RABBI SPEAKS FROM CHRISTIAN PULPIT

Jewish Preacher Declares the Rabbi Jesus was a Pacifist—But Still His Followers Prepare for War

To see ourselves as others see us was the experience of a Christian congregation of Stouffville, which assembled in the auditorium of the United Church on Monday evening to hear Rabbi Eisendrath of Holy Blossom Synagogue, Toronto, give an address on the subject, "Were I a Christian."

In his opening remarks the Rabbi said his listeners might with some justification challenge him for speaking on this subject, rather than on Judaism, or something more familiar to him. Familiarity, he said, often breeds contempt, and he illustrated this by telling of the man and wife who go down through the years together becoming accustomed to the changes in each other so that they are all unconscious of them, but to one who had not come into contact with them for years, the change is all too apparent. Sometimes we see things from the outside that those on the inside fail to observe.

The chief points in the address was the attempt of the speaker to show the utter disparity between the practices of the so-called Christian nations and the teachings of the Man of Nazareth and his related to his non-militaristic life, and the brotherhood of man, and this he accomplished in an able address of some 45 minutes duration.

"If I were a Christian I fear I could not be a member of any nation requiring me to shed blood in defence of my country, or in other words requiring me to be a killer. The Rabbi Jesus was a pacifist, and the commandment 'Thou shalt not Kill,' would prevent me from being a killer. The Rabbi cited three cases where persons were refused citizenship in the so-called Christian nation to the south of us which is also his native country, because they refused to promise to kill in defence of that nation if need arose. 'I challenge any man to say that Jesus would have had anything to do with that last great awful carnage and bloody slaughter in Europe, nor would he have been found in the front line trenches.' If the ethics of Jesus be complete as the way of life for all people, then nations must cease their furious preparation for war. If the Christian nations were really following him, the great London Peace Conference with its bickerings would have no place he stated.

"If I were a Christian I do not think I could be a conscientious citizen of any nation that engages men in their laboratories seeking out means that will snuff out the lives of nations and peoples. He declared that efforts are being supported and discoveries made by scientists to put up all manner of beastly germs such as those of scarlet fever, whooping cough, and scourges of many kinds. These the scientist is putting away in tiny test tubes so that when the time comes they may be distributed from aeroplanes over enemy lands into wells, etc. He referred to the blasphemy of prayers such as the one written by Mark Twain and uttered from the lips of preachers, priests and Rabbi for the destruction of the enemy—uttered to the 'Prince of Peace.'"

"If I were a Christian I would stand one and for all for the renunciation of everything that stood for bloodshed." The speaker said it was evident from the words of Jesus that not all things belonged to God, when he said, "render unto Caesar."

"If I were a Christian I would strive to be a man loyal not to one nation but to all peoples of the earth." To think of a society which calls itself Christian permitting men to tramp the streets in war, living under conditions such as exist in our cities. As a Christian he would strive for a little more equality in the world's goods, and equality of men. Christ said 'as ye have done it unto the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto Me.' He cited a case where a negro was refused admittance to a restaurant because of his color, and that negro happened to be a composer of one of the numbers on the program.

Finally, the Rabbi, if a Christian, would end once and for all time this discrimination against the people who gave him his religion. As Christians we might fall on our knees and say glory to God for the people who gave us our religion. If he were a Christian he would not tolerate the Jew, he would understand him. He would love him. I would extend him a welcome, he declared, "and he referred to the bad conditions in which some of the chosen race are forced to live under."

"Before I sought to convert the Jew I would go into Wall street, the wealthy sections of our cities, our palaces, and would seek to convert

NEW FARM HAND WANTED FOR THEFT

A young man just out from Denmark on the third of April robbed his first employer, Cecil Latham of the 3rd concession of Uxbridge, and made a successful escape with fifteen dollars in cash and some small articles last Sunday night. The money was taken from Mrs. Latham's purse.

Mr. and Mrs. Latham were absent from home during the evening, leaving their new man to look after the place, but on their return at 10 o'clock they discovered the young Dane had packed his trunk and carried it on his back to Claremont some hours before. He shipped the trunk to Toronto, but left the station and has not been seen since. Police hope to effect his arrest when he ultimately calls for his trunk at the station in Toronto.

The new comer had only a small grasp of the English language, and this will make it extra hard for him to carry on in the manner he has set. It is likely that he will be deported when caught, although up to Wednesday afternoon he was still at large.

BAIL SECURED FOR SUSPECTED ROBBERS

The third arrest in connection with the recent tailor shop robbery was made last Saturday when a man named McFadden was taken into custody. Information was gained from letters and admissions made that plans were laid to rob the store of M. T. Leavens in the east end, but the robbery was not carried out.

The second man arrested on this charge has been given his freedom as it was learned that he had no connection with the affair, although the man Flader is reported to have acknowledged his guilt. On Tuesday the case was to have been tried, but owing to the absence of the Crown Attorney, it was laid over until Wednesday of this week. It is not likely that will be passed until further investigation is made into the character of the man implicated.

them to a Christianity which taught that it were easier for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter the Kingdom of Heaven. Rabbi and Mrs. Eisendrath came out from Toronto on the invitation of the Swastikas Club of the church. While here they were the guests of Councillor and Mrs. Borinsky at dinner as well as the guests of the society who passed a hearty vote of thanks for the able address given. The Rabbi is a young man of very modern dress. He possesses a keen intellect, and a pleasing personality which has a winning effect over his audience.

UNITEDS MAY CALL REV. T. LAIDLAW

Congregation Must Ratify Action of the Board—Salary $2000

The Official Board of the Stouffville United Church, at a largely attended meeting last week, extended a call to Rev. Thos. Laidlaw of Owen Sound to become pastor of this church. This invitation or call is subject to the approval of the congregation, which is summoned to meet this Wednesday night to approve or reject the action of the Board.

With the consent of the congregation in the choice of a new minister, made by their officials there is still another obstacle in the way of this call being acted on. In the unique manner in which the United Church exchanges ministers, it is necessary that the resident pastor be acceptable to the congregation at Owen Sound, in order to make the exchange, but in this instance there is little likelihood of this proving any difficulty, as Rev. H. S. Warren is said to be practically certain of a call to the northern city.

From information gathered from officials The Tribune is assured that there is nothing in the way of the call going through, and that after June Rev. Thos. Laidlaw will be the resident minister. At one time he was pastor on the Epsom-Utica circuit of the former Methodist church, and later ministered at Aurora. (While in Owen Sound he has been chairman of the Gray presbytery, and has been in his present charge for five years.)

In finally making the call to Mr. Laidlaw the Stouffville church will be stepping this charge up to a $2000 one, for that is the salary to be attached, as Mr. Laidlaw is drawing this amount at present. Mr. Warren, likewise, will be stepping up from $1800 with a free parsonage to $2000. This Wednesday's meeting, to be held in the church at 8 o'clock, is likely to be interesting as there are some opposed to the higher salary.

It is said that quite a following favor extending a call to Rev. Mr. Wite, of Belleville, who is willing to accept the $1800 salary attached to this charge. The obstacle in the way here is that Rev. H. S. Warren is not keen on accepting the call extended to him to go to Belleville.

Contracts for paving, bridges grading and culverts in Ontario amounting to more than $3,000,000 were awarded last week by the Hon. George S. Henry, Minister of Highways and Public Works.

Approximately 100 miles of paving will be done in the province during the current year on Provincial roads and a third lot of contracts will be let in the near future.

Contracts have been let for the following work in the section north of here in Ontario county and most cases work will commence as soon as the ground is clear of frost. A new bridge will be erected near Blackwater Junction by the Sherwood Construction Company, and grading will be done from Sunderland corner to Beaverton, a distance of 11 1/2 miles, and from Beaverton to Brechin 8 1/2 miles. The contract for the former was let to Roadbuilders Limited and the latter to the York Construction Company.

SERG. KIRK WAS INSTANTLY KILLED

Sergt. Thos. Kirk, of Newmarket pride of the York County police force is dead. He was instantly killed at 2 a.m. Wednesday morning of last week when the car he was driving south on Yonge street a mile north of Thornhill with Constables Shadwick and Hull as passengers sideswiped a passing car and turned over several times, throwing them out through the roof. The two passengers were but slightly hurt.

The car careened madly over the radial tracks, lost two wheels in its rush and stopped against a lamp post. The impact was terrific. The lamp post was jammed into the engine.

The sergeant's body was picked up some 35 feet from the wreckage. His neck was broken and his body was terribly disfigured. The whole inside of the car was torn loose by the force of the crash, tossed out through the roof and strewn over the roadway.

Strangely enough, the other car in the accident was practically unharmed, only a flat tire and a smashed mudguard at the rear. Only six hours before the accident Sergt. Kirk was in Stouffville, and interviewed the editor of this paper respecting a better communication between himself and the farmers of this locality who are suffering from chicken thieves. The sergeant outlined plans to us which he had to trap these roost raiders if only he were summoned promptly following a theft, instead of withholding the information several days as some farmers have been known to do.

Second Car Safe. William Rodick, driver of the car travelling north on Yonge street, had one passenger in his car, Gordon New, of Thornhill. Neither suffered any injury but were visibly affected by the death of Tom Kirk, whom they knew.

Mr. Rodick, when asked how the accident happened, stated, "I have absolutely no idea. I was travelling north on Yonge street at the time and saw the car approaching, but as to what actually happened I cannot say."

Sergt. Kirk, along with Officers Shadwick and Hull, of Sutton, was driving to the city after an investigation of the recent numerous robberies around Sutton, Mount Albert, and Stouffville. Two of the alleged robbers had been caught and clues as to the remaining members of the gang were being followed up. Sergt. Kirk had been working night and day on the case and had very little sleep during the last two weeks.

Sergt. Kirk was buried from his late home in Newmarket on Saturday afternoon, a number from here attending the funeral.

Miss Wahneita Taun and Lillian Dowsell left town on Thursday afternoon for a holiday tour of the Eastern States. Stopovers will be made in Buffalo, Washington, Atlantic City, and New York.
