FORMER PASTOR IN THE ORIENT

The Markham Economist publishes a very interesting letter from Rev. James Dickson, former pastor of Stouffville Presbyterian church, who with his bride are now serving on the mission field in Formosa, stationed at Tiahoku. As Rev. Mr. Dickson was quite well known locally we publish extracts of his very interesting letter as follows:—

Dear Friends.—We planned to get this news-letter off some time ago, but many things have filled our days to overflowing. The chief one of these is the study of the language as usual, and I dare say it will occupy our schedules for some time to come.

Since writing to you last, we have acquired a Ford car to help us in our work. It is a touring car of the 1926 model, but it serves our purpose very well, and we find it a great convenience and time-saver. We can now reach most of our churches in the north section of our field by car, and new roads are opening to many more cities and villages every year. For some time we have been going out to 2 different country church each week end in order to get acquainted with the preacher and the Christian people, as well as giving us practise in speaking the language. I am sure you would be interested to accompany us on such trips. When we arrive at the front of the church, we find that it appears very much like our country and small town churches at home, except that the home of the preacher is invariably at the rear of the church building and usually adjoining. To have the house face the street does not seem to be of the same importance here as it is at home. Also the location of the house behind the church has certain advantages of conveniences besides being a much cheaper site. The entire institution is always very plain, and is usually made of brick with cement floors, and very few decorations. The women sit on one side of the church, and the men on the other. Some of the churches have small organs made in Japan, which can be bought here very cheaply, but many of the poorer churches cannot afford this luxury, so the preacher must attempt to locate the proper key from his memory for the chosen hymns. If he is musically inclined, or has had the careful instruction of Mrs. Gaudin in our middle school and college, he usually gets along very nicely leading music without accompaniment. Otherwise, sometimes the result is not so pleasing.

In many places a church building has not yet been erected, although services are held regularly. Usually these services are held in rented halls. Very often the hall is situated on the main business street of the town with business houses buying and selling goods on both sides. When work is opened up in a new place a sign board is tacked up over the door, notifying the people that it is a "Christian Church" and services will be held every Sunday. The preacher lives in the rear of the building, and is there to talk and visit with those who are interested in the "New doctrine" at whatever time they come. When a service is held in a hall, many passing people are attracted in from the street by the sound, and the seed planted in their inquisitive hearts, which with proper nourishment and cultivation over a period of time, grows into a firm conviction, and we have eventually a little group of baptized Christians who are the nucleus of a church in their community.

One very interesting event has occurred since we last wrote to you. We have seen a period of great celebration because of the coronation of the new Emperor. This was naturally a period of great rejoicing, beautiful decorations everywhere, and great patriotic meetings, which always ended with "Banzai! Banzai! Banzai!" which is equivalent to "Long live the Emperor!" It is very interesting to see the intense patriotism and loyalty of the Japanese

RINGWOOD

Work is expected early this spring on the extension of the hydro line from here north on the 8th concession to Ballantrae.

Alex Jones of Dickson's Hill spent Easter in Kitchener. The tenant in the mill house at the Hill has vacated and moved to Dan Hall's house in Whitechurch. Now Alex what are you going to do with the empty cage?

The late Mrs. Wildgoose of Ringwood died January 4th, leaving three children, Dora, 15; Irene, 14; and Norman, 9. The deceased owned her house in Ringwood, valued at $2,000 and an equity of $1,900 in 383 Deloraine Ave., Toronto. She also had $972 in the bank and $237 on deposit with the T. Eaton Co. Mrs. Price who is a sister of deceased, lives in Toronto. A trustee will be appointed to look after the children's interest, administration being disallowed on request of a relative.

people to their country and Emperor.

One of the handicaps under which most of our preachers have labored here in the past has been that of a great dearth of reading material in the way of books, commentaries, and other books which are helpful in preparation for their work. Most of the preachers are too poor to buy more than a very few books, and there has been no sufficient library of the proper kind available in the island. However, we have now conceived of an idea which I believe will prove adequate to their needs. We are going to have a circulating library here in Tiahoku which will be used by any of the preachers on the field. They will be able to order any book they wish by mail and receive it in a day or two at any point on the mission. We have raised over one hundred dollars to date with which to purchase books. However, we need several times this amount to make the library what we wish it to be. We also wish to share the opportunity of helping to purchase these books with those of you in the homeland who care to give us a hand. The average cost of books in Japanese is about $1.50 each. If you send a check or a money order to me, I will see that it is converted into the needed books. "When thou comest, bring the books." 2 Tim. 4: 13. Even an Apostle must read!

During the Christmas holidays we took advantage of the fine weather by taking a little trip into the mountains of Formosa. We went to a mountain called "Arizan" which has an altitude of about 9,000 feet with peaks somewhat higher nearby, the highest of which is 13,000 feet. At Arizan some of the finest mountain scenery in Formosa, as well as in the Orient, can be seen. These mountain districts are the home of the so-called "Aborigines" of Formosa, who are known more widely as "head-hunters." One of the tribes had succeeded in procuring two heads the day we arrived at Arizan. We saw many members of a more peaceful tribe who live in the hills near there. A most interesting story is told of an incident which occurred in their midst many years ago and which so impressed them that they have never since attempted to take the head of a human being. A Chinese man lived among them and won their friendship. He was the means of their contact with the outside world, and would bring them matches, salt, and other needed articles which they did not have in the mountain. He had almost persuaded them to discontinue head-hunting. However, on one of their profligate days on which for years it had been the custom to offer a human head before the shrine of their ancestors, they insisted that they must procure a head for the occasion. The Chinaman pleaded with them, but they remained obdurate, although they promised faithfully that after taking this one more head, they would never take another. He then said, "Very well. I will help you. Follow my instructions and you will have little difficulty. To-morrow morning just as it begins to get light, if you will gather at this place with your knives and wait, you will see a man coming along this road wearing a red coat and a red hat. As he arrives at this place, leap out of the bushes and cut off his head." They followed all his instructions, but as the dawn of the next day brightened they discovered to their grief that the head they had cut off was the head of their best friend, the Chinaman. That tribe has always kept its promise to him, and no one needs to be afraid of going among them to this day, while a shrine is erected to him in that place.

After spending a couple of days on the mountain-top, we returned to the valley below and visited several of our country churches. In one hall we visited, a box was the orstrum placed in the front of the hall for the preacher to stand on while delivering to the people the "Word of Life". I have often heard of men preaching from a soap-box, but I was much surprised when I observed the preacher standing on this large box preaching the Gospel, while on the box in large letters was written "Takahashi Beer". However, I presume we were the only ones in the audience who could read English.

The New Ford Town Sedan
WILL BE READY THIS WEEK

The new Ford Town Sedan is designed for those who desire the convenience of moderate size and the distinction of fine car construction. It makes a modern and most convenient kind of family conveyance—powered to meet day requirements. The body is longer than other Ford passenger cars, thus affording an unusually roomy interior. In appearance The Town Sedan is quite imposing. It is of the three-window, four-door type.

The lines are low, long and straight. And this suggestion is emphasized by the smart French roof quarters and the belted moulding which runs sharply back from the radiator and circles the entire body. The Town Sedan is offered in a number of attractive color harmonies. Nickered headlamps, radiator and door handles provide attractive touches of brightness. There are nickered cowl lamps, too, and the smartest sort of finish strip at the juncture of hood and cowl. The plan of the body affords the utmost room and comfort. Wide doors give easy access to both front and rear compartments. There is exceptional head room. The driver's seat is wide and deep and completely cushioned. It is adjustable to the convenience of the driver—an appreciable feature on sustained trips. It is instantly and easily moved by means of a small, inconspicuous handle in the front centre of the rear seat just above the floor. The rear seat is particularly roomy. Five persons may be comfortably accommodated in The Ford Town Sedan. The seats are deeply cushioned in soft, pleated cloth. And the interior is trimmed throughout in harmonizing materials of rich texture. The flexible transverse springs of the chassis assure riding comfort. Houdaille shock absorbers front and rear enable one to take roads, as they come, with the utmost facility and ease. The comfort of The Ford Town Sedan is appreciated more than ever when the trip is of cross-country duration.

BUYING ON THE INSTALLMENT PLAN

Purchasing commodities by paying "a dollar down and a dollar a week" has grown into great popularity. Often the object purchased is worn out before it is paid for, and the purchaser continues to pay. Buy yourself a fortune on the installments of your earnings in a Bank of Commerce savings account. The money is always available for use if required and there is no depreciation but accruing interest as time goes on.

CEDAR SHINGLES
$4.50 per square

If you contemplate a new roof or repairing an old one, it will pay you to consider our WHITE CEDAR SHINGLES.

The White Cedar Shingles we handle are grown and sawn in Eastern Canada from Virgin growth timber, where climatic conditions are similar to our own. They are air dried.

Although there are a number of different grades in White Cedar Shingles, we only handle the best grade, which is an all clear Shingle without any sap.

White Cedar Shingles are sawn very plump at five Butts, being five Butts to 2" in thickness.

For a lasting roof it will pay you to investigate the good qualities of our White Cedar Shingles.

Phone, or better still, call around and see us.

- All citizens got a real April fool when turning on the light. No power and our town was in darkness Monday night, and no power all day Tuesday, the storm being so bad around Beaverton with the wires in such a tangle. All the towns east of Beaverton were without light Monday night.

WASHES, CARRIES COAL WOMAN GAINS 18 LBS.

"I wash, iron and carry coal and don't get tired since taking Vinol. Also, I have gained 18 pounds!" Mrs. S. Cortese.

Vinol is a delicious compound of cod liver peptone, iron, etc. Nervous, easily tired, anemic people are surprised how Vinol gives new pep, sound sleep and a BIG appetite. The very FIRST bottle often adds several pounds weight to this children or adults. Tastes delicious.
