What might have been a serious accident occurred when Cecil Nichols was driving his Fordson tractor last Thursday. The front wheels locked causing it to turn turtle. Fortunately, the driver got clear without anything more serious than an injured hand and a bumped head. Caution is required on these jobs.

Another accident happened the same day when R. E. Sanderson was up examining his silo. The extension ladder broke, causing Mr. Sanderson to fall six or eight feet landing on the stones of the barn bridge. He was severely injured in the back and his head cut. Dr. Ball, Stouffville, was summoned and gave first aid. His many friends wish for his speedy recovery.

The mock parliament on the 21st was well attended. The speaker, Rev. Mr. Warren read the speech from the throne, Sergeant-at-Arms Nichols carried in the mace. The leader of the government, Miss Caswell introduced the debate on "This better to have loved and lost than never to have loved at all." J. Fry, opposition leader, replied, and the debate was general and spirited. Eight spoke for the government and six for the opposition, but from the members for Duckland there was never so much as a quack. The vote was a victory for the government 19 to 14.

T. Lyons and the young men of his class went a visiting Sunday last. In the morning to Tunkard church, Heise Hill, and after S. S. at the Square to the Menonite S. S. at New Gormley. Mr. Lyons entertained the class to luncheon, and a pleasant time was spent.
