(See 2 Kings 24: 1-17; 2 Chron. 36: 5-10; Jer. 24: 1.) the temple were destroyed, and only some of the poorest of the people left with Gedaliah, a Jewish prince of good character, as governor, 2 Kings 25: 22. Gedaliah was shortly afterward murdered by a renegade prince of Ju-- dah whom he had befriended and trusted, and the poor remnant of the people fled to Egypt taking Jeremiah, the prophet, with them. The kingdom of Judah came to an end with the fall of Jerusalem in B.C. 586, and was not re-established until the time of the Maccabees in the second and first centuries, B.C. Its entire history from the accession of David about B.C. 1010. covers about four hundred and twentyfive years. The kingdom of Israel which separated from Judah after the death of Solomon about B.C. 934, came to its end when the Assyrians took Samaria, its capital city, in B.C. 722. The prophet Isaiah had witnessed the fall of Samaria. Jeremiah was an old man when Jerusalem was taken. There must have been many who, in the hard conditions of captivity and exile, remembered, and were helped by their teaching.,

I. THE SIEGE OF JERUSALEM, VS. 1-74 Zedekiah, the last of the kings of Judah, a son of the great king Josiah. began to reign in B.C. 597. He was put upon the throne by the king of Babylon to whom he swore a solemn oath, of submission and allegiance. This oath he broke when he rebelled against Babylon in the ninth year of his reign, that is, in B.C. 588. Against this rash and foolish act Jeremiah, the prophet, had repeatedly warned him, assuring him that in continued submission to the king of Babylon lay the only way of safety for himself, and his people, Jer. 21: 1-10; 27: 1-18, etc. From his place of exile in Babylonia, whither he had been taken captive in B.C. 597, Ezekiel also denounced Zede kiah for the violation of his covenant bond and oath, Ezek. 17: 11-21. The unfortunate king seems to have been a man of good impulses, and, on the whole, disposed to be guided by Jeremiah's-good counsel, but he was too weak to resist the pressure brought to bear upon him by the evil counsellors with whom he was surrounded. It was in this same ninth year of his reign, B.C. 588, that Nebuchadnezzar, King of Babylon, came, he and all his host, against Jerusalem, v. 1. and they began to seek safety in flight, side of front and ties in bow at back, amounted to about two cents a pound Montreal is amazing when it is apws.: 3, 4. HOLIDAYS AND HEALTH

Health protection for the holiday maker has come to be regarded as an important necessity. The extensive automobile traffic of recent years has caused tourist camps and highway refreshment booths to spring up in great numbers. Unless these tourist services are properly cared for they may be the means of spreading disease. Improper sanitary measures including polluted drinking water, fly nuisance, infected utensils, contaminated food and refreshments must all be avoided. In order that the tourist and others using these facilities on the highways may be safeguarded the Provincial Department of Health in which will do well in these dark corspects all tourist camps and highway ners, and some actually prefer them. refreshment booths each year. Flowers for Shady Corners In even the larger gardens there are always some shady corners in which the ordinary flowers will not do well. In the average backyard the problem of brightening up these spots is ever more difficult because tall fences and closely-planted trees add to the shade. However, there are many flowers pansy, phlox, verbena. The tuberous rooted begonia is also recommended, and is usually at its best when almost completely shaded by foliage. - It is not the simplest thing in the world to grow, but will make such a display of brilliantly-coloured wax-like flowers that the extra trouble necessary is well worth while."

Growth Growth is one of the evidences of life, and growth in character is an evidence that your ambitions are still alive. There is no standing still in nature; when we cease to make progress we begin to retrogress. And the man who expresses satisfaction with his "level best" and does not ... try to raise that level will soon find his best sinking to a lower level, as the level of a fresh water lake_will lower if springs or streams of fresh water cease to come into it; F.
