ENDS LENGTHY VIGIL WITH ARREST

An allnight vigil on the part of Constable Syd. Barracough resulted in the arrest on Wednesday last week of Arthur Appleton, 21, of Stouffville, and Norman G. Wainwright, 23 on a charge of stealing a year calf from the farm of William Wilson, Gormley, and 40 bushels of grain from James Hunt also of the same locality.

Clue to the theft which took place on Sunday a week ago consisted only in a description of the halter worn by the calf. Locating a calf on an empty farm rented by Appleton's brother at Mount Pleasant, Constable Barracough hid his car in a shed and settled down to await the arrival of the alleged thieves. Not until 8 a.m. the next morning did they arrive at the farm and enter the empty house. Following them in, Constable Barracough questioned the two men, and finally succeeded, it is alleged, in getting a signed confession from both of them.

PAIR ADMIT ARMED HOLD-UP

Pleas of guilty were entered by Murray James Kirkland and Jack Darwent, charged with armed robbery, in County Police Court, at Toronto on Friday, of the Canadian Bank or Commerce at Unionville, on November 6, and the hold-up of Agincourt branch, Bank of Nova Scotia, some months previously, of over $800. Kirkland also pleaded guilty to robbing the Bank of Montreal, at King, of $916.

The pair elected trial by Magistrate Keith. Arthur Roebuck, K. C., appeared for Darwent while Kirkland was represented by Herbert Lennox, K. C.

Unemployment and hard times were given as the reason for the two accused men's actions.
Crown Suggests Lashes.
Crown Attorney C. Frank Moore pointed out when evidence was concluded that the lash and life could be imposed for the charges. He suggested a severe penalty. "The Crown feels that lashes might be imposed, but that is up to your Worship," he said. Magistrate Keith remanded the pair until Wednesday November 19, for sentence.

Although three banks have been looted, only the evidence in the Unionville robbery was heard, the Crown pointing out that all the robberies had been staged in a similar manner.

Tells Of Robbery
G. G. Maynard, manager of the Unionville bank related how men entered his bank, ordering himself and three employees to lie down on the floor.

Kirkland entered the vault but couldn't open the door," he testified. "He then ordered the teller and myself to open the safe, then commanded us to return and lie down on the floor again."

"When I turned to take a good look at Darwent, he was threatened with a gun. Kirkland then entered the vault and rifled the safe."

The bank staff was next ordered into the vault and the door closed by the robbers, being wedged shut by a block of wood.

"When they went out one man shouted, 'We're the same two who held up the bank at Agincourt; not the man whom they are holding,' related the bank manager.

Defence Counsel Lennox pointed to this as a point in Kirkland's favor. "It's not every one who is going to admit responsibility for a robbery for which another man is held," he declared. He explained that while guns had been carried, they had not been used.

Character Evidence.
Rev. J. B. Lindsell, rural dean of Muskoka, testified to the previous good standing of Jack Darwent. The accused man's twin brother also gave character evidence.

While Mr. Roebuck admitted the charges were serious, he pointed out Darwent was not an imported criminal and was out of the class of the hardened law-breaker. He referred to Darwent's two years' service overseas. Both solicitors claimed their clients of previous good standing, had been forced into robbery because of inability to secure employment.

Mr. Lennox pointed out that Kirkland had confided to him he had not the same scruples about robbing an institution rather than an individual who might be as hard up as himself, as no one suffered directly when an institution was looted.

Says Robbery Planned.
"This robbery was premeditated, as the men went there with a wedge of wood with which to jam the vault door," pointed out the Crown in summing up. "It is never the intention of bandits to shoot; they go into the bank after money. Usually they are bolstered up by dope or drink, and in a state of intense nervous excitement. And it is a short cry from a nervous finger on a trigger to a shot being fired."

"There's enough power in this to blow half a man to pieces at short range," declared Mr. Moore, holding up the shell of the ugly .45 army revolver used in the hold-ups. He said the bank employees could not be blamed for obeying orders given by gun-flourishing bandits.

"I think they showed very good sense," commented the ead.
Mr. Moore then suggested a severe penalty, his Worship remanding the prisoners.

Royal Fair Opens

This week marks the opening of the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto, and everything points to the most interesting exhibition of agricultural produce and live stock in the Fair's history, this in spite of conditions in many parts of Ontario which tended to retard a number of crops during the past season. Coming at this season of the year, representative farmers in large numbers from all parts of the province are expected to attend. The visit of the "Royal 500" Party of farm boys and a similar party of farm girls will be a feature of the occasion. The Fair continues from Nov. 19th to 27th.

Should Clean Out Cistern

During the warmer months of the year cistern water has a tendency to become foul, disagreeable and unhealthful. Various insects and the washings from roofs of houses, especially where birds are numerous, conspire to pollute cistern water. With the coming of the rainy season farmers will find it valuable to give the cistern a thought cleansing in preparation for refilling with fall rains. Filters also should be taken apart or reconstructed, according to the type in use. The cistern should be closed in so that surface water, insects and small animals cannot get in. Purity of water in cisterns is a primary consideration.

Tribute to Women's Institutes

"No money expended by the Province of Ontario is expended so wisely or does so much work as the money expended on the Women's Institutes," declared Hon. Thomas L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture, who was guest-speaker at the recent 16th annual convention. Paying tribute to the work done by the Institutes, he expressed the belief that the $80,000 expended by the Government this year on the Women's Institutes would be increased. He added that he hoped some money would be spent on beautifying farm lands, emphasizing the important place taken by flowers, fruit trees and plain ordinary paint in making a farm into a home. He also expressed the wish that every rural home might enjoy the privilege of hydro. He saw no limit to the good work the Government might accomplish with the support of the Women's Institutes.

Winter Feed Situation

There will be many barns without the usual supply of feed this coming winter. In the drought areas the cows are on full winter rations. The amount of feed that will be available for winter feeding is being reduced by just this much. One suggestion to meet the situation is that some herd culling will be in order. In most herds of ten or twelve cows there are two to four cows that are definitely known to be lower producers than their stable mates. If these were to be sold it would reduce the consumption of feed from 20 to 40 per cent. while the reduction in production would be only from 10 to 20 per cent.

Clean up the Hen House

Every hen house should be cleaned before putting in the pullet-crop. A good thorough cleaning consists of removing the litter and all poultry house fixtures, such as mash hoppers, drinking fountains and the like, then flushing the walls, ceilings, dropping boards and floor, scraping loose any dirt that may have a tendency to stick. After the house has been thoroughly cleaned it is ready for a coat of whitewash. This will improve the appearance of your hen house, make it much lighter for the birds and at the same time help to kill parasites and disease germs. A common practice is to add a pint of disinfectant to a gallon of whitewash. Clean, comfortable quarters for the pullets go a long way toward increased production during the winter months.

IN MEMORIAM

Helmkay—in loving memory of our dear son and brother Freeman, who passed away between November 10th and 13th 1927 while hunting in the bush near Cochrane, New Ontario.
The month of November again is here. 'Tis the saddest of all the year although far away from sight and speech.
Yet not too far for our hearts to reach
Dearer to memory than words can tell
Are the thoughts of him we loved so well.
We are thinking of you, dear brother.
Thinking of the past.
Picturing you in memory.
Just as we saw you last.
You left behind our aching hearts.
That loved you most sincere,
That never did, nor ever will,
Forget you, brother dear.
We were not there to clasp his hand
We did not see him die.
We only know he passed away
And could not say, good-bye.
