MISS MACPHAIL ON INFLATION

Writes open Letter for Tribune Readers.

Dear Editor:

The inflation of currency is a much talked of subject these days; it has entered the realm of practical politics. Efforts are being made to frighten people by the use of the word "inflation" and there is confusion in people's minds in regard to it.

An expansion of national currency to correspond to an increase in national wealth ought not to be called inflation—indeed, unless such increase in currency is forthcoming, deflation and falling prices result.

In a land of plenty, a land of bursting elevators and over-stocked warehouses, we find much unemployment, factories idling and an impoverished agriculture. The gross annual revenue of Canadian farmers dropped by at least one billion dollars in the last four years. Farmers' debts remained fixed in terms of dollars, which means that farmers must sell from two to three times as much produce now to pay their indebtedness as was the case three years ago. Their cost of living and production has fallen but slightly. The continuance of such conditions will drive the agricultural industry into bankruptcy and Canadians into as yet unknown suffering. The lack of farm purchasing power is the direct cause of business stagnation, and the huge deficits of governments, which are resulting in general business paralysis.

Something must be done, and that quickly, which will enable Canadians to use the wealth they possess—and that "something" in my opinion is the issuing of money by the Federal Government against goods and services, without interest, in quantities sufficient to move goods and absorb services.

Such Action Would:

Automatically increase the prices of exportable farm products. Enable farmers to pay their debts with dollars nearer in purchasing power to those which they borrowed some years back.

Enable farmers to buy goods on the market, start factories running and thus absorb the unemployed.

Lower the expenditures of governments for relief of unemployment.

Increase the real revenues of governments.

Ease the railway problem through an increasing volume of traffic.

Stimulate exports and revitalize the West, with accruing benefits to Eastern Canada.

Place Canadian farmers more on a parity with their chief competitors in Australia and South America.

It Would Not:

Impair Canadian credit abroad, since Australia has been able to finance in London at 3 1/2% with her currency far below the pound sterling.

Prevent refunding debts in New York, which involves only a change in our American creditors.

Prevent meeting interest charges in New York, as these can be made in gold or goods.

Cause the cost of living to rise as quickly as the prices of basic commodities, and would give at the same time greater security of employment and increased personal revenues.

The economic strain has reached the breaking point. The Government can relieve the strain. Will it do it?

Yours sincerely,
Agnes MacPhail

Current Crop Report

Dufferin County reports that 20 purebred rams have been purchased by farmers there through the bonus encouragement offered by the Live Stock Branches. Commercial price of potatoes in Dufferin remains around 50c, with frequent inquiry for them. Haldimand County reports seed growers doing work on exhibits for Regina and that a small clipper mill installed in the local agricultural office last year has been used extensively to supplement the work of commercial seed mills on show samples when an exhibitor got down to small quantities. Peel County alfalfa seed received more favorable publicity when Robt. J. Shaw, 20-year-old farmer, won first and Reserve Championship with his sample of Ontario Variegated Alfalfa seed at the International Hay and Grain Show, Chicago. Peel also had the highest Ontario prize-winner in the Timothy class by Lansell Bros. A shipment of 60 head of purebred Holsteins was made from Perth County to U.S.A. recently. Haldimand County live stock industry has suffered by reason of the discontinuance of shipments by one of the oldest companies conducting live stock drover business there. Average yields of sugar beets in Kent County are high and will exceed those of 1931. The sugar beet growers of Kent will receive upwards of a million dollars for their 1932 crop. A few of the best fields of soy beans turned out around 30 bushels per acre. The price of buckwheat in Victoria County is reported to be disappointing to men who have used it as a cash crop in the last two years. At the annual Napanee Poultry Fair approximately 120 tons of dressed poultry was marketed. The Lennox and Addington pool did the largest volume of business and during the two days of the fair they received 163,597 pounds of dressed poultry. Over 35 per cent of this tremendous turnover was graded "Milked," as compared with only 17 per cent in 1931.

He is survived by three sons and two daughters. The funeral took place from his late residence Tuesday, with interment in the Queenville cemetery.

Better Marketing Methods Increase Sale of Turnips

Charles E. Broughton, member of the Departmental staff, points to the operations of the Blackwater Turnip Growers' Association, as a striking example of the possibilities for producers increasing their markets, even in times of depressed trade.

This co-operative organization has direct control of some 500 acres of turnips, and the choicest of these are being washed, branded and waxed.

As a result of this operation, an excellent local market has been developed and export possibilities for the future look most encouraging.

The association has erected a plant on a co-operative basis and this plant includes facilities for storing, washing and grading, thereby placing this group of growers in a position to market a uniform product.
