On the eve of their departure for Toronto Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Lawson and their family were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alf. Collins, on Monday evening, and were completely taken by surprise when during the visit a large representation of the Christian church people walked in and turned the hour into a real congregational affair. During the evening Rev. Mr. Morton, pastor of the church, assumed the role of spokesman, and in a fitting address commended to the Lawsons the general regret among the church people at their departure from Stouffville, and Mrs. Lawson was presented with a piece of handsome china, Gladys Dougherty making the presentation. Mrs. Lawson's forebears were among the pioneer members of this congregation, and were instrumental in establishing the present church in Stouffville some 25 years ago, when the present edifice was taken over from the Congregationalists.

A CORRECTION

To Editor of Tribune,

Sir:— Please allow me space enough in your next issue to give the most absolute and unqualified denial to the statement being circulated in Stouffville and vicinity, that I stated in a speech on Thursday last that "The Conservatives stunk." What I did say was, that Mr. Meighen had called the Robb budget, "Malodorous" on account of the reductions in it and that I hoped the next budget would be positively putrid with further and larger reductions and that the stink would reach to the very heavens.
