CLAREMONT MAN EXPIRES IN THE TUB

The people of the Claremont section, and all who knew one of its former prominent farmers, Charles Barclay, still a resident of the locality, were shocked to learn of his sudden death in Toronto last Friday, having been found dead immersed in a bath tub partly filled with water in the Ontario Club, by one of the attendants.

The late Mr. Barclay was a member of the club and registered Thursday. Chief Coroner Geo. Graham has ordered an autopsy to determine whether death was from drowning or heart disease.

Mr. Barclay retired about thirty years ago, having a farm near Claremont, where he lived with the family. He was well known in Stouffville. He is survived by a widow and six children, Mrs. L. J. Haywood, Dunnville, Ont.; Mrs. J. Lawrence Goad, Toronto; Dr. Lyman Barolay, medical student, University of Toronto; Harold Barclay, Miss Helen Barclay and Frank Barclay, at home. He is also survived by Mrs. Geo. Burton, Toronto; Mrs. R. Fuller, Stratford, Ont., and Mrs. Malcolm Boyle, Sask., sisters; Mr. C. L. Burton, general manager of the Robert Simpson Co., is a nephew

B. OF T. HAPPENINGS

Monday evening was bitter cold outside, and the town took on a "dead" appearance along Main street still there was a rear "live" time at the meeting of the Board of Trade. The problem of shed accommodation and the election of officers were dealt with.

In the absence of President Dr. Sangster, F. W. Silvester wielded the baton until a new president was elected. It was a unique ceremony, this election, and the installation which immediately followed. Keen competition was engendered when the election of president was proceeded with—not for the position, but to evade it. The victim selected for this important post was duly nominated, and on the first signs of protest Drs. Ira Freeland and F. A. Dales promptly administered a soothing medicine which acted like an anaesthetic, and when the subject "came to" he had been duly installed, and found himself sitting in the dignified chair in the person of Ye Editor of The Tribune with the injunction from those present to "carry on".

We almost forgot to mention that part of the anaesthetic administered was a promise of a paid secretary for this year, and such other support by the individual members, as would surpass the loyalty of David and Jonathan in bible days, according to Dr. Smith.

After this first operation the rest was easy. Others selected for the succeeding positions realized the futility of opposition and each humbly submitted. George Lawson, the west end counter-hopper, was elected first vice-president, and H. J. Malloy, who was permitted to draw on his personal bank account last year to save the organization from liquidation, was requested to repeat the good work as treasurer.

The election finally disposed of, the question of shed accommodation for horses was proceeded with. Geordie Watson gave an enthusiastic speech on the care of the horse. He waxed eloquent in his appeal and said something about having read that birds have their nests and foxes their holes, but the horses in Stouffville had no where to lay their heads. George Lawson said he found that statement in the bible. All present agreed the need was great and a committee composed of Geo. Lawson, F. H. Sangster, Geo. Watson, W. H. Shaw and A. E. Weldon were appointed to chase up the matter and locate grounds for the erection of sheds and feed stables, and immediately on doing this the Board of Trade will convene to deal further with this item of business.

FARMER IS FOUND DEAD IN THE BUSH

A rather gruesome discovery was made in the Honsberger bush a mile and a half north of Lemonville on Tuesday morning when R. Bolland of Bethesda, discovered the body of John Nigh, who lived on the 3rd concession of Whitechurch, frozen stiff. It lay beside his sleigh which was partly loaded with wood, and the team of horses attached. The animals had stood there all night and were almost stiff with the cold.

Mr. Bolland had gone into the bush for a load of wood, when he made the discovery, both men having purchased lots at a recent wood sale held by Mr. Honsberger. Coroner C. J. Devens of Aurora, was notified and the body was removed to that town, where a jury was empanelled who will hold an inquest. It is believed that Mr. Nigh took a fainting spell while in the act of putting on his load, and became chilled and frozen without regaining consciousness. He left his home on the 3rd con., the previous afternoon, and was expected to return that evening.

Mr. Jonathan Nigh of the townline is a cousin to the deceased.

The late Mr. Nigh was 60 years of age, and besides his widow, is survived by four children.

Thirteen lovers of sport with their twenty-two rifles met at the farm of R. S. Frisby & Son on Saturday afternoon, March 6th. Fifteen plump, beautiful birds were up for competition. There was some good shooting, but as usual some had to loose. The following won birds:—Roy Boyington, Buttonville, 4, and he had a score of 141 out of 10; R. Agar 2; A. Meyer 2; Alex. Canning 2; Ed. Dixon 2; W. Young, R. Risebrough, G. Agar one each. Two 10 lbs. pails of honey were then put up and "Curl" Boyington, Buttonville, and P. J. Dixon, Unionville, are a lot "sweeter" accordingly.

CREAM GRADING

Farmers in the province of Ontario are to be paid for the quality of the cream they deliver to the butter factories and not for the quantity. This is the provision of the cream grading bill now going through the legislature which is to be put into force at once. Grading is to be done at points outside because it is essential that the quality of the cream when delivered at the creamery be the basis of payment. There will be three grades—select, first and second. Select cream must be perfect in all respects and contain not more than .30-100ths of one per cent of acid. Sour cream will be second grade.
