CHRISTIAN CHURCH PROPERTY ESCAPES FLORIDA CYCLONE

Rev. B.W. Morton, missionary of the Christian Church at Porto Rico, who will preach in Stouffville next Sunday has received information from D. B. Barrett in charge of the mission during Mr. Morton's absence to the effect that the church property came through the recent cyclone practically unharmed. Extracts from Mr. Barrett's letter convey the following information written at Ponce, Porto Rico, on Sept. 2nd:
"I have made a trip at every place we had property except Salinas Playa (Miss Olive C. Williams Memorial chapel.) I just got to Salinas yesterday for the first time and could not get across the river so could not visit all of the country places. Well what I have always feared came on the 13th instant. It was a long time coming but it was pretty good and strong making up for its delay perhaps. It was the cyclone of San Felipe which occurred 52 years ago and since then nothing has equalled it in length of time nor in intensity. The wind blew at the rate of 130 to 160 miles per hour. It was at 130 when the instrument busted in San Juan and they do not know how hard it blew after that. I cannot describe it, so will tell you of some of the results and you can see for yourself, but remember Ponce was the least damaged section on the Island. The storm was announced as probably on its way at dawn, but as no signs were in the air no one took much notice. At 9 p.m. the old siren sang out every five minutes in that good solemn song that always pleased—telling us to beware, danger was on its way, but we went to sleep as usual and were up early next morning, nothing yet serious in sight but no news directly from the storm until 8 o'clock.
Everybody was nailing doors, windows, show windows, etc. While I was hanging around there, news came that San Juan was being destroyed and the wind was heading this way. I went to the market and by the time I got back, all the school children were in the streets racing for home. Every minute the wind was stronger and rain now and then, pretty hard. Every wind came in stronger just as the waves of the sea, as you have seen them. By 11 o'clock things were getting serious. The old guanavara tree nearest the back door in our yard was showing signs of being overcome and before 12 it tumbled over roots and all. I had a nice hen pen in the yard for the dogs, chickens and pigeons and about 12.30 the second guanavara tree made an effort or two to stand, but went down as we looked on, breaking the pigeon house into pieces. They flew out, one was caught by the wind and we have not seen him since, the other one stayed near the ground and is still around. One of the dogs was in the box and was not hurt but the door was caught so it could not open, and remained there for a day. We had to close everything up tight on the north side of the house. We were busy watching from the back door and the south side windows to see what would happen next. The fine Corazon tree made a heave or two and went over turning in the air.
Every wave of wind was getting harder, so I sat down at the table in the front bedroom to write what I was seeing. By that time I heard the most awful noise and looking out saw the air was full of flying zinc from the roof of the school building. We looked beyond the school and the next house was as bare as one's hand not a piece of zinc on this side left. By that time we were beginning to want to see a change but the wind kept up whistling through the wires and over the house to make us feel that the next would take us along. About 5.30 things began to calm and in a half hour it was as quiet as a fine summer day. I ran up to the church to see how she stood it, and found it ok. but before I got back to the house, passing through Marina street to Abolition Park, everything was in ruins, the wind had changed from northwest to southwest and was a gale by the time I got home; in less than a half hour, at 12 o'clock noon, it kept up until 2 o'clock next a.m. The river was up and in the houses along the Belgica (a certain section of the city)—a few were drowned, and some were killed by the railroad car driven by the wind. Five men were also killed in another section by the car."

Hobbs' STORAGE BATTERY

Is different from any other Battery, and is GUARANTEED FOR TWO YEARS (others only One year). If it fails to do its work in that 2 years, we will give you a NEW BATTERY absolutely without further charge

IMPORTANT POINTS

- The Hobbs Battery has, under all conditions, 25% more strength and efficiency produced by the higher working voltage, than standard makes of lead plate batteries.
- It follows, logically that the Hobbs will spin the engine at higher speed.
- Also, that there will be 25% higher voltage delivered to the spark coil.
- Giving a 25% hotter spark to the explosive mixture in the cylinders
- Which gives quicker starting of the engine
- Thus causing less drain on the Hobbs battery for each start.
- It is a well known fact that 90% of all batteries are spoiled from lack of charge (under-nourished).
- But, since the Hobbs has less drain, it will keep more fully charged and requires 25% less electric current to fully recharge it when necessary. A Hobbs will be charged at only 1/2 the price of regular batteries.
- Therefore, the Hobbs battery will LOGICALLY LAST LONGER.
