

LOCAL HAPPENINGS

Six weeks till Christmas.

Girl wanted for general housework. Mrs. David Elliott, phone Stouffville 7606.

Mr. Jim Musron was the first of the local hunters to return from the chase. He reached home on Monday with a nice 150 pound animal.

Messrs. F. L. and E. A. Buttor and party were on a rabbit hunt near Zephyr on Monday. The town solicitor says they ran too fast!

The Curling Club members are asked to meet in their rink on Monday, Nov. 17, at 7.30 p.m. Dr. Sangster is the president, and Reeve Sanders the secretary.

Thanksgiving Day was a quiet one in town. Family gatherings and fowl dinners were the order. Motor traffic was much lighter than on other holidays earlier in the season.

Mr. Tim O'Neil, undertaker with W. J. Mather, has rented the brick residence almost opposite the Presbyterian church, from Noah Baker, and moved in last week. While Mr. O'Neil has been in Stouffville for a couple of years, his wife remained in Port Perry, but now they will take up permanent residence with us. We welcome Mrs. O'Neil to our town.

McLaughlin six cylinder car for sale, in excellent running order. A bargain for quick sale. A. Timkamp, phone 2811.

Rev. A. Harden, chaplain of Richardson Masonic Lodge occupied the pulpit in the United church on Sunday evening, while the regular pastor Rev. T. Laidlaw officiated at the anniversary service in Goodwood.

"Old Timer" is favoring the readers of The Tribune with another series of articles "Do you remember 'way back when?" The writer, however, would appreciate hearing from others on this score, and if you have some little incident to recall send it to the editor or come in and let us and we will do the rest.

Farmers who contemplate an auction sale are warned not to allow any auctioneer to influence them as to where they get their bills printed. An effort on the part of certain outside auctioneers lately to secure the farmers order for sale bill which were then printed outside the territory, led to the farmers leaving to pay out many unnecessary dollars. Insist on getting your advertising at home where the local publisher will look after the detail of advertising your sale.

Keep in mind the date of Saturday December 6, for the O.E.S. Baking Sale.

The regular meeting of the Whitechurch Township Council for November will be held on Saturday.

Experienced farm hand wants a place for the winter or by the year. Single. Apply to E. Timkamp, Ph. 2811.

Owing to the continued illness of Miss Logan the early part of this week the primary room in the public school was taught by Miss Erma Holden.

A union thanks-giving service was held in the Mennonite church at Dixon's Hill on Monday afternoon at three o'clock. Pastor S. S. Shantz of Stouffville was the speaker.

This Christmas the local public school will not offer for sale seals for the benefit of the Muskoka Hospital. Any who wish to obtain these Christmas stickers may procure them at the banks.

The Churchill Institute meeting which was postponed last week will be held on Wednesday, Nov. 19, at the home of Mrs. Louis Thompson, Lake Musselman. The Pine Orchard Institute will be entertained and will provide the program.

Collectors for the Upper Canada Bible Society are on their rounds in Stouffville and district. Miss S. Stewart and Mrs. Russell have collected in the north-west ward over $100, with more promised. Which section will surpass this good record? Let us hear from you.

Correspondents would confer a favor by mailing their copy to this paper Monday of each week if at all possible or place it in our hands Tuesday morning at latest. So much late copy the past few weeks has caused much news matter to be crowded out of that issue for which it was intended.

Frank Burkholder, son of Mr. Nelson Burkholder has purchased the dairy business at Markham operated by Mr. Webber. Prior to this Frank had a similar business in Lindsay which he disposed of some time ago. We trust he will find business well to his liking in our neighboring village.

Mr. Robt. Miller stated an interesting fact when officiating at the unveiling ceremony on Sunday afternoon, when he said that statistics showed that the citizens of Stouffville gave more of their substance in money per capita than any other town in Canada, through the Red Cross and other movements for the soldiers during the Great War. This is something to look back to with pride.

Potatoes were being bought in wholesale or car lots from the farmers at Uxbridge last week at only 60 cents a bag. Everything a farmer has to sell has noticeably sagged in price, but the retail prices at the stores have not followed to any noticeable extent. Gasoline for instance is just as high as other years while paper is fixed at a point near the war-time high. Hides are a drug on the market, but wholesalers demand almost as much as ever for boots. When all these things find their level good times will come again.

The many friends in this neighborhood were shocked to learn of the death in York County Hospital of John A. Forsyth, a former resident of the 9th congregation of Whitechurch who moved only last spring to lot 26, concession 4, East Gwillimbury. Mr. Forsyth was seriously injured when he fell off a beam in his barn. He was rushed to the hospital, but survived only a few days. At the time of the accident this former resident of the Musselman's Lake district was engaged one evening in assisting his barn to catch some pigeons in the barn for which purpose he climbed up to the beam from which he fell. He was only 44 years of age, and his sudden ending is mourned by a large host of friends who extend every sympathy to Mrs. Forsyth and family. Many from here attended the funeral at Church Hill Cemetery.

Following the Unionville bank robbery last week expressions were freely made on the street that Stouffville would be the next point of attack. Gangsters cleaned up here before with considerable ease, and the place is not less vulnerable today than it was a few years ago. Isn't it a strange thing how independent the big banking institutions appear over the hundreds of thousands of dollars stolen from them annually by hold-up men, when people are expecting something different from shrewd business men. There is little doubt but that some sort of alarm system could be installed in country branches of all banks which would alert the police in getting on the trail of these bank thieves earlier in the game. The apparent indifference of the banks is not due to the fact that they carry insurance against theft, because the insurance rates advance when the amount of money stolen in any one year advances. The less stolen the less the insurance rates.

Some vandals have destroyed the signs placed along the bush property on the Atkinson and Grose farm east of town on the townline. Their names are being sought and action will be taken against any trespassers on this property.

Miss Helen Rowbotham entered St. John's Hospital on Tuesday of last week where she underwent an operation for spinal trouble. Drs. Starr and Clarke performed a double operation, and Miss Rowbotham is progressing as favorably as can be expected, her friends will be glad to know.

The returned soldier found in destitute circumstances living in a shack on the townline east of Stouffville has since been placed in fairly comfortable circumstances. In addition he has received word that his application for pension has been approved, and money will be forthcoming at once. The local veterans and organizations who rendered such prompt aid when the matter was first known are to be commended.

We do not know whether there is a pension for bank caretakers as there is for bank managers and other officials; but if so, Mrs. John McKinnon ought to soon be eligible for it. She holds this position at the Canadian Bank of Commerce here, and is now completing her 36th year. Mrs. McKinnon took the work when the building was erected by the former Standard Bank in 1894. At that time the bank carried on just across the road, and when their present building was constructed in that year Mrs. McKinnon became the first and only caretaker up to the present time.

The Stouffville Thanks-giving market was one of the smallest we have seen here in nine years, and perhaps prices were the lowest too. Farmers must have anticipated low prices for fowl for there was scarcely enough offered to supply the local demand. The top priced fowl, of course, were turkey, and they sold at the very reasonable price of 30 cents a pound as against 40c and 43c last Thanksgiving. Geese were most sought after by local people, who were able to get their requirements filled at Ratcliff's and Scott's at 22 cents a pound. The farmers received 20 cents for the most part although some early sales were made at 18c, but when it became apparent that few geese were coming the price stiffened. Chickens, of which there was a plentiful supply brought from 20 to 27 cents a pound, according to quality which was as varied as the price. Ducks went to 22 cents. Pullet eggs at 35 cents and hen eggs 45 to 50, compensated for the drop in dressed poultry to those farmers who had the hen fruit.

The citizens in general will regret to know that Dr. F. A. Dales and Mrs. Dales will shortly be leaving Stouffville to reside in Toronto. As announced last week their comfortable home has been sold to Mr. Cliff Pipher who takes possession at the end of this month. The residence which stands just opposite the United church was remodelled in 1916. Dr. Dales moved to Stouffville just thirty years ago coming here as a young practitioner from Myrtle to take over the business of Dr. Rowan. He enjoyed a good practise which always received his faithful attention. He came through the hard years of country practise when often it was necessary to drive all night in every imaginable kind of weather, and it was a matter for general regret when his health broke down a year ago which necessitated him retiring from participation in the work he enjoyed so much. As a public spirited citizen Dr. Dales served his community well by having been medical officer of health and also a councillor. Every movement for the betterment of the community received his wholehearted support, hence he will be missed as will Mrs. Dales who is the charter worthy matron of the local chapter of the Eastern Star, in Masonic circles the doctor served as worshipful master of Richardson Lodge as well as being a member of the local Oddfellows Lodge. An auction sale of their household goods is announced for Thursday, November 20th.

Send the Tribune to absent friends.

A GORMLEY BEAR

The inhabitants in the vicinity of Gormley are all excited over the thought of a wild bear roaming their farms. One has been cited by various farmers the past few days, although one or two declare the thing is a gorilla. Erstwhile brave dogs that have never been known to back up from man or beast take one look at Old Bruin then flee.

Tuesday night Jos. Jones of the 3rd con. sighted Mr. Bear sitting in his front yard. The dog awakened him and at first tackled the bear but when once in close quarters he refused to go to the attack again. Mr. Jones has no gun and finally the bear ambled off and is still at large.

AWARDED $1000 IN SUIT AGAINST HOSPITAL

Awakening on the night of April 29th last to find his bed clothes in flames and badly burned as a result, F. H. Prosser formerly of Newmarket, and well known in Stouffville, being a son of the late Rev. D. Prosser, radio salesman, brought suit against the Sisters of St. Joseph's Hospital, and in a judgment handed down by Mr. Justice McEvoy at Osgoode Hall, is awarded $1,000 and costs. The plaintiff, whose claim that the hospital was guilty of negligence in leaving him alone smoking a cigarette after he had been given a sedative, was upheld by the judge, sought damages of $5,000.

"Upon the whole case," Justice McEvoy states, "I am of the opinion that the evidence establishes the plaintiff went there to be nursed by the hospital, that it was negligence on the part of the hospital after giving him a sleeping draught to leave him alone and unattended by some nurse with a cigarette in his hand. I cannot help from the evidence feeling that what the plaintiff was paying for was nursing and watching in this case. The sleeping draught no doubt induced insensibility from sleep for a time and I feel it was the duty of the hospital to see to it that some nurse was there and that some nurse prevent the patient from falling into insensibility, at a time and in such a way as would result in the firing of his bedding and clothes, and causing him the injury he suffered."

Special Nurse. His Lordship finds that as a result of telephonic communication the patient was informed that the hospital would receive him on two conditions. One was that he have and pay for a special nurse, and the other was that he employ a doctor, who would make the arrangements for entering into the hospital, "in such a way as would enable the hospital to be assured that the patient to be received was a patient for whom the doctor was willing to be responsible."

The special nurse said, the judge explains, that the patient went to sleep about 11.30 and that she then went away to get some lunch. The plaintiff claimed that when the nurse left her lunch he was awake and that he knew no more about his condition until he awoke about an hour later with his bed afire. The supervisor said that she had gone into the plaintiff's room about 12 o'clock, and that he was asleep "and snoring." The special nurse claimed that she had also come in within a few minutes of the time, and that Prosser was asleep. She said she then went into the hall to write her chart returning in a few minutes to find the bed ablaze. There is no doubt the plaintiff was burned seriously, the judge holds Justice McEvoy finds that the defendants told the patient he must have a special nurse, but he is not able to find that the nurse thereby became subject to the orders of the patient.

Hospital Not Exonerated. "The hospital," his Lordship declares, "intended to keep control and supervision and direction of the special nurse. I am not able to exonerate the hospital upon the ground that the hospital had no responsibility for the conduct of the special nurse. It is true the hospital selected the nurse, and it is true the nurse selected was a competent nurse of reasonable skill or ability, insofar as the hospital had reason to know and did know."

His Lordship expresses difficulty in understanding how the supervising nurse could go to the foot of the bed and not become aware that the bed was afire and equally that the special nurse could come in a few minutes later and also be unaware that anything untoward had occurred. The two visits at so short a period before the fire was discovered is not easy to understand," his Lordship states.

E. C. Bogart appeared for the plaintiff, and F. J. Hughes, K. C., for the defendants.

The regular monthly meeting of the St. Women's Institute will be held at the home of Mrs. Ed. Bakers, on Wednesday, November 13th, at 2.30 p.m. Paper—Hot supper dishes by Mrs. Geo. Lee. Roll Call—A thought for Thanksgiving Reading—Mrs. H. Lewis. Social half hour. Remember the Home-made Baking Nov. 22nd.

Coming—Dr. F. E. Luke, Optometrist, 167 Yonge St., Toronto's able eyesight specialist may be consulted about your eyes for glasses at J. Roadway's drug store, Stouffville, Thursday November 20th.

QUALITY SERVICE FUL-O-PEP EGG MASH

WHY FUL-O-PEP EGG MASH IS MORE ECONOMICAL

A hen should eat approximately 50 pounds of mash per year, even if Ful-O-Pep should cost you as much as $20.00 a ton more than a "homemade" ration, Ful-O-Pep is by far the cheaper, because 'One to Two extra eggs per hen per month' will offset this difference in price.

Ful-O Pep is cheaper because it produces More

Just think of it. For one extra egg per hen per month, you offset a difference of $20.00 a ton in the cost of the feed.

Raised 2,000 Turkeys

In its effort to promote the profitable raising of turkeys, the Ontario Government established a turkey farm in the County of Norfolk. The object was to show that birds of this variety can be raised with profit. The experiment has proven quite successful. This year more than 2000 turkeys were hatched and raised on the farm. A short time ago one thousand of them were sold at 30 cents per pound. What is possible on the Norfolk farm is equally so on other farms in the province. Turkeys can be raised and sold profitably at a much lower price than that demanded about Thanksgiving and Christmas.
