

Canadian Budget Was Trump Card

Had Important Bearing on Election in West Fulham UNIONIST CAMPAIGN

London—The West Fulham by-election, in which a former Labor majority of four figures in a three-cornered contest was reversed in a two-candidate fight, almost entirely fought on the fiscal issue, to victory for the Unionist Empire crusader, is most encouraging to those engaged in educating the British electorate on the value and wisdom of the adoption of a tariff protection policy.

The Canadian budget, revealing that Canada is minded to assist British trade, undoubtedly proved a trump card in the West Fulham Unionist campaign. While it would be unwise to over-emphasize the significance of the result, it would be equally foolish to ignore the implications because (1) of the two Oppositions' deliberate and successful effort to make the fiscal question the outstanding point of their campaign, and (2) because the Liberal and Labor parties threw some of their strongest speakers in the constituency, whereas Sir Cyril Cobb depended almost wholly on the support of Lord Beaverbrook until the last few days, when the Rt. Hon. L. C. Amery, with one or two assistants of secondary ability as speakers, entered the arena.

Moreover, the fact that West Fulham provided the first loss of a by-election for the Labor Party since the general election adds weight to the claim that it may mark the turning point in the British political situation, especially since in the last eight by-elections Labor majorities have been steadily reduced.

Apathy of Voters

The Labor candidate in West Fulham, J. W. Balfour, attributes his defeat to the apathy of Labor voters. If this is correct, it is most significant, because Labor's enthusiasm is the one factor which has enabled it to challenge Unionism with any hope of success. The want of this enthusiasm would be absolutely fatal to Labor.

A considerable section of the Liberal party must feel gravely disturbed over the party showing in West Fulham, both from the viewpoint of the voting effect and because of the fact that Liberal speakers supported Labor, whose policy in many of its phases violates Liberal tenets. The result ought to encourage Conservative leaders greatly and add vim to the month of Home and Empire campaign now beginning.

In the words of the Daily Telegraph: "It is apparent from the West Fulham contest that the Unionist party have a winning program, when it is presented with energy, conviction and zeal." The paper also says: "The moral of West Fulham is to go forward fearlessly against a discredited Government and put into the approaching election in Central Nottingham the same demonic energy which had splendid results."

Should the Unionists carry Nottingham the seat will ring an alarm which will bring the Cobdenites out with a rush and Britain will have politically a hot summer.

The Unionist press pays tribute to the galvanizing touch and proselytizing fervor of Lord Beaverbrook, who must be greatly cheered by evidences of the progress of his Empire Crusade.

Can It Be Done?

Briton Predicts Dogs Will Talk if Bred for Brain Development

London—Possibility of developing a breed of dogs that can talk is envisaged by Dr. W. L. English, a well known dog breeder of Crewe, England.

Such a breed could be developed by intensive training through the life of a few human generations, according to Dr. English, who in an interview declared that the information gained in developing a breed of talking dogs could be used in laying the groundwork for the development of the prospected "superman" of the future.

"It is no use breeding men who are simply physically strong on the Carnarvon standard," said Dr. English. "We must improve their brains. But before we can do that we must experiment on how to improve their brains. Why not, therefore, experiment with dogs, whose brains are similar to those of men?"

"While dog breeders for centuries have produced dogs, of all shapes, sizes and colors, they have missed a glorious opportunity of experimenting with canine brains."

"Dogs have no more intelligence than they had in early Egyptian times—a tame fox or tame wolf would have the same mental capacity. I personally believe that under a course of training and breeding consistently pursued for a few human generations the canine brain could be developed to a stage where dogs could talk."

The gratification which may be derived from revenge is but momentary, while the pleasure of forgiveness is everlasting.

"Tommy" - Lord Dewar

The passing of Lord Dewar—everybody called him "Tommy" behind his back—recalls memories of London before the war turned the World upside down. He was a member of the Five O'clock Club which met every afternoon in the Smoking Room of the Savoy. I can see him now, seated in a corner, telling his latest story, in his inimitable style—for he was a born raconteur and always had a new one on tap—with the celebrated waiter, "Beefy," hovering nearby. I can see, too, the sudden look of pain—a hurt look—that would spread over Tommy's face when someone, often out of devotion, ordered some other brand of refreshment than that which made the name of Dewar known all over the world. It seemed to say: "That is really more than I can endure." (No offense intended). Now and again, too, some affluent visitor in the circle would order champagne, but Tommy Dewar never touched it, preferring as he put it, the beverage that made Scotland famous.

Dewar was a noted wit and a popular after-dinner speaker. He once "brought down the house" by winding up a speech with:

"And now, like Lady Godiva, after a short but interesting journey, I approach my close."

DO YOU SUFFER FROM CONSTIPATION?

Countless remedies are advertised for constipation. Many relieve for the moment but they are habit forming and must be continued. Others contain calomel and dangerous mineral drugs, which remain in the system, settle in the joints and cause aches and pains. Some are harsh purgatives which cramp and grip and leave a depressed after effect. Avoid lubricating oils which only grease the intestines and encourage nature's machinery to become lazy. A purely vegetable laxative such as Carter's Little Liver Pills, gently touches the liver, bile starts to flow, the bowels move gently, the intestines are thoroughly cleansed and constipation poisons pass away. The stomach, liver and bowels are now active and the system enjoys a real tonic effect. All druggists 25c and 75c red pkgs.

People "All Nerves"

What to Do if You Find Yourself in This Condition.

The sort of thing that specialists call nervous debility is the run-down condition caused by over-work and household worries. The sufferers find themselves tired, low-spirited and unable to keep their mind on anything. Any sudden noise startles and sets the heart palpitating violently. They cannot sleep well at night; their hands tremble and legs seem unable to support them. Such a condition is indeed pitiable.

Doctoring the nerves with sedatives is a terrible mistake. The only real nerve tonic is a supply of good red blood. Therefore the treatment for nervousness and run-down health is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which promptly build up and enrich the blood. The revived appetite, the strengthened nerves, improved spirits and new strength which come after a course of these pills will delight every sufferer.

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Business Better in Canadian West

Winnipeg—Business conditions in the West have greatly improved during the past few months, according to A. E. Warren, vice-president, Western Region, Canadian National Railways, on his return to Winnipeg, after completing an extensive tour of the Western provinces.

"In Vancouver, Calgary and Edmonton," Mr. Warren stated, "I find business men much more hopeful than they were the last time I made a trip through the West in January. There seems to be a prevailing spirit of optimism, and a general feeling that things are better."

Mr. Warren said that farmers, too, seemed more hopeful. There was little tendency to decrease the acreage of wheat.

Crying Babies Are Sickly Babies

The well child does not cry—it is only the sickly baby who cries. The well child is laughing and happy. Baby's cry of distress is his way of telling the mother or nurse, that he is ill. Therefore, if your baby cries do not delay in looking for the trouble.

Baby's Own Tablets are a safe and efficient remedy for childhood ailments. They are a mild but thorough laxative which through their action on the stomach and bowels banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers and promote healthful sleep. They will make baby happy and keep him happy. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Courage Does It

Immigrant Prospers as Farmer Despite Northwest's "Hard Luck"

Pierre S.D.—Under the title of "Farm Hard Luck" a newspaper in Potter County, this state, casts doubt on the view that few can make a living at farming in the Northwest. The story is that of a farmer who bought a shipment of hogs and deposited a draft for $1,600, out of which he paid the last obligation against him except instalments yet due on a farm he has purchased.

This man came to this country from Belgium twelve years ago unable to speak English. He took a job first as a section man and later on a farm and saved enough to bring his family to this country. Since that time he has bought and paid for up-to-date farm equipment and has purchased a number of cattle and hogs besides buildings and other improvements on his place. This in spite of the fact that one year saw his entire efforts wiped out by hail, and for two years his crop was cut short by drought.

Members of his family have twice required expensive hospital and medical treatment which has been paid for, and he is supporting his father who is incapacitated. All this in a section of the Northwest where it has been said repeatedly that farmers can not make a living under existing conditions and must have assistance or be wiped out.

"Why did Mrs. Flamingo refuse to take Mr. Kangaroo into her boarding house?" "Why, she was afraid he'd jump his board."

One movie actress is said to have lost her job because she wouldn't work for less than $12,500 a week. We may now have to add a cello line to the bread line.

The G.P.O.'s Latest

The ordinary telegraph service run by the Post Office has had rather an unfortunate record, but there are distinct possibilities about a new departure in this line the G.P.O. is considering.

This is a public telegraph exchange, subscribers to which will be able to communicate with each other by means of teleprinters.

When a message is to be sent, a typist sits down at the keyboard of the teleprinter, calls the exchange by pressing a button, and waits until the connection is obtained. This is signalled by the word "through," together with the number of the subscriber called, being printed on the receiver of the teleprinter. Then the message is sent.

It is printed automatically on the receiver in the office called, and a reply can be sent at once. If there is no one in the office called, the message is still put through, but then the printed slip waits until someone arrives to attend to it.

At the time of writing, no decision has been made regarding the scheme. If it is proceeded with, it will probably be a year or two before it is in working order.

Who Started Income-Tax

Income-tax, the increase in which is the cause of so much debate, has had a curious and rather stormy history. Originally, it wasn't a politician's idea at all, or even a civil servant's. It was invented by a clergyman, Dr. Henry Beeke. He suggested it to Pitt, who adopted the suggestion eagerly, and rewarded its originator by making him Dean of Bristol.

But the tax was highly unpopular, and it was abandoned after the close of the Napoleonic wars. Not only that, but the records of it were ordered to be destroyed.

There was a precedent for this, a tax imposed by Henry IV, only being agreed to on condition that it would not be repeated, and that all the documents relating to it should be destroyed.

No one now knows what this tax was, but income-tax was not peculiarly forgotten. In 1842 Sir Robert Peel, faced with a troublesome deficit, revived it "temporarily." Its removal was promised on various occasions, but the promise was never fulfilled.

Mothers on Pilgrimage

A scheme now being put into operation by the United States authorities is likely to arouse a great deal of interest in this country.

This month the first contingent of a body of 6,000 American women are landing in this country, en route for the battlefields and war cemeteries. They are all mothers who lost sons during the War, and who are now visiting their graves at the expense of the U.S. Government.

The first party of these "gold star" mothers, as the Americans call them, will be followed by others until the end of August this year. But the pilgrimages will be resumed in 1921.

Long Frocks are Dangerous

The new long frocks have certain big disadvantages, which those who are wearing them for the first time for years are beginning to realize.

One very real danger is that of fire. While, short skirts were worn, a woman could stand near a fire without risk. When long frocks are the order of the day, that is no longer safe. They are liable to catch fire, and the flimsy materials now so popular flare up very easily.

One or two cases have already occurred in which dresses have caught fire in this way. Fortunately, they have been extinguished without injury to the wearers, but there is no guarantee that this will always be the case. So, if women must wear long frocks, they will have to exercise caution.

When Food Sours

About two hours after eating many people suffer from sour stomachs. They call it indigestion. It means that the stomach nerves have been over-stimulated. There is excess acid. The way to correct it is with an alkali, which neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

The right way is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—just a tasteless dose in water. It is pleasant, efficient and harmless. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 60 years since its invention.

It is the quick method. Results come almost instantly. It is the approved method. You will never use another when you know.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any druggist.
