The colour and exquisite flavour of "SALADA" Green Tea are natural—Only the process of curing is different from Black Tea Both are equally pure-"SALADA" Green Tea is sealed in airtight aluminum fresh delicious satisfying 38c per 3-lb. at all grocers. Ask for this tea.

Ontario Forestry Policy Outlined

Move to Do Away With Destructive Agencies Now Existing

North Bay, Ont. - The forestry policy of the Ontario Government was outlined by Hon. William Finlayson, Minister of Lands and Forests, to the Rotarians here recently: Members of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway Commission, with whom the Minister toured the northern section, were present, as well as Hector Charles, journalist, another member of the party.

Mr. Finlayson made a strong appeal for support of the policy which the government will introduce at the next session. The aim was to develop Northern Ontario and at the same time conserve for posterity the most important of its basic industries, lumbering. Mr. Finlayson said.

He foresaw a possibility that the policy would be opposed by citizens of southern Ontario, but he felt that they would sooner or later see the necessity for such drastic and revolutionary change.

"You in Northern Ontario can readily see the benefit that will accrue with the successful operation of such find quite simple to fashion. The a scheme and we of the government opening is at the centre-front and appeal' for your whole-hearted co- there is an inverted plait at each side operation in the practical application of the policy," said the minister.

It was pointed out that lumbering and kindred occupations formed the second most important industry of the province and operations in recent years on any large scale were confined to northorn districts. A survey of existing conditions showed that this industry was fast waning owing to destructive agencies of various sorts which commenced an "eating in" program within the last half cen-

Reconstruct Industry.

The policy to be inaugurated by the Government at the next session will aim-at correcting this "ruinous condition" and reconstructing industry o na basis which is hoped will result in it being preserved for all time.

It is proposed to apply three remedies, re-forestation throughout southern Ontario in sections where land will not permit of any other use; in central Ontario a program of rehabitation and replanting and conservation of existing timber in northern Radio Experts Ontario by safe-guarding-areas from destructive fires. It was shown that a total of 2.123,000 acres of virgin forests were destroyed by fire in 1923, but this loss has been cut to 60,000 acres last year. Expectations are that loss this year will not exceed 35,-000 acres.

The Minister stated that the department was at present engaged in improving the highway between Severn bands of a radiocast signal without and liuntsville with a view to start loss of selectivity was explained to ing on construction of one of the main the Institute of Radio Engineers Conhighways of the province.

Severn and extend to Cochrane, a dis- | cal engineer. tance of approximately 500 miles. The entire route wil' be set out in mile the receiver, Dr. Vreeland, who has posts. The Minister predicted that contributed numerous inventions to the influx of tourists to Northern On- the radio field, said that its developtario this year would be double that ment was made possible by means of of last year.

France Heavy Buyer

Of Australian Wool Sydney, N.S.W .- The wool sales at the various Australian capitals, cording to reports extending from July to November, have been on a satisfactory level as compared with last year, and at the moment of writing this the tendency of the market continues to be satisfactory to growers. This state is the principal wool state of the Commonwealth; and has shipped so far this season £8,500, 000 Worth as compared with £8,490,-000 worth during the corresponding period of last year.

The biggest buyers of the season in the order of their buying are, to date. France, Germany, England, Japan. They all purchased between For frostbite use Minard's Liniment. 21,500,000 and £2,000,000 worth. Japan's £1,554,000. America's buying is light. The total Australian wool sales, so far as they have progressed to date, represent a value of £16,109 000 for 675,676 bales.

Magistrate-"The police say that you and your wife had some words." Prisoner-"I had some, sir, but I didn't get a chance to use them!"

"Do you believe in the survival of the fittest?" asked the traveller of the man he had got into conversation with in a railway carriage. "I don't believe in the survival of any body," was the reply. "I'm an undertaker."

Minard's Linimen' for sore throat

SMART FOR DAYTIME WEAR.

The smart one-piece frock shown here is a style the home modiste will seam, a notched collar, set-in pockets and cuffs on the long dart-fitted sleeves. No. 1697 is in sizes 88, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust. Size 40 requires 3% yards 39-inch, or 3% yards 54-inch material. Price 20c the pat-

Many styles of smart apparel may be found in our Fashion Book. Our designers originate their patterns in the heart of the style centres, and their creations are those of tested popularity, brought within the means of the average woman. Price of the book 10c the copy.

HOW TO ORDER PATTERNS.

Write your name and address plainy, giving number and size of such patterns as you want. Enclose 20c in stamps or coin (coin preferred; wrap it carefully) for each number and address your order to Pattern Dept., Wilson Publishing Co., 73 West Adelaide St., Toronto. Patterns sent by return mail.

Get New Data

Inventor Explains Circuit Permitting Sideband Reception in Full

New York .- A new radio circuit permitting reception of the full sidevention here by its inventor, Dr. Fred-The Ferguson highway will begin at erick K. Vreeland, radio and electri-

In telling of his research work on a hitherto undiscovered system of balanced reactances which is called a band_selector inserted into the radiofrequency amplifier. Dr. Vreeland stated that the circuit did not infringe on any existing patents pertaining to radio frequency amplification. Many of his patent claims have been allowed, indicating, he said, that the circuit is fundamentally new.

circuit," he explained, "which has the he was appalled and estranged by a remarkable property of balanced re- spark in the almond eyes, a gesture of actances at all frequencies within a the white hands; and sometimes he band of 20 kilocycles. An ordinary caught a fleeting expression on the tuned circuit has its reactances bal- classic countenance that wakened, in anced at only one frequency. The his own heart, a sullen, almost a murbalanced reactances are variable and derous rage. Once, on bringing fresh are adjusted by means of an ordinary fuel to the little camp stove in Dor-ing about ten shillings' worth of silk stockings."

CMes LAND FORGOTTEN MEN by Edison Marshall

BEGIN'HERE TODAY

Ishmin, Russian-violinist, he had drowned Paul Sarichef, Ishmin's secretary, following a quarrel. Ishmin and Peter's wife, Dorothy, had urged Their launch hits rocks.

Dorothy receives word that her husband's body, identified by, his sea completely covered and takes a job in a cannery. Larson's body occupies his life.

Ishmin and Dorothy go to Alaska to return Peter's body to Georgia. They do not recognize Peter, who is chosen head guide. A storm carries their ship to sea, stranding them at the grave. Peter and Dorothy hunt.

He carries her across a stream.

CHAPTER IX.—(Cont'd.)

walked on toward camp, she could not hours passed, and he lay in his bunk, get it out of her mind. It did not unable to reach up to this sacrifice of please her that she could be moved, self. | But if he had lost faith in himeven vaguely and faintly, by this self, a higher, better faith had come crude, rough man of the barrens. Yet, of the lover of her girlhood. Memories, tender and dear, had been quickened lips: "Oh, Lord, abandon me not in to life.

To Pete the moment had been of nothing less /than glory. He, too, knew it was only an adventure o the trail, that it was but the image of a hopeless dream that must never -could never-come true; yet for an instant it had lifted him, as with wings, out of the valley of the shadow.

CHAPTER X. PETE SAVES ISHMIN.

Dorothy found, to her great surprise, that the days of waiting passed rather swiftly. She slept long in the mornings on the comfortable, rudely contrived grass mattress that Pete had made for her; she played cards with Ivan, and made many little adventurous excursions into the wild with one or both of the two white men. Ivan was consideration itself, always willing to beguile her with his marvelous music, wooing her with his finesse of ardor, fascinating her in hours of talk with the intricacies of his brilliant intellect and of his complex, marvelously attractive personality.

Yet she owed a great deal to the head guide, too. In particular he watched out for her material comfort, superintending the preparation of her meals so that every cup of coffee. every succulent breast of ptarmigan was exactly to her taste, keeping her dress by.

It was not so easy to explain the instinctive comradeship she felt for him. Of course he was the one man of her own race in the entire company and here far from the cities of men-bonds of race were revealed as of surprising strength.

. From Pete's point of view the days went by in a single flash between the curtains of night; and he dreaded to his heart's depth the hour certain to come when the Warrior would roll in on the waves and carry Dorothy out of his life.

His attitude toward Ivan was too complex ever to completely straighten out in his mind. In the first place he had deep admiration and unfaltering respect for this genius from the East. - He was pleased and gratified by the man's attitude toward Dorothy his own most chivalrous instincts seemed reflected in the Russian. Yet sometimes a sudden, white flame. strange to his sight and puzzling to his heart, mounted and paled in the "The band selector is a very simple thin, almost beautiful face; sometimes othy's tent, he found the girl in the Russian's arms.

She had just yielded to his lips, and she was convinced—at the instant "I know I told you it was a sin to that Pete appeared at the threshold. be wasteful but what has that got to that in Ivan her destiny of happiness do with your wearing a short dress was secure. But she was instantly like that?" "Well, if I wear a long | cold, inexplicably appalled, as she frock like you want me to, I'll be wast- looked into Pete's face.

She could not have explained why. The man looked drawn, as in the last stages of fatigue; but there was no Peter Newhall, Augusta, Ga., flees conceivable excuse for her sense of to Alaska, after being told by Ivan shame, her strange drawing-in to herself and inability to emerge again into Ivan's warmth.

On leaving the tent Pete walked him to flee. He joins Big Chris Lar- straight past the camp fire on to the son in response to a distress signal at hills. He was profoundly shaken and sea, forcing his sea jacket upon him unnerved, not from amazement at what he had seen-he had realized that Ivan and Dorothy were virtually jacket, has been buried in Alaska. She engaged but, at the narrow margin feels free to receive Ishmin's atten- by which the girl had missed irretions. But Peter had been rescued by vocable disaster. It had not been by another ship. His appearance is com- too-wide a margin that he had repletely changed and he is known as strained a mad, tragic impulse to leap Liniejuice Pete. He finds his identity into the tent and shatter the man's

He spent a restless night after the incident, and his peace of mind had departed from him. For all that this was his last dream on earth—the only shadow of happiness that he dared to the first alder thicket; the two In- lution. Too much will flood your enhope for he felt that by all conscience dians followed a deeply worn bear gine and make it stop. Don't fail to he must cut it short. His trust in trail, like the ruts of an old road, that keep the choke closed after the en-NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY . nothing for him now but to turn away heavy barrier of brush; and Pete and In extremely cold weather, back out vanish among the desolate hills. His It was only an incident of the trail, star would soon set, the tower of his and it disturbed her that, as she only strength was tottering. Yet the to him in these years in the wild, and somehow, she had been caused to think the basic prayer, the first and last cry of all mankind, came easily to his temptation, and deliver me from evil!"

Yet it was a higher wisdom that temptation should come to him, in an unexpected form, before the day tha he saw break over the eastern hills sloped down again to darkness.

He found the girl in the Russian's

The party of five had made serious ever warm and dry, refilling her mat idea of procuring fresh meat, and came so distinct to Ivan; and he was tress every day with freshly cut grass partly because he wanted to be alone not greatly surprised to see the latter and keeping the fire bright every with his bitter thoughts, Pete an- draw his pistol and begin to fire in morning in the camp stove for her to nounced his intention of penetrating evident excitement. The supposed, of heightened interest.

"I'm getting soft as mud from too too late!

with my pistol."

a good plan to kill several caribou, if thickets like an avalanche-straight she left the shop.

ROYAL YEASI HOME-BAKED BREAD IS BEST OF A

we run into them, and try to cure toward the hepless Rassian. them-in preparation for emergencies Fear-ridden though she was, the -and these men can help you carry she-bear could not seek flight when the meat into camp. She's safe enough her dying cub cried for help. She by herself, isn't she?" .

"As safe as she could be anywhere in the world. None of the wild beasts of the region will come within miles of her, and there are no other hu-

"I'll stay and struggle with your book then, Ivan," Dorothy said.

Soon they filed away into the hills, Ivan leading with his pistol, then Pete, carrying his rifle, and the two hunting knives, bringing up the rear. They deployed like a squad of advancing infantrymen as they neared conducted them easily through the gine is running smoothly. Ivan seeking separate trails to the of the garage into the open air, let left. They were in file again when the motor idle for a few minutes, or they reached the more or less open run for a block or so in second gear hillside, but because of greater skill before shifting to high. If you start at choosing the trail, the two natives to stall, shift back to second, put on were more than a hundred yards ful choke for an instant until the enahead of Ivan, and Pete was thirty gine picks up, then only enough choke yards farther in the rear.

ning baribou, and turning, he had a renhelt. She made the poorest kind of a target per cent. to miss any chances, and perhaps carbon monoxide. slightly startled and out of hand by the animal's sudden appearance, Pete fired vainly at every opportunity. Whether or not he hit the animal at all he could not tell, for at the fourth shot she disappeared in the thicket almost opposite Ivan.

The echo of the rifle report rolled, dimmed, and was still, and the men stood in those queer, fixed attitudes that almost-invariably follow any-excitement .- Presently Ivan beckoned and pointed into the brush thicket be-

"She is right here," he called. "You must have got her that last shot. hear her thrashing around."

It seemed entirely probable that the deer had swept through the brush unseen and had fallen wounded-but a few yards from Ivan. Pete started to grope for further shells; Ivan peered into the brush. 1 0 7 25

It seemed to the head guide that inroads in the small caribou he had as he paused, he could hear faintly brought to camp, and partly with the the rustle and stir in the brush that the interior on a hunting expedition. course, that the man was putting the Dorothy, was lame from a stiff climb finishing touches to the fallen caribou. of the evening previous, so she de- No blame could be laid on Pete that clined his invitation to go. Ivan, how-the did not call a warming; he did not ever, looked up from his book with disinguish the real identity of the creature in the thickets until it was the counter and seized his fair cus-charged with unspeakable ferocity. (To be continued.) Use The Choke Don't be afraid to use your choke -but know how to use it. To start a cold engine use full choke for at short period rather than partial choke!

for a longer period—it saves your battery and permits a quicker start. Use just enough choke to keep the engine firing evenly while warming up-too little causes uneven running, to keep it running. A motor operates At that instant Peter caught the at maximum efficiency when its temunmistakable thumping sound of run- perature is around 160 degrees Fahbrief glimpse of a barren doe in the Another essential rule to always obbrush thickets behind. The animal serve in starting, is to disengage your was better than two hundred yards clutch, and be sure no lights are on. distant when Pete glimpsed her again, By disengaging the clutch the strain running in a great are up the hill. on the battery is reduced at least 25

as she leaped through the scattered | Don't race a cold ergine and don't clumps of brush, but eager to procure start it until the garage doors are meat as near camp as possible and not wide open, because of the danger of

"You say you and Tom have had a quarrel - and just before Christmasi"

"Yes. He thinks he'll get out of giving a present, but I'll make up with him just about a week before Christmas and get a present twice as expensive as I otherwise would."

The man who frequents the blind pig never brings home the bacon.-Detroit News.

The angry grocer ran swiftly round tomer by her arm. "Do you know, much ease," he said. "I believe I'll - The animal that suddenly bounded madam," he blurted, "that your doggo with you this morning. I believe out of the thickets was a bear cub of has caten a pound of my best fresh can crack down one of those caribou that season, and it was squealing in country-butter? I saw him do it a mortal agony from the pistol lead. second ago!" The fair customer re-Pete stiffened slightly. "I don't see There-was-no-danger_in-him; he was lieved-the-grocer-of-her arm and iehow both of us can go, unless Mrs. less than knee height and was desper- garded him coldly. "I did not know it," Newhall wants to go, too," he said ately seeking flight. But Pete knew, she replied icily, "but if you are quite quietly, so not to be overheard by the and the Indians, appalled on the hill sure it was your best butter, that it above, knew, too, that a squealing cub is fresh, and that it really did come "True enough. It had slipped my means an enraged mother not far off. from the country, I don't think there nind for a minute. We'll take the And in the wink of an eye the great, is much reason to suppose it will do natives with us I think it would be shaggy dam came roafing out of the him any harm." With these words

Every "Chip" always crisp and fresh

Buy Christie's Cheese Chips. Fine old cheese cunningly blended with purest ingredients into deliciously crisp and wholesome little wafers.

In the store or on the ! phone always ask for

Christies Biscuits The standard of Quality since 1853.

BEST FOR ALL YOUR BAKING - Pies, Cakes, Buns and Bread - DOES ALL YOUR BAKING BEST