scottish.
Source—A locality.
Ask the average person the nationality of the family name of Drummond and he is likely to opine that it is English. The Scot knows better, as does anybody familiar with the names of the principal Highland clans.

Still, if you want to be unusually particular, and trace the name back to its real origin, when it was first used as a descriptive surname, you'll find that it is neither English nor Scottish, but Hungarian.

"Dryman" was the form in which it was brought into England from Hungary prior to the advent of the Normans to that island.

Do you wonder what Hungarians were doing in Anglo-Saxon England?

Royal marriage has established the connection between the two countries. The mother of Edgar Atheling, the fugitive Anglo-Saxon successor to the English Crown at the time of the Norman invasion, was Agatha, daughter of the King of Hungary. With Edgar in his flight to Scotland and the court of King Malcolm III, Malcolm Cananmor went one "Maurice de Drymen," a Hungarian nobleman. De Dryman won favor with the Scottish monarch and received from him grants of land in the Highlands. From his first fol-

Properly repaired it will give you a more permanent part in the "battle or usanooburn" under Robert the Bruce, and in the rebellions of "15" and "45," losing their lands and their chiefs, who fled to France until the restoration of the rights of the Scottish nobles.

WINTER HARD ON BABY

The winter season is a hard one on the baby. He is more or less confined to stuffy, badly ventilated rooms. It is so often stormy that the mother does not get him out in the fresh air as often as she should. He catches colds which rack his little system; his stomach and bowels get out of order and he becomes peevish and cross. To guard against this the mother should keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the house. They regulate the stomach and bowels, and break up colds. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BITS OF HUMOR FROM HERE & THERE

Quite True.
"I see that Marconi has invented a device by which you can see through brick walls."

"Somebody invented that long ago." "Who was it?" "The man who first thought of putting windows in 'em."

Unique.
"The way to run this country," said Knowitall, "is to put thoroughly wise, capable, alert and honest men in control of affairs."

"Yes," answered Miss Keen, "but what are we to do—there is only one of you?"

Still Missing.
Johnny—"Say, paw, I can't get these 'rithmetic examples. Teacher said 'somethin' 'bout findin' the great common divisor."

Paw (in disgust)—"Great Scott! Haven't they found that thing yet? Why, they were huntin' for it when I was a boy."

A Guess.
A leading citizen of an Ohio town was stricken with appendicitis and an operation was deemed necessary. The editor of the local paper, a pessimistic sort, heard of this and printed this "personal" about it:

"Our esteemed fellow citizen, Rufus G. Getthem, will enter the hospital tomorrow to be operated upon for the removal of his appendix by Dr. Smithers. He will leave a wife and two children."

Her Good Idea.
A little girl in a poor family has to wash a great many dishes. Someone began sympathizing with her one day, remarking what "drugery" it must be.

"No," she replied. "It's great fun. I have given each dish a name, and they are all my children—my dolls. I talk to them while I am washing them and drying them. I pretend that I am dressing them. I like to have them all nice and clean. And I'm sure they like me for looking after them so well. It's lots of fun."

The man who is not afraid of failure seldom has to face it.
