FOX TOX NO. 4

Our ranch at Ringwood contains three pairs of beautiful Silver Foxes, 1923 litters. These foxes have all been inspected, and are registered in the Canadian National Live Stock Records, at Ottawa. Each fox is tattooed on the inside of both ears. No fox, which does not score 85 points and upwards, is passed by government inspectors. The silver foxes in our Ringwood ranch will score 90 and upwards. They are the pick of 300 pups, raised in 1923 in our ranches in New Brunswick.

We are sorry that we can't ask you to visit our Ringwood ranch at the present time, but along in July we will be glad to show you the old foxes and the little puppies, which we are expecting to arrive at Ringwood some time in April. Let us answer any questions that have arisen in your mind.

Pitch holes are said to be particularly bad and plentiful on the roads in this section just now, due to so much snow. Some of them are deep enough to take a horse up to his ears, while in places they are so close together the horse and driver lose sight of each other. While the driver is emerging from one hole, the horse is disappearing into the next dip.

The $20 donated in cash prizes to the scholars in the Oratorical contest by the Continuation School last Friday night was given by the members of the school board, namely, Dr. D. C. Smith, Truman Holden, A. S. Stouffer, A. E. Booth and J. D. Aitchison. Dr. Smith suggested that it would be a splendid public act for any citizen financially able, to donate a foundation for such a purpose. $500, he said, would provide a creditable yearly amount for continuous prizes. Here's a chance for some of our financial men to do something handsome for our community, and at the same time perpetuate his or her name in a worthy cause.

If the local churches wish to create a little special interest locally let each of the seven congregations in town take a vote on whether or no they wish the government to take a vote on the liquor question again. No doubt the members are more desirous that the O.T.A. should be enforced than that a referendum should be taken, but the result of such a vote would be interesting at any rate. It would give this neck of the woods something to talk about.

A little boy was taken by his mother to visit a cemetery. The little boy went from plot to plot, from tomb to tomb, reading the inscriptions with awe and delight. Then, when he had read them all, he said: "Now take me to the other cemetery, ma." "The other cemetery," his mother said, "What other cemetery do you mean, dear?" "The one," said the little boy, "where the bad people are buried."

The death took place at 117 Langley Avenue, Toronto, on Sunday March 2nd, 1924, of Henrietta Osborne Miller, widow of the late Thomas A. Guthrie. A local farmer came into my store for a mantel clock. After getting my prices, he said he could save $2 on the same article from a Toronto catalogue mail order house. Having the catalogue mentioned on hand, I produced it, and was able to show this customer that my price was just the same as the catalogue for exactly the same article. However, before buying, he went about town to see if he could do better, and being unsuccessful, returned and made the purchase. Let all do likewise, before buying watches, clocks, or jewelry. Call in and see me and we will show value for value from the man who has given you good service in the repair department, as well as in merchandise for the past 29 years. A. Grubin.

If the following story is to be relied on there's a lot of coal going up in smoke on the Stouffville-Sutton line of the C.N.R. One of our citizens and a man from Ballantrae were swapping tales on the relative faults of our line of railway. Our west end friend said, "on my last trip to Toronto the train was so smoky that we had to leave the door at the rear of the coach open to let out the smoke." "That's nothing," came back the witty man from the Ballantrae region. "You get so covered with soot on our line with those little engines, that the last time I got off the train at the Union station, one of the ladies, on the platform hurrying towards a pullman I stood beside, handed me her suitcase, and tipped me a quarter!"
