EDITORIAL COMMENT

Hon. Manning Doherty has accepted the House leadership of the U.F.O.

On the advice of his doctor, J. J. Morrison, the U.F.O. secretary, has taken to his bed for one month and as the illness is not supposed to be particularly serious, he will make this a four weeks' holiday.

Fergus Council, at its inaugural meeting voted themselves a salary of $5 each for 12 meetings, or $65 a year, special meetings to be without extra pay. The Fergus newspaper favoring paying councillors, but objects to beginning just after a campaign at which the matter was not voted on by the people. It thinks that the majority of ratepayers are against the change. Perhaps they will have forgotten when the next election comes around.

Many friends of Mrs. Dewart, widow of the late Rev. Dr. Dewart, and mother of H. H. Dewart, K.C. M.P.P., will learn with interest that she reaches today her 93rd anniversary and is enjoying the best of health. She is still living at her old home on Sherbourne St., Toronto where she watches the march of the world's events, not with the weary eyes of an aged woman, but with the relish of one still young in heart and mind, although far past the allotted span.

A writer in The New York Tribune attempts to make the casualty lists of the late war more real than mere figures can make them. He asks us to visualize the dead as marching past on a city street, first the British dead. "At daybreak they start, twenty abreast. Until sundown they march, and the next day, and the next, and the next. For ten days the British pass in review. For eleven days more the French dead file down the 'Avenue of the Allies.'" For the Russians it would require the daylight of five more weeks. Two months and a half would be required for the allied dead to pass a given point. The enemy dead would require more than six weeks. For four months men actually killed in the war, passing steadily twenty abreast.

In addition to the proposed new gasoline tax, the Ferguson Government is contemplating the tapping of another hitherto untouched source of revenue. This new proposed tax is a "Summer Resort Tax," to be placed on summer residence properties in unorganized districts in Ontario, which escape the usual municipal property tax. Details of the new tax scheme are not yet fully worked out, but it is anticipated that it will yield about half a million yearly, provided the Legislature approves the legislation to be submitted in this connection. Inasmuch as the proposed tax is to be placed only upon summer residence properties in unorganized territories, where no municipal taxes are now levied or collected, it should be a good thing.

The Toronto Globe had a timely editorial on Jan. 24th and we wish to reproduce it in part for our readers. It shows, in part, one of the reasons why we are being taxed on every hand these days:—"The cry for reduced taxation now echoing from coast to coast will soon result, it is hoped, in some searching analysis and radical action with respect to Canada's Civil Service. Civil Service costs are not arbitrary amounts, like interest on railway bonds or the national debt. They can be controlled, but the desire to control must be strong and determined. A Parliamentary return in the Commons last session gave the total Federal Civil Service salaries as $50,355,721, which means that if taxation had been equally divided, every man, woman and child in the Dominion last year would have paid $5.72 to support civil servants and their families. The same return placed the number of Federal Civil Servants at 39,204. In other words, one out of every 224 inhabitants gets his or her salary from the Treasury vaults at Ottawa. The average salary figures out at $1,284, or a little better than 50c. per hour. It must be understood that these totals do not take into consideration Provincial civil servants and municipal employees, all of whom depend on taxation for their living. Neither are Government Railway employees included.

A strong delegation from all parts of Canada where the bank operated will urge Parliament at Ottawa to compensate the depositors of the Home Bank for the loss they had sustained through the failure of the bank. It is reported that many members of the cabinet are in sympathy with the move. If the government compensate the depositors of this bank, what about the hundred other banks that failed in Canada since Confederation? When the Farmers' bank failure took place a similar move was made on Ottawa, and the government acceded to the request, but the Senate promptly through out the bill, and this is what they will do if the present government attempt to take the country's money to compensate the losers in a private enterprise. We have great sympathy with the depositors of the Home Bank, but they must be treated the same as other losers in previous bank failures. The whole trouble is that the people wait until they get nipped before they move against the government, instead of rising up when things are going smooth and insisting that the government enact a Banking Act that will prevent the people losing their money. Why should the government pay the losers and still maintain practically the same act which permitted the people to be hoodwinked out of their money?

Charged with causing bodily injuries to the late Col. J. E. Farewell, K.C., late Crown Attorney of Ontario County by negligent and reckless driving, W. Gordon, Kingston Mills, was found guilty and fined $25 and costs. Police Magistrate Willis presided. Col. Grierson, prosecuted and W. E. Day, of Kingston defended. Fine was paid. The case lasted from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. on Friday, Jan. 25th. The Provincial Police Dept. brought several expert mechanics to prove different points in the case.

Tuesday of last week, while Messrs Archie McPhee and M. G. Parrington were digging a well for John A. Anderson, Cannington they struck a root of a tree which was green and full of sap or moisture. They were at a depth of 15 feet, and in hard clay. There is no tree within five rods of this well. This is a small evidence of nature. It is evident this root had found its way to a water strata for in less than three feet the well-diggers struck a live spring, which in a few hours filled the well to within a few feet of the top.

Some three hundred prominent breeders, seed growers, agrarians and specialists in different lines of agriculture were the guests of Lieut. Speakers at the luncheon included W. A. Dryden, President of the Royal Winter Fair, Robt. Miller, President of the Canadian National, the Minister of Agriculture and others.
