(ON WITH LAUGHTER) A DOUBLE-EDGED POEM

Dear Colyum: Dear Sir:-The other day two members of the Bachelors' Brotherhood were arguing on the meaning of the words "for better or worse," regarding it and the married life. They were both off the track, so, for the benefit of the Brotherhood, I beg your kindness to print my view on the meaning of "for better or worse."

For Better When you are feeling awful blue Who is the one that comforts you? Your Wife! When you are sad and feeling so bad

Your Wife! When you are hungry as a bear

When her work on earth is at an end You find you'ce lost your best friend! For Worse When you are feeling awful blue

Who is the one who bothers you? Your Wife! When you are hungry as a bear

Who'll surely spoil your bill-of-fare? Your Wife! When you are sleepy and all in

The Empire and Foreign Policy

Bombay Times of India: The problem of the Dominions' attitude to British foreign policy is one which almost every Imperial Concrence continually baffles the statesman. At at almost every Imperial Conference some resolution is made, and yet no resolution has quite solved the problem, as many intricate issues are involved. As a result of the Imperial Conference of 1926, it was agreed that, though the chief share of responsibility for foreign policy and Imperial defence must rest with Great Britain, neither Great Britain nor the Dominions should accept active obligations, without the definite assent of their own Governments ... Great Britain has made numerous concessions to the Dominions. But she is still "continental" with a vital part to play in the affairs o Europe. Ought not the Dominions to make some concossion in return? It is a delicate problem.

Camping at Home

Vacation: days have come at last and the young school boys: turn eagerly to thoughts of the warm days ahead of them. Camping out is loads of fun. And the beauty of it-all, he says, is that it isn't really necessary to go away off to the woods to camp, but just strike the tent in the corner of the back yard and campio

Of course, backyard camping keeps you close to home. But, when you awaken in the dead of night, it does not require a great deal of imagination to fancy that you are in deep woods a thousand miles away. Camping at home is packs of fun, and you probably will want to sleep out all summer, once you have become accustomed-to it.

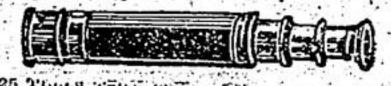

The backyard camp is a good trainfit to eat, and it is an advantage to the tenderfoot to have home near at hand in case things go wrong, in case the tent leaks like a sieve or blows away, or the eats do not fill the hungry spot, or the mosquito dope fails to work.

Almost any type of tent will do, but the small pup-tent or shelter tent is quite the thing for the yard camp beceause it requires little space. To prevent surface water from flooding the tent, dig a narrow trench around it, with an outlet at one side for a drain. Spread an old rug, plece of carpet, or burlap upon the ground, and place poncho or raincoat upon it before making your bed. Ask mother to sew up a bedtick of unbleached muslin, three feet wide and five feet long, with one end left open. Straw, is the best filling, but dried grass will do. After filling the tick, fasten the open end with safety pins.

Investment Buying

Investment buying in the next few weeks is counted upon to become quite a factor in the standard dividend-payers. Investors seeking employment for excess funds are likely to take up bonds, preferred stocks and some of the higher grade common shares. If the latter stocks are well supplied during this period of buying it will be sonsidered a signal of liquidation by investment trusts and others who have held these securities from materially lower levels. For this reason, the action of the market should be watched closely during the normal period of investment demand.
