

LOCAL HAPPENINGS

Carnival next Tuesday, Feb. 10.

Judge O'Connell wrote the Newmarket council stating that unless better quarters were provided the division court would be moved to Aurora.

Last week Mr. and Mrs. James Muston attended the Ball given by the York Rangers, in the Crystal Ball Room of the King Edward Hotel, Toronto.

Herbert Stoutenburg who underwent an operation at the General Hospital, Toronto, last week, has since developed bronchial pneumonia.

A Scotchman went into a local dentistry office last week, and enquired how much it would cost to pull a tooth for him. "One dollar," said the dentist. After a moment's pause the chap said, "and how much would it be just to loosen it a wee bit."

Claremont people are anxiously waiting to hear the name of their new post master. The position has been vacant for some time, and several of their villagers are seeking the job. Announcement of the successful applicant is expected any time.

Following a very severe illness, Mrs. James Waddingham, a former resident of Church street, is slightly improved according to latest word received by friends in town, who are all grateful to learn that a change for the better has been shown. Mrs. Waddingham is in Grace Hospital, Toronto.

Among the renewals received at the office of The Tribune last week were those for Rev. F. J. Lehman of Kitchener, Ontario, Mrs. W. J. Heisey of Vernon, B. C., and Mr. J. Brownsberger of Deloraine, Manitoba. These former citizens look upon the Tribune as a letter from home every week, hence if you have a news item, phone the editor, so that nothing of public interest may be overlooked.

The monthly meeting of the Jr. Women's Institute will be held at the home of Miss Marion Klinek, on Wednesday February 11th, at 2.30 p.m.—Roll Call—What I consider the most important factor in a girl's appearance. Each one is to bring an attractive and easily made article. Prize for same. Judging competition Judging a country girl's wardrobe. Prizes for same. Music by Miss Myrtle Watson.

On Wednesday of last week, Mr. and Mrs. William O'Brien, a bride and groom who were married only that day arrived in town and remained here until Thursday. The guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Collins. The bride, who was Mrs. Esther Greenbury, is quite well known locally, and quite a few years ago when she married the late Mr. Greenbury, her honeymoon at that time was spent with her friend Mrs. Collins.

Mrs. Sarah Lemon of Newmarket has moved to town and is occupying the front portion of the former Archie Leaney house one door east of the public library. Her brother, Louis Pipher has come to live with her. The couple were once residents on the 9th of Whitechurch, but for 40 years Mr. Pipher farmed in Markham and lived in Newmarket. They intend to spend the evening of their lives in the old market town of Stouffville.

Mr. H. O. Klinek, one of our O'Brien Avenue residents, has been pressed into service as a school teacher this week, thus taking up what was at one time his regular avocation when he lived in Western Canada. Mr. Klinek is supplying on the High School staff in the place of Miss R. Fuller who is ill. In view of the fact that it is very difficult to secure teachers at this season for this work, the School Board are fortunate in securing a local man qualified to carry on the work of first form until the regular teacher recovers her health again.

Three young men have gotten themselves into difficulties owing to their capers last Thursday night, when they deliberately destroyed the cement pillars at the Brier Bush. Shortly after midnight the three chaps in question walked down from the 10th concession enroute home, and at the home of Arthur Clarkson they trumped up a big noise on his veranda, then proceeded west to the Brier Bush where they attacked the pillars, throwing off the cement caps, and removing several blocks of the cement work. This is the one and only intimation that the offenders will have—they were seen committing the destructive act, and unless they report this week at the home of the owner and make matters right, the case will be taken before Magistrate Keith without further warning. Our advice to the three young men involved is to stem the trouble at once, for if the next step is taken to invoke the law they will find themselves in a lot of unnecessary difficulty. That they may know this is not a mere bluff, the specific number in the gang is specially mentioned.

Markham Intermediate O. H. A. team having won their local group, were scheduled to play Fenelon Falls last Friday night, with the return game in Markham this Monday night. Having won the round from the Falls, Lakefield is the victim in hand now.

Mr. Isaac Wagg, a veteran of Uxbridge Township, who for long years served on the municipal council there, was in town on Monday. Although not so nimble as he once was, Mr. Wagg is the picture of health.

W. J. Gibson and D. F. Baker of Toronto were in town last Friday looking over the prospects for the sale of Associate Royalty Trust shares (oil royalties.) Mr. Baker is an old Stouffville boy and son of Mr. Oscar Baker of Welland, and grandson of Mr. Seneca Baker of Baker Hill.

Writing from Fleet, Alberta, to renew her Tribute for another year. Mrs. Wilmot Wideman indicates that the winter in their locality is wonderful. There is an absence of snow and dust is blowing. The Widemans follow the events of the old home section through the columns of the Tribune.

The attendance at the recently organized Business and Young Men's Bible Class, which meets each Sunday in the United Church, reached sixty last Sabbath afternoon. Messrs. Leslie, Marshall, Smith and Lehman sang a quartette number, while the teacher Rev. T. Laidlaw led in the discussion of the lesson. An effort will shortly be made to secure the help of other teachers, and possibly the other ministers of the town, if any of them can spare the time from their own duties. Almost every minister in Stouffville has an afternoon appointment somewhere in the country.

Hydro extension is going steadily on east of Stouffville, so that by spring several more farmers will be enjoying the privilege of the Niagara current. Leland Johnston on the Brown farm on the 10th con. is completing the wiring of his house. Leland is something of a genius and is doing his own work. On the other Brown farm occupied by Lloyd Turner, preparations are underway to wire both the house and barns, with provision for power in the barns for chopping and other uses. This property owned by Dr. Richardson, son-in-law of the late Wilmot Brown, is gradually becoming one of the most modern farm homes in the district. Many improvements have been added the last few years and the land brought up to a higher state of cultivation.

One of the big financial papers said just recently that one thing the present world depression had done for Canada was to stop the rush of farm people to the cities, thereby depicting the rural population to the general detriment of the country. We thought when we read this that there was little or no rushing back to the land in this locality at least but last week we heard of the first shuffle. Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Fairles, who a year ago gave up their farm at Lincolnville, and moved into Scarborough, have decided to return to the rustic life of this peaceful community. Whether Eldon has all the people down in the south where the people rush in for big schools and high taxes, filled up with life insurance, or whether he found they hadn't money to buy this necessary protection, we haven't discovered, but he's coming back to the farm and selling insurance will henceforth be a second consideration with him. During their absence from the farm the property was rented by Floyd Fairles, and worked by Frank Whetter who occupied the house and who with his wife are now looking for a position on a farm where a home can be extended to them.

Mr. Elijah Pennock was in Toronto on Thursday on a business trip, this being his only visit to the big centre in the past 8 months. When any of our citizens reach 80 years of age the glare of the white lights have no great charm.

Messrs. F. L. Button and Sam Armstrong both took rinks to Toronto this week to play in the Ontario Tankard. In their preliminaries they lost out badly, but came back strong in the contest for the consolation, first winning from Kingston by one shot. The teams expected to finish Wednesday as we go to press.

Lest their friends are alarmed to read the sign "scarlet fever" over the door at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brillinger, it is in order to state that little Gerald, the patient, is not very sick and is able to run about the home.

Ho! for the Valentine Carnival in Stouffville arena on Tuesday evening, February 10th. Valuable prizes—special band music—All welcome. This is the first carnival of the season and is under auspices of Jubilee Chapter O.E.S.

The town solicitor informs us that the details relative to the annexation of north Church street are now complete, and passed by the Railway Board, consequently the properties involved are now a part of the village, and our population is thus advanced by some twenty-two inhabitants, while the assessment will be increased by $9,000. The council of last year are to be congratulated on taking up this matter of annexation of Church street and the park property and pushing it to a successful conclusion. On the park property we have been paying a tax to Markham of $12 per year which will now be eliminated. Seven house properties will be affected by the change on Church street, and ten vacant lots the total taxation on which when paid into Whitechurch Township last year was $350

According to stories circulated about town the past week one of our young married men, Jack Larkin who lives on the 10th concession just north of Main street, had suddenly become a Lord of the Manor, or had inherited a great heap of gold, while others put the sum at the modest amount of $40,000—a nice thing for a young man just starting married life with but little of this world's goods. The Tribune was anxious to meet this young Midas, so Tuesday evening we sallied forth to locate his home which wasn't hard to do. Mr. Larkin who appears about 20 years of age was eating his evening meal, but hurried to the door to answer our summons. "I hear you have inherited a big fortune Jack," we enquired. "Well," said he smilingly, "I'm not saying." But he ultimately did say that he had not received any fortune, and was at a loss to know who circulated the yarn. He did admit receiving a letter from an uncle in England in which it stated that he would receive some money some time, and evidently someone in whom Jack confided this information exaggerated the story when it was passed on. Jack claimed relationship with the Larkins of England who are well-to-do, and when we told him we had once been entertained by the late Hon. P. C. Larkin in London, when he was High Commissioner, Jack declared the honorable gentleman was very closely related to him. "We came away feeling that another 'bubble had burst,'" and that something which promised to read like a real 'fairy tale' had gone flat. Young Larkin is a son-in-law of John Castle, corner of 10th and Main streets.

The amount is large and records one of the biggest years in the church's history, which information we pass on to our readers, it having been omitted from the report of the annual meeting published last week. It is also announced by the church treasurer that $180 additional funds have been contributed to the M. & M. Fourteen below zero on Sunday morning gave the local people the heaviest touch of winter weather we have experienced this season. Fortunately it quickly moderated some.

Newmarket are easy winners of the O.H.A. Intermediate hockey group in which the Stouffville people had an especial interest because the York A.C.'s, one of the teams in the group, played all their home games on the Stouffville arena thereby providing some real fast hockey. Unfortunately the Yorks did not make a good showing in the group standing, otherwise they would have been greeted with packed houses at every game. Anyway, the boys played wonderful hockey, and merited the best of support.

Since our last issue a week ago we have had the heaviest winter weather thus far this season. Settling in last Friday a regular blizzard lasted for a day and a night, piling snow high and deep in places. The weather was bitter cold as well, but on Saturday it became more settled and high winds ceased, giving way to nice sunshine. A snow plow which set out from Toronto on Friday evening did not reach Stouffville till four o'clock Saturday morning, and then only with the assistance of a couple of teams to draw it through the drifts on the 8th concession at Dixon Hill. Motor traffic was greatly slowed up since the storm, but this is no hardship to the farmer who has horses idle in his barn.

His school chums of a few years back will remember "Ted" Crawford, and the older people will remember his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Crawford, who lived in the Silvester block. Well, "Ted" is spending a few days in town at the home of Jack Hill on Mill street. Although a small lad when the family left here, he is a young man now, and for three years has been on the Bank of Nova Scotia staff as a relieving agent. He has been visiting his parents in Sudbury, but the bank has had him in Nova Scotia most of the time, and this is his second trip home. F. R. Crawford, it will be recalled was employed in the hardware store of Silvesters Bros. when living here.
