EDITORIAL COMMENT

Slowly but surely the tax tentacles are closing around the man or woman who has a large or fairly large income. Bachelors are being hit doubly hard. It's enough to drive the most confirmed old bachelor to take a chance on conjugal felicity. The Walkerton Telescope puts it thus:

"When the assessor starts on his rounds in February he will have a new item added to his duties. That will be the lining up for municipal income tax of all citizens who are at present paying income tax to the Dominion government. In the past the only persons assessed locally for income have been men of known income such as salaried government officials, school teachers etc. But under the Assessment Amendment Act of 1922 passed at the last session of the Legislature, the term 'income' is defined as including all persons deriving money from wages, business profits, interest from investments, and every known way of getting money together. The exemptions are to be the same as under the Dominion Act, i.e. $2000 for householders as heads of families, $1,000 for bachelors etc. in towns and cities, and $1700 and $800 in villages and townships; $200 is deducted for every child under 18 years or other dependant (under the Dominion law it is now $300)."

The public library building being now completed, the Library Board will shortly be planning to move into the new premises. We notice by the annual report prepared by the Board for the Government that there are 6,668 volumes now on the shelves. There were 328 books added last year, all being purchased and not donated. The number of books and magazines read during the year totalled 18,705, and of this amount fiction, as is usually the case received the greatest patronage. The books in the library are valued at over $5,000.

The grants last year to the Board for maintenance were: Municipal $525, Legislative $142 and County $25. These of course are the chief source of revenue.

The members of the Library Board are: Rev. R. Young, chairman Reeve W. E. Morden, Dr. F. A. Dales H. W. Sanders, A. E. Booth, A. C. Burkholder and W. A. Silvester (treasurer). Miss C. A. Chapman is librarian and also acts as secretary for the Board.

AGAINST CONSOLIDATION

Editor Tribune
In answer to Mr. Hutchison's letter re Claremont-Webb's schools, I would like to ask Mr. Hutchison on what authority he states that "the only argument offered against consolidation was that of transportation?" If it was on his own, I would like to say, he made a very poor interpretation of public opinion in this district. I however can assure Mr. Hutchison that it is a real one, and not as he claims, "an unknown fear".

On four different days during the past two weeks, the roads were not passable for a team until noon; and our school was in session every day, with a high average attendance. I have known the roads to be practically blocked for days, and yet the school children trudged along to school every day. Any one who has ever had any experience with country roads, knows that there are weeks in the spring, after a winter of heavy snow, when the mud is deep, it is not fit to put a team of horses over them, and Mr. Hutchison claims one team could draw a heavy van loaded with thirty children or over. I think he shows a very decided lack of good judgment on this important question.

I regret the fact that personalities were drawn into the discussion, but Mr. Hutchison's must be answered. Mr. Duncan Morgan may or may not be a "big man", I will not discuss that part of the argument. Mr. Morgan lives on the main road running through Claremont. His farm lies on the south side of the section on the very outskirts of the village of Claremont, certainly he would favor it.

As to Mr. Hutchison's claim that in northern Wisconsin consolidation is a success, I understand that in that part of the U.S.A. the attendance is very small. In some instances a one horse outfit is sufficient to transport all the children in one section.

The argument that a graded school can give a much more thorough education, even though it comes from an inspector, is certainly open to criticism. Statistics do not show it. He cannot prove it.

Some of our large cities are already bemoaning the fact that they are in the grip of the graded school system, and have no alternative. At the last convention of the O.E.A. one delegate declared, that he had known boys, who had become disgusted with our present muddled system, and had left to take up inferior jobs, such as delivery boys, etc. thus, he declared, a good citizen had been lost.

Recently a large mass meeting in Simcoe, Ontario, went on record as declaring that "Inspectors and departments were too arbitrary in the matter of calling for additional outlay on expenditures. Boys they declared, were being taught to sew and cook, and girls to farm."

I give Mr. Hutchison more credit than to suggest the introduction of "Kaiserism" to force consolidation on unwilling subjects. I would like to remind him that the day when government officials can dictate terms to the people, whose hired servants they are, is a long way off.
