Free Trade Within the Empire

Toronto Star (Ind.): Mr. Lapointe suggests that Canada's present course should be not the mistaken one of hoisting tariffs in reprisal against the United States, but granting increased preferences in Canada to British goods and goods from other British countries and foreign nations that do not specially fence out Canadian products. Some go so far as to say that this policy should, and may, be put into the effect to the extent of having free trade with the Empire and a tariff against the United States and foreign countries. That would be carrying the policy a long way. But in selected lists of goods at present largely imported from the United States there could be brought about a large shifting trade into british and into Empire channels. It cannot be denied that there is a growing feeling in Canada that the deliberate and specific attempts of the United States to thut out Canadian goods notwithstanding our enormous buying in their market, makes it necessary for Canada to look elsewhere for trade and not only look but push and prefer andfacilitate trading elsewhere. The British Empire is a vast field on which trade preference may operate.

Cattle Exports

Victoria Colonist (Cons.): The raids of the United States on the Canadian cattle markets are erratic and shortlived and as a consequence the history of the cattle industry in this country is unsatisfactory because there is no stability of markets. What Canada needs in this particular is a normal market for her cattle, a mar ket where supply and demand goveru. With that it would be possible to have a stable breeding programme. Now, under the new tariffs, and the desire on-the part of the United States to get on without Canadian cattle, this country will have to develop other markets, and perhaps, as well, increase its own consumption of beef. This new dispensation will probably lead to less price disturbance, which in the past has been caused by the occasional attractions of the American demand.

The Development of the North

London Free Press (Cons.): There is no question that Western Canada is on the threshold of a new era of development. The first period was the stage of pioneer settlement, when it was actually necessary to prove that agricultural products, and particularly wheat, could be grown on the prairies. Then came the great period of agricultural expansion, when the prairies became the wheat basket of the world. ow the West is expanding. It is becoming an industrial country; it is developing mining in the north; it is opening up many other resources. It is becoming a many-sided country. The next decade should be a great one in Canada and particularly for Northern and Western Canada. The North is coming into its own.

Lord Passfield's Appointment

The British Preference

Saskatoon Star-Phoenix (Lib.): An increase in the British preference would help to redress the balance of trade between Canada and the Mother Country, indirectly enlarge Canada's market overseas, stimulate commerce by the Hudson Bay route and enable British manufacturers to compete more effectively with Americans for Canadian business. For all these reasons the policy of reducing or abolishing duties on imports from Britain would be immensely popular in Western Canada and could hardly be a lacked in the industrial East.

One of the chief reasons why the weed menace has increased with each succeeding years is the undeniable fact that in the past vast quantities of weeds have been allowed to ripen seeds on roadsides in school-yards, on waste and vacant lands, along our lanes and headlands and in our fence corners and odd spots here and there on the
