EDITORIAL COMMENT

The U.S.A. government admires tourists in Canada to fly the British flag over their own. Canadian tourists in the U.S.A. should not need any such admittance. Tourists should always be on their best behaviour.

The third book pupils in the Stouffville school were asked on the promotion examination just concluded: "Who is the premier of Canada?" Now, was this question designed to create a political controversy, or was it only designed by those who set the papers, to test the pupils' skill on current matters?

War to exterminate was declared on the humble groundhog last week by the Amaranth Council. The ownership fathers view with alarm the increasing damage amounting to thousands of dollars, caused by the groundhogs in Dufferin County, and in a resolution the County Council was asked to take whatever action was necessary to aid in the extermination of the increasing pest.

The big oil companies have a habit of finding an excuse for boosting the prices of oils just when they are in greatest demand. Increased sales in most businesses would compensate for small profits, but with the big oil concerns they take the heavy sale season as an opportunity to bleed the public. Just now coal oil which is used in large quantities for cooking during the hot weather shot up to near the market price of gasoline. "No one knows the profits of the big oil companies," says the Financial Post, "and so long as the companies remain reticent in giving out any information the public will continue to form their own conclusions."

Upwards of 900 barns were destroyed last year in Ontario by fire. This is a most appalling loss and if this destruction to farm property is not checked it will only mean increased insurance rates which are quite high enough now. Lightning is responsible for a good many losses on the farm; then, too, there is the fall threshing and the danger from the engine; then there is the lantern which has destroyed many a good Ontario barn, and last of all, there is carelessness. If a fire starts the loss is generally total; for a fire where there is hay or straw cannot be put out very easily. At their club meetings the farmers would be well advised to discuss the increased insurance rates and their cause.

Pastor Fleischer Turns Down
Tempting Call

Friday evening was a gala occasion in the splendid new Baptist Church in Stouffville. Almost 200 people, many of them from out of town, sat down at the beautifully decorated tables to rejoice together with the Pastor and his devoted church over the completion of the new edifice. The way in which the ladies were able to serve such a large number, with an absence of confusion, speaks very highly, not only for the equipment and lay-out of the church basement, but also for those who had charge of this important part of the evening's programme.

After Deacon Isaac Broaday had opened the meeting with prayer, W. W. Fleischer spoke of the progress which the church had made. This ideal is a Holy Ghost church, and toward that end he urged every member to strive. The growth which the church had made in the past was gratifying, but he hoped for still greater things in the future. The church's mission is a spiritual one and can only be accomplished by spiritual power. The Pastor then introduced the speakers of the evening in his usual felicitous way. Mr. W. S. Whitcombe, B.A., pastor of the Markham Second and Baker Hill churches, whom he introduced as an old school-fellow, expressed the good will of the churches which he represented, and congratulated the Stouffville church on their pastor, a man whose good name at University had followed him to his church. A former member of the church in the person of Deacon Broaday, a son of Deacon Broaday told how, many years before, in the old church, he had come to the greatest experience in all his life, whose influence and power had radiated throughout his whole career, a knowledge of the saving power of the Lord Jesus Christ. Recalling the memories of the past, he exhorted the workers and especially those in the Sunday School to bear in mind the enduring value of their work. Mr. Walter Gatehouse, a member of the firm of Gatehouse Brothers, who gave so much valuable assistance during the erection of the building, also spoke a few well-chosen words.

The presentation of a beautiful leather bound Baptist Hymnal was made by Mr. John Ratcliff, on behalf of the church, to Mr. R. R. Gatehouse as a token of their deep appreciation of his magnificent services, not only in providing the plans and specifications for the building but also in taking on the general oversight of the work during the course of construction. Mr. Ratcliff said that a large part of the credit for the pleasing appearance and the satisfactory completion of the building was due to Mr. Gatehouse. In replying Mr. Gatehouse said that if he had done anything for the Stouffville Baptists for which there had been no bill sent in, then it was only because of his interest in the growth of the Kingdom of God.

Speaking then as the deacon of a large city church he told how that the pulpit committee of that church had unanimously extended a call to Rev. W. W. Fleischer to become their pastor. He congratulated Stouffville Baptists on having as their pastor a man of the calibre to turn down such a tempting offer as that when he felt his duty lay elsewhere.

Mr. J. H. Ratcliff then rose to move a vote of thanks to those outside of the membership who had contributed so freely of their time and money to the new building. This was ably seconded by Mr. Wm. Ratcliff and enthusiastically carried by the church. Rev. C. E. MacLeod entertained the company with a number of stories from the land of his birth. In introducing the principle speaker of the evening, Mr. Fleischer, spoke of him as an old pastor of his own as well as a former pastor of the Stouffville church. Mr. Loney spoke on the Golden Church, basing his remarks on the Book of Revelation. Gold is the heavenly metal and so the church came not from men but from God. It is not a human institution, but a divine one. There are many characteristics of a Golden Church, and the speaker noted that the Stouffville church possessed many of them, equipment, building, the devotion of its members, its prayer life, but the most important of all, in fact that which was the prerequisite to being a Golden Church was the Golden Presence of the Lord Jesus Christ. Pastor Loney recalled how in former days he had moved in and out among the people and he reminded them that the greatest of all work and that which lasts for time and eternity, is leading men and women to a saving knowledge of God.

Mr. W. W. Fleischer then spoke of the completion of the new building, the great expense involved, and the fact that the church had been built by the members themselves.

NO COMPROMISE

A large and representative gathering of Progressive forces was held in the town hall, Beaverton Tuesday last week, while a similar meeting of the Liberals of the riding took place at the Wayside Inn.

Both meetings were very quietly organized, no public intimation being given. A session of both parties is understood was held in the morning with a view to the withdrawal of one of the candidates, but after a vigorous discussion of the situation it was found neither Mr. Veale, who has done considerable organization work and believes he will be easily elected, declined to withdraw, as also did J. W. Widdifield, M.P.P. of Siloam at the afternoon session of the Progressives which meeting resolved itself into a riding organization committee, proceeding to work out a strong plan of campaign.

While there is no election in sight at present, it is recognized that one may be sprung on the Province at any time and the part of wisdom for the parties is to assume an attitude of watchful preparedness.
