

VICTIMS OF ANAEMIA

Needs New Rich Blood to Restore Health and Strength.

It is an unfortunate fact that nine women out of every ten are victims of bloodlessness in one form or another. The girl in her teens, the wife and mother, the matron of middle age—all know its miseries. To be anaemic means that you are breathless after slight exertion. You feel worn out and depressed. You turn against food and often cannot digest what you do eat. Sleep does not refresh you, and when you get up you feel exhausted and unfit for the day's duties. If neglected anaemia may lead to consumption.

You should act promptly. Make good the fault in your blood by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, the most reliable blood enricher ever discovered. These pills purify bad blood, strengthen weak blood, and they make good blood, and as the condition of your blood improves you will gain proper strength, and enjoy life fully as every girl and woman should do. The case of Mrs. Mary Trainor, Perth, Ontario, shows the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in cases of this kind. She says: "I had not been feeling well for some time and had been gradually growing weaker. I found it very hard to do my housework; had severe headaches and was very pale. I took doctor's medicine for some time, but they did me no good. I was growing weaker and used to faint and take dizzy spells. In this condition I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after a time found they were helping me. I continued their use until I found the troubles that afflicted me had gone and I am once more enjoying good health and strength."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Why the Chinese Are So Calm.

One of the most noticeable characteristics of the Chinese, says Mr. Nevil O. Winter in Travel, is their passive indifference. They marvel at the nervousness and excitability of foreigners.

"I remember one hot day," says the writer, "when a party of us were crossing the hills in chairs. The way was rough and steep, the work for the coolies severe. At the highest point of our journey we stopped for ten minutes to let the men rest. Instantly they all sat in a row, brought out their pipes and began to laugh among themselves as if they had not a care in the world. In any country that had learned the virtue of forethought they would have devoted the moments to complaining of the heat in order to increase their tip. We, being Europeans, spent the time worrying whether the automobile would be waiting for us at the right place. Well-to-do Chinese would have started a discussion whether the universe moves in cycles or progresses by a rectilinear motion, or they might have set to work to consider whether the truly virtuous man shows complete self-abnegation or may on occasion consider his own interests."

Why are the Chinese so unperturbed by circumstances that apparently threaten their national existence? How can they remain calm when dangers threaten from without and from within? They have learned to wait for the fruition of slow natural processes. They will not be hurried, because nature can never be hurried. Haste means only vexation for yourself and accomplishes nothing. In addition to its other discoveries China has discovered the great art of standing still.

"You people of the West are so impatient, so may I say—immediate. You think in years instead of in centuries. There can be no end to China. What can the conqueror as we call him do? He can make money out of us and for us, and he can rule us for a time, but he cannot absorb us, and we shall absorb him. China may be overrun, but in the end she will be triumphant. We are no doubt the weakest and most unpolitical of nations, but we are unconquerable."

Thus it is that a Chinaman, sitting with his hands hidden in the wide sleeves of his silken coat, discusses in the most impersonal way and without the slightest suggestion of agitation the ills of his country and its possible conquest. He would receive the news of the occupation of Peking by the enemy in the same unagitated manner. Whatever the present may hold for China he feels certain that the future is secure. It is the same spirit that has prevented China from becoming a disturber in the world. Discontent and aggressiveness would have forced another people living such a hampered existence to seek an opportunity for betterment. Their very numbers would have made them almost irresistible.

EASY TRICKS

No. 245

Find The Ace

This trick has the appearance of being a famous feat of sleight of hand but actually it demands no skill. The ace, the two spot and the three spot of any suit are shown and are placed face down on the table, the spectators being asked to keep track of the ace. The magician mixes the cards a little with the result that the most astute spectator is unable to discover which of the cards is the ace.

The cards are prepared. The figure 3, cut from another card from the same suit, is very neatly pasted over the A on one corner of the ace. The part pasted on should be shaved down very thin and colorless paste should be used. In a like manner an A is pasted over the 3 on one end of the three spot.

When the cards are first displayed, show them as in Figure 1, the false pips being hidden. Next, close the cards and turn them around, opening again, this time showing the false pips, but not the faces of two of the cards (Figure 2). As you turn the cards face downward, draw the three out and put it on the table. As the spectators saw the index of the ace, they take it for granted that this is the ace. The more closely they follow this card, the more they contribute to their own deception. When you pick up the cards, pick them up so that your finger tip hides the false index.

(Omit this out and paste it, with other of the series, in a scrapbook.)

First Snow.

First snow is fine snow
Slanting down the wind,
Not a twig will hold it,
Not a shelter mold it,
You'd think to see the way they act,
That purity had sinned.

First snow is thin snow,
The meadow's barely salted,
The brook is so pre-occupied
With brittle frost lace at its side
It has no thought beyond itself
And cannot feel exalted.

First snow is lost snow,
Each flake a pioneer,
That dances down to certain death,
His span of life a frozen breath
That spins its seconds merrily
Between the Infinite — and Here.

There has never yet been a man in our history who led a life of ease, whose name is worth remembering. — Roosevelt.

Winter Bird.

My bird, my darling,
Calling through the cold afternoon!
Those round bright notes,
Each one so perfect
Shaken from the other and yet
Hanging together in flashing clusters!
The small soft flowers and the ripe fruit,
All are gathered.
It is the season now of nuts and berries
And round bright flashing drops
On the frozen grass.

—Katherine Mansfield.

A Garden of Rubber Flowers.

The art of incorporating color into rubber has resulted in the English invention of indestructible flowers, a display of which was made at the Wembley Exposition. The exhibit consisted of a small garden plot in which the floral display is surrounded with a bit of lawn, Grass, blooms and foliage were all of rubber composition, with an occasional worm and bug to lend realism to the scene. The flowers have the advantage over other things of the same character which have been made of fabric in the respect that a dose of water restores their brilliant color after they have been exposed to dust.

Provincial Board of Health, Ontario.

Dr. Middleton will be glad to answer questions on Public Health matters through this column. Address him at Spadina House, Spadina Crescent, Toronto.

December. Oh! holly branch and mistletoe, And Christmas chimes wher'er we go, And stockings pinned up in a row, These are thy gifts, December!

And if the year has made thee old, And silvered all thy locks with gold, Thy heart has never been a-cold, Or known a fading ember.

The whole world is a Christmas tree, And stars its many candles be, Oh! sing a carol joyfully, The year's great feast in keeping!

For once, on a December night, An angel held a candle bright, And led three wise men by its light To where a child was sleeping. —Harriet F. Blodgett.

The Walter's Favorite Dish. Three men seated at table at a certain American hotel were discussing their favorite game food. The first declared that nothing could be compared with pheasant. The second preferred partridge. The third was enthusiastic over quail.

In order to decide which food really was the best they appealed to the colored waiter.

"Well, suh," replied the waiter slowly, "for mah part, I would rather have an American eagle served on a silvah dohlah."

Very likely he got it.

Wat—what is it after all the people get? Why! taxes, widows, wooden legs and debt!
