EDITORIAL COMMENT

The Toronto Telegram predicts a provincial election in October next, probably about the 15th.

Marriage itself isn't a failure. Usually its the people themselves who engage in it that gives the thing a black eye.

An Englishman says he can destroy a whole army by means of his newly invented ray. If the world had a ray of intelligence, armies would not be necessary.

With so many towns building modern roads, the one-time up-to-date highway through Stouffville is becoming quite out-of-date, and well as out-of-repair. There is no hope for a new road through the corporation this year. Will prospects be better in 1927?

The editor's views expressed from time to time in this column may not be in accord with your own, but if you wish to have your opinions or theories expressed in print, we will heartily accord you the space. We welcome more expressions in this way.

The drop in our hydro rates on street lamps means a saving of one mill on the dollar to the ratepayers of Stouffville. If the council carry out their rather extensive plans for new roadmaking and new sidewalks this saving is likely to be consumed in the undertaking, but why not when we need these improvements so badly?

K. E. Deacon, aged 19, the youngest graduate this year at Toronto University, goes next fall to the O. A. C. to study agriculture, having decided to be a farmer. He's not going west to homestead. His first job will be as manager of his father's 600-acre farm in Ontario. A man's job all right.

The chief of police for the town of Acton is very active. Through fines imposed so far this year owing to arrests and summons issued on his instigation, the coffers of the town have received $750. When the local deputy reads this he may land on some whom he is forever warning for infringements of the Motor Vehicle Act.

An amendment to the Municipal Act, section 53, sub-section 1 (j), removed the disqualifications of school trustees in townships, all of whom are now eligible for election to the township council. The law, as interpreted by the Courts during the past two years, has been most unsatisfactory. In some districts where population is sparse, it has often been difficult to secure good men to qualify for office for the reason that there were not men enough to go round.

The writer was constantly in the presence of a millionaire gentleman in Quebec City last week who through disease was unable to raise his hand to his mouth, and could only serve his meagre appetite at the table by the use of a long fork which he handled in an awkward, difficult manner. He was moved about the hotel in a chair. We thought that here was a good case of how even things are divided in this world. The poor man has the appetite, and the rich man has the food.

A change of which many municipalities in Ontario will approve, in the law regarding indigents was made in the closing hours of the last session of the Ontario Legislature. Hitherto the maintenance of indigent patients in hospitals have been charged up to the municipality given by the patient as his place of abode, and the onus of disproving the charge lay with the municipality. In the future the charge will be made against the County, and the County Councilors will determine among themselves to which municipality the patient belongs.

Many are the declarations these days against cadet training in the schools, because it is claimed that it fosters the military spirit. Labor parties as well as church bodies are against this training, and the former say it should be abolished for economic reasons. There is room for criticism by both. Cadet training seems, too, to be merely for show. The boys train once or twice a week until they are inspected in May. Then when the chief cadet officer has paid his visit the training is dropped, and the physical end of it, which is the valuable part of such training, is forgotten. It is a training in the schools that is of small value to the scholars.
