Fashions, Fads, Foibles

Corsets have come back, but they are not the hour glass variety. They are more comfortable and give strong support across the abdomen. Many camouflages conceal the portly lines we have developed in the recent corsetless days. The waist is higher in front and merely hinted at by means of tucks and shirrings. This is less trying than the belt. Boleros,, capes and hip-length jackets add grace to the none too slender silhouette. The longer skirts seem to give added height to; the short figure. They also add mystery, romance and feminine

The longer skirt, which at first was uneven of hem, to break the news gently to us, has now become frankly longer and of even hemline. It may be anywhere from four inches below the knee, to ankle length for the dance, and perhaps support a train; at that. We are already discarding the very short skirts without remonstrance and there is no question but we will wear the long ones; long. Skirts also have more flare and we are making two yards of goods grow where one grew before, to the delight of fabric dealers.

Turbans are a popular form of headgear. They often match the suit in material. Hats are much like variations of baby bonnets, with shallow crowns, long back brims, and flattering long side lines. Ears as wel as knees are now hidden.

The Aga Khan's Many Palaces

If one were asked to point out the most romantic figure of our day, is there anybody who could excel, for the picturesque and the astonishing, the remarkable and outstanding personality of Sir Sultan Mallomet Shah, or, as he is better known in both hemispheres, the Aga Khan?

Kipling said, in a famous and much quoted line, that East is East and West is West, and never the twain shall meet. The Aga Khan is perhars the amazing exception that proves the rule. It he is part of the splendor of the immemorial East, he is also and equally the fine flower of Western culture.

You might see him at any time, frock-coated and top hatted, strolling about the West End of London, looking into the shops, especially the bookshops and the picture shops, and you would take him for a French or Italian gentleman, spending a quiet holiday.

A Modernist

You might see him again on the various parts of the Orient. They Promenade des Auglais, at Nice, clad are full of treasures incomparable. in a sweater, white flannels and shoes, They are workshops also, crowded from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., taking a vigorous three-mile morning with secretaries and clerks, priests Brockville, Ont. exercise walk, and you might take and students, busy with the details him for a typical modernist European of administratin. gentleman, obsessed by the typical modernist idea of keeping fit.

Or you might come across him on a French or English race course watching the horses parading in the paddock, or possibly leading in one of his own thoroughbreds after triumphant victory, an obvious gentleman of leisure, affable, courteous, approachable.

You would be in the main right in your deductions. But that would be but a minor part of his dramatic story, a mere prologue to the omen coming on.,

You would find, if you inquired, that he is also a great Oriental potentate, more powerful than the legendary Tamurlaine, or the magnificent Aurungzebe, not less awe-inspiring to his followers, the the autocratic Saj-ud-Dowlah himself.

His War Services

When the Aga Khan visited East Africa his followers prostrated themselves before him, strewed the road with flowers, and almost obliterated him with garlands. Also, they begged him to accept gifts of motor cars, and to honor them by allowing them to defray all his expenses.

But the picture would be hopelessly incomplete if it did not indicate the high seriousness of this remarkable potentate, or his patriotic devotion to the British Empire. #### DO YOU SUFFER FROM CONSTIPATION?

Countless remedies are advertised for constipation. Many relieve for the moment but they are habit forming and must be continued. Others contain calomel and dangerous mineral drugs, which remain in the system, settle in the joints and cause aches and pains. Some are harsh purgatives which cramp and gripe and leave a depressed after effect.

Avoid lubricating oils which only grease the intestines and encourage nature's machinery to become lazy. A purely vegetable laxative such as Carter's Little Liver Pills, gently touches the liver, bile starts to flow, the bowels move gently, the intestines are thoroughly cleansed and constipation poisons pass away.
