The bigger the social event, the smaller the sandwiches.

Hunter—You say you guarantee this gun; suppose it bursts and blows my head off?

Dealer—In that case we'll give you a new gun.

She now wants a piano! A well-known local girl who received a large portrait of her best boy friend, and has no place to show it off.

Cal—Why are so many men going to the Hawaiian Islands this summer?

Joe—I don't know! The grass crop was a total failure there.

A man of the world is one who can show a modern girl a good time without spending any money on her.

Jane (the maid, tapping timidly on the professor's door)—Man in the hall wishes to speak to you, Professor.

Professor (looking up from his book)—Tell him I'm out, Jane.

Jane—I did, sir, but he won't go.

Professor—What? Send him in to me and I'll tell him myself.

There's only one answer when a 19-year-old boy comes home and actually asks for money to get a haircut. But at that point, candor pauses; sometimes it takes another week to find out the girl's name.

As our adventures fade into the past we clothe them with garments of mystery, danger and royal splendor.

Grace—Alvin offered me his heart last night. I put him off till tomorrow.

Merle—Don't accept damaged goods. Last week he told me it was broken when I refused him.

The man who eats little and works much, might outlast the one who worked little and ate much.

Mald—I left my last place because I was told to do something I didn't like to do.

Prospective Mistress—Indeed, and what was that?

Mald—To look for another job.

The man who is always in hard luck, is usually the one who is always looking for a soft job.

Young Husband—My wife is cooking dinner for the first time today. Will you come along and share it?

Friend—Certainly. I have always shared your sorrows.

Uncle Toby had a neighbor who was in the habit of working every Sunday, but after a while he joined the church. One day he met the minister to whose church the man belonged.

"Well, Uncle Toby," said the minister, "do you see any difference in Mr. Brown since he joined the church?"

"Oh, yes," said Uncle Toby, "a great difference. Before, when he went to mend the fences on Sunday, he always carried his axe on his shoulder. Now he carries it under his coat."

"I'm sorry, Dorothy, but circumstances over which I have no control will prevent me from meeting you tomorrow night."

"That's a long name for your wife!"

A noted baby doctor claims that he can cure any case of measles in three days. Care, Doctor, those are rash promises.

The Freight Train

Harry Kemp in the New York Times.

I saw her grow in sight; I watched her wind:

Superb, she took the curve and fetched the grade;

Superbly leaped the long-linked cars behind

The laboring locomotive, serving Trade.

With heavy, rhythmic wheel and flying truck

The hulking box-car, rolling flat-car, struck

A distant symphony from rails and ties,

The sounding-board of which was hills and skies.

A ground-bird rose and gained a tree and sang,

Nearer the rushing wheels and box-cars rang.

The Freight grew large beside a water-tank...

She took her stance, impatient, while she drank.

With a long sigh for all the miles she'd gone;

Then, newly gathering resonance, she rode on!

Latest News Notes From China

With the signing of the truce in North China, conditions in Tientsin, which had been greatly disturbed for several weeks, speedily returned to normal. The feeling of tension gave place to one of confidence. Gunmen were disarmed, special patrols disbanded, barricades removed from the streets, and barbed wire taken down. Thousands of refugees who had flocked into the city to escape the Japanese advance began to wend their way home. Many of these were heartened by reports that the authorities intended to remit the land tax for a period in the districts affected by the operations, as well as affording relief in other directions.

WAR VS. HOLIDAYS.

Every year large numbers of Chinese and foreign residents spend their summer holidays at Peitaiho, the seaside resort between Tientsin and Shanhaiwan, where the Great Wall ends. This year it seemed for a time as if they must go elsewhere for their annual vacation. Peitaiho was twice brought within the area of operations as a result of the Japanese advance from the Great Wall. In addition to the uncertainty as regards communications, there was danger from stragglers turned bandit. Thanks to the truce, however, conditions at Peitaiho are again normal. Without waiting for the Japanese withdrawal to the Great Wall, the railroad authorities are taking steps to resume the service to Peitaiho and beyond. This prospect is esteemed by no one more than the youngsters looking forward to their annual respite at the seaside free from the threats of war.

SERVICE AS USUAL.

Even since the Japanese seizure of Shanhaiwan, at the beginning of the year, creditable work has been done by the railroad authorities in maintaining services under extremely difficult conditions. Trains have been run almost to the zone of warfare, the line being shortened or extended daily as the area of operations advanced or receded. Besides heavy movements of troops through Tientsin, the railroad authorities have carried thousands of refugees streaming to safety. Apart from unavoidable delays, usually not more than a few hours, they kept the services fully running.

PROSPECTS GOOD.

Tientsin continues to develop steadily. Permits for new buildings in the British area where most of the Americans also reside, doubled in value last year, and this total has been almost equalled in the first few months of the current year. Not only are the finances of the area in excellent condition, it is disclosed, but prospects are held out for further developments in public services, notably buildings, roads and bridges. The area has been remarkably free from crime, the official report states. No kidnapping occurred in 1932, but in January, 1933, a child disappeared in the concession. The police, with the co-operation of the neighboring areas and the Chinese city police, were successful not only in restoring the child, but in capturing the whole gang of kidnapers.

PRECEDENT SET.

A friendly gesture marked the observances of King George V's birthday in Tientsin. For many years the British municipal authorities have flown the Japanese flag in honor of imperial Japanese occasions. This year the Japanese authorities returned the compliment. The hoisting of the Union Jack over the municipal offices was the first time any foreign flag had been displayed over any Japanese public building in Tientsin. The precedent having been set, it is hoped that other foreign flags, including the American on the special occasions of friendly foreign powers.

War of Newspapers.

Unabated in London

London.—All agreements having been swept aside, the circulation war between The Herald, The Daily Express, The News Chronicle and The Daily Mail, is proceeding unabated. The free-gift scheme to entice readers has now gone beyond the sixteen-volume sets of Dickens and clothing, to include cameras, cutlery, electric irons and tea sets.

The Financial News put the total cost above £2,000,000 a year, and asks: "Why should the shareholders be cannon fodder in this purposeless battle between Chinese Generals. The impudence of the competing newspapers cannot stand the strain indefinitely."

Although The Daily Express hoisted its net sales to 2,054,348 copies daily; The Herald to more than 2,000,000 and The Daily Mail to about 1,750,000, the combined circulation of all morning issues is still short by several millions of the combined issues of the Sunday newspapers.

It is claimed, therefore, that the war has resulted in the enlistment of a large number of genuine recruits to the army of daily newspaper buyers.

The Economist writes: "The four months of expansion represents broadly either an extensive population hitherto unaccustomed to reading a morning newspaper or, alternatively the successful persuasion of three-quarters of a million readers to buy more than one paper to grace the breakfast table or light the kitchen fire. From the advertisers' viewpoint the distinction is materials."

Unemployment in France Reduced to 276,597

Paris.—Suffering less from unemployment than any of the major nations weathering the crisis, France rapidly is finding work for even those relatively few thousand jobless, new labor statistics reveal.

The maximum unemployment in France since 1930 was reached the first week of March, 1932, with a total of 331,816. Since then 53,219 men and women have returned to work, or 16.8 per cent of those idle in March.

This material slice of re-employment is significant in that it does not include agricultural labor, which always experiences a spring and early summer increase. Nearly all of the re-employed have returned to work in urban communities.

The week of June 8 was the third since October, 1930, to register a decrease in unemployment, the other two occurring since last March. On the aforementioned date the number of men and women without work of any sort amounted to 276,597 in a total population of more than 40,000,000.

The heartening re-employment is attributed chiefly to three causes. One is the final adoption of the budget. The second factor is the less tangible one of optimism in the provinces over prospects of the London conference.

A third factor in the current improvement is the growing effect of the emergency laws against alien employment. Most of the legislation aimed against employment of foreigners in France was accompanied by time clauses, under which employers were given 30, 60 or 90 days in which to reduce their foreign personnel to levels ranging from 5 to 30 per cent of the total number employed.

Exports to U.S. Show Pick-Up

Very Definite Increase in Agricultural Products Noted

Ottawa.—There was a very definite pick-up in the export of Canadian agricultural products to the United States in June, the value of the total being $546,000, compared with $217,000 in June, 1932, an increase of $329,000 or 152 per cent, a report of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics says.

This increase in June follows the smaller advance of nine per cent made in May. In June, 1930, when the Smoot-Hawley tariff came into operation, the export of agricultural products to the United States was $3,242,000.

The largest item last month was flaxseed at $218,000, although the duty is 65 cents per bushel. Bran, shorts and middlings totalled $118,000, the duty being 10 per cent. Ad valorem; horses, under a duty of $20, were valued at $25,000; cheese, with a tariff of seven cents per pound, $46,000; and wool, under a tariff of 24 cents-37 cents per pound, $55,000.

France Floating Loan of $103,340,000

Paris.—The Government has announced completion of elaborate preparations to float a 2,000,000,000-franc (about $103,340,000) slice of a total 10,000,000,000-franc loan authorized recently.

The issue will consist of 1,000-franc tax-exempt bonds, to be purchased at 96.25 francs, paying 4½ per cent interest, redeemable in 1934, or earlier, at the Government's discretion.

A communique issued at the Finance Ministry said "It is necessary at present to issue this new slice in order to meet obligations maturing in the autumn."

Monogamy Proves Problem to Turkey

Abolition of Harem Complicates Love and Marriage—Freedom Confuses Women

Chicago.—Dressed in the ancient flowing robes of her people, a youthful, boyish bobbed apostle of new Turkey, is seeking help from her western sisters about the problems of old maids and dependent women which she credited to occidental civilization when it drove the harem from the near east and gave freedom to Oriental women.

She is Selma Ekrem, daughter of Ali Ekrem Bey, former Governor of Jerusalem and is a delegate to the International Congress of Women. In an address she traced the change in life for Turkish women. "It was only 11 years ago when Turkey became a Republic, that Turkish women found an ally in the Government instead of an enemy. Barriers came down with the rapidity of lightning."

Then in her precise English, she bluntly said that while all this had brought increased freedom for women it had also brought griefs.

LOVE COMPLICATED.

Love, especially, under this new regime has become complicated, confused. Before these great changes Turkish girls married men selected for them. Now they have the right to select a husband.

"But this has brought pain, confusion. Young girls in love frequently cannot get help from their mothers, for they are of a past phase.

"There is an alarming increase in suicide among Turkish girls hurt in love. What to do?"

"Monogamy has brought old maids, for there are more women than men in Turkey. We of the younger generation want monogamy, but what are women who wish to marry and cannot, to do?"

U.S.-France Bridge Game Ends Suddenly

Paris.—A bridge tournament between an American team captained by Ely Culbertson and a French team directed by Pierre Bellanger wound up six hands short of the scheduled finish in a dispute caused by an error in dealing in the 101st hand.

The Americans were leading by 142 points at the end of the 102nd hand, when the error was discovered. Failing to reach an agreement, the match was called off after two hours of debate, during which several hundred fans held excited post-mortems.

No Beggars Present on London Streets

London.—One curious result of the World Monetary and Economic Conference is noted by the Morning Post, Conservative newspaper of London.

The Americans, it appears, find that London, to the eye of a casual observer, is more prosperous than any American city. Beggars are absent from London streets and the stores, theatres, and restaurants are doing good business.

Austria-Poland Exchange Tourists for Pigs

London.—A commercial treaty which, in effect, exchanges tourists for pigs, was concluded recently between representatives of Austria and Poland attending the Economic Conference.

The accord provides that Poland grant 5,000 passports at reduced rates to Polish tourists who desire to visit Austria, as well as lower duties on types of Austrian machinery not manufactured in Poland.

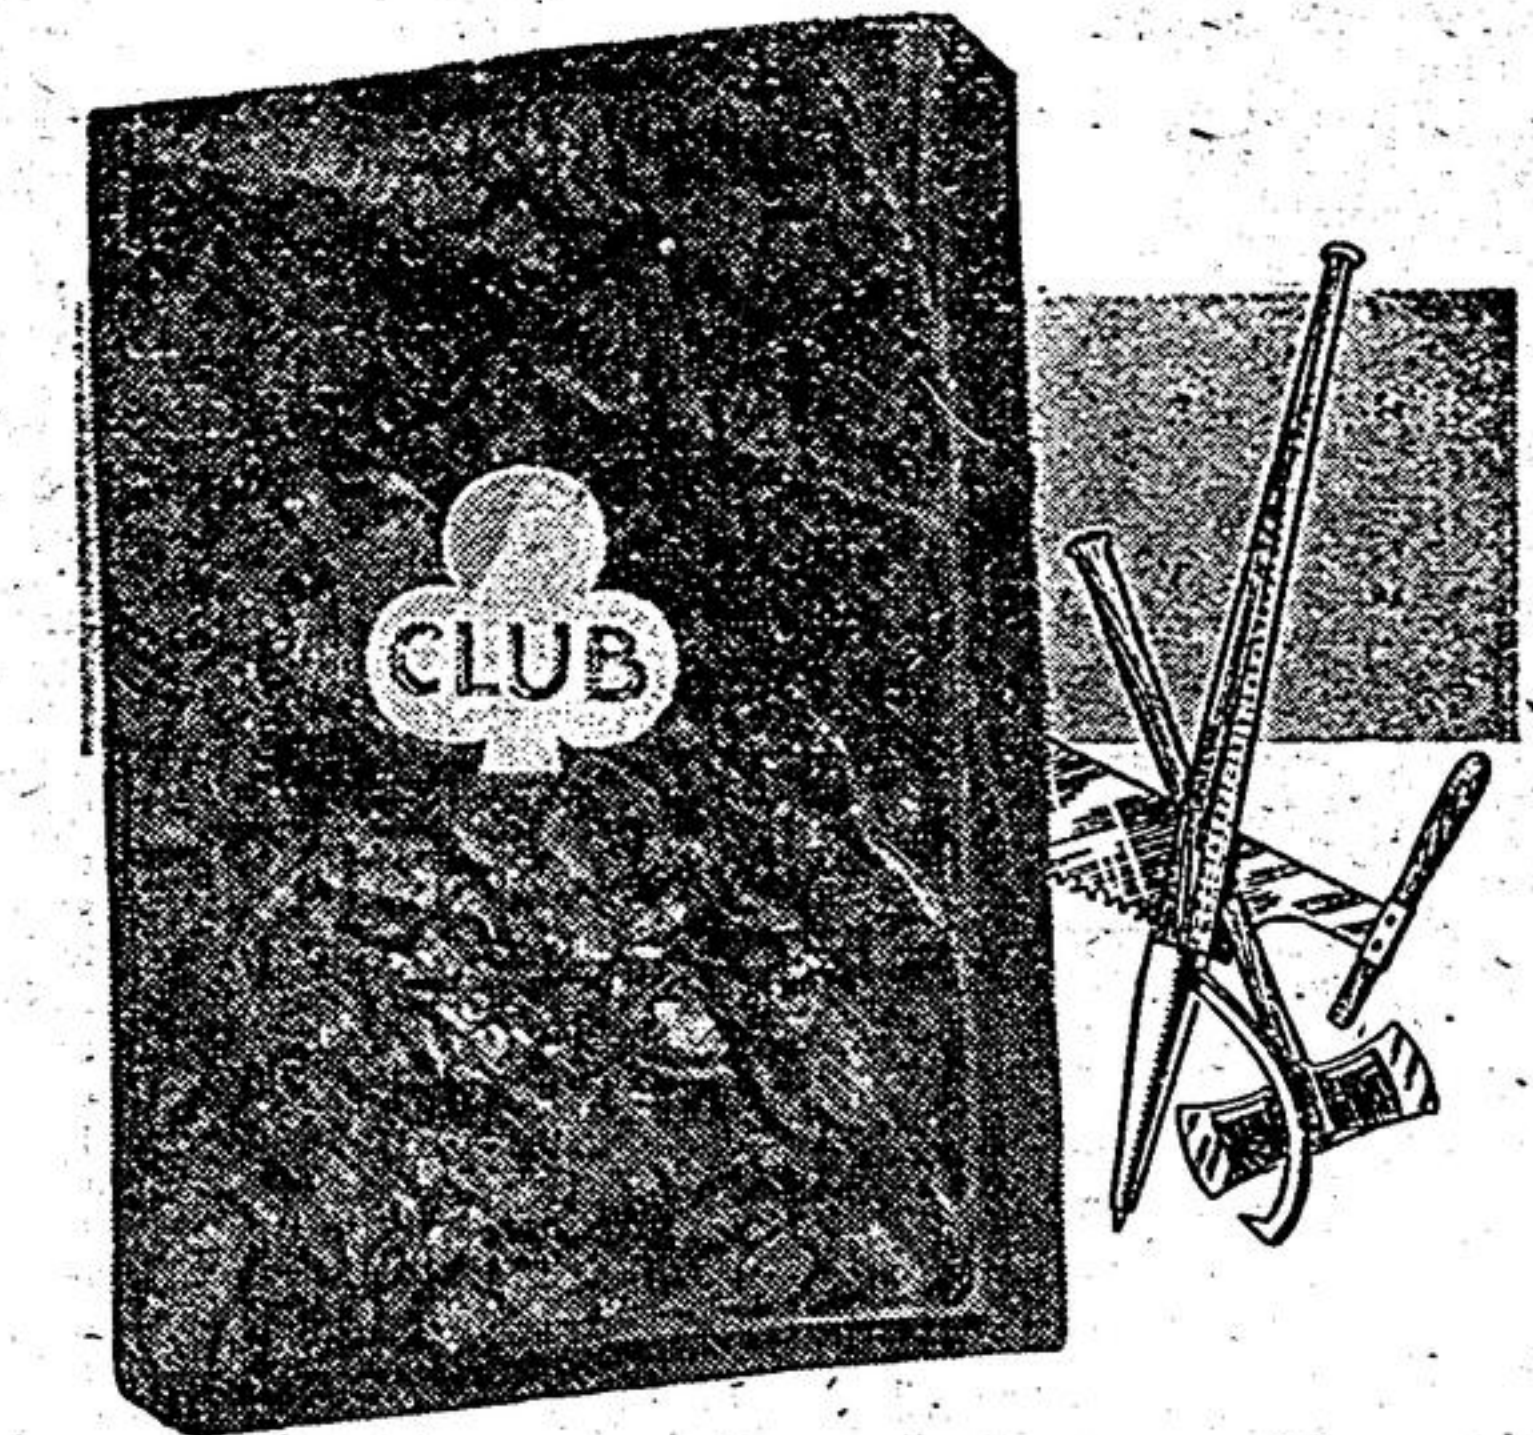

Austria, in return, will make tariff concessions on Polish pigs, live stock, eggs and "edible horses."

We Must Be Brave

Because "all history is the picture of war" is no reason why history in our hands should be a picture of war. We have it in our power to present a different canvas to the generations that are to follow us.

A step that we must take if we are to usher in a new day of goodwill among the nations is to transfer the manhood that has been in war to the cause of peace. "Everything great must be done in the spirit of greatness." We need to put ourselves under the dominion of principles; to be the servants of truth, love and freedom. "If peace is to be maintained, it must be by brave men... who have gone one step beyond the hero, and will not seek another man's life."

City Opens Bank Account

Brantford, Ont.—For the first time on record, the City of Brantford has opened a saving account. Tax collections have come in so well, and expenditures of the various boards are being held down so well, that the city deposited $25,000 of collections in a local saving bank. Back taxes are coming in well, Mayor MacBride said and citizens are deserving of praise for the efforts they have made to meet tax payments.

Boy Risked Life for Dog

Portland, Ore.—James Whit, and James Dinsdale, each 17, were thrown into the Willamette River when their canoe upset. Dinsdale swam to a distant shore. Whit placed his life-preserver around his dog, kept the animal afloat until harbor police arrived to find Whit clinging to the overturned canoe.

Record-Size Tankard Found at Blackpool

The world's largest tankard, empty of beer, has been found at Blackpool. It is 18 inches high and 8 inches in diameter. Of Flemish origin, it was the property of a Spanish nobleman, but was looted and lost, to turn up in a pawnshop in the Lancashire seaside town.

Amelia Putnam Breaks Own Cross-Country Record

Newark, N.J.—"Dirtier than ever before," to use her own expression, Amelia Earhart Putnam, with a new women's transcontinental record in hand, brought her red monoplane down at Newark Airport at 3:19 1/2 a.m. (eastern daylight time) last week, 17 hours, 7 1/2 minutes after she left Los Angeles.

Her former record was 19 hours and 4 minutes. She flew at an altitude of between 6000 and 8000 feet, and rounded several thunder storms. She attributed the success of her flight in a great measure to her variable pitch propeller which, she said, gave her greater speed and an easier takeoff and enabled her to get the maximum speed in the air. She estimated the elapsed time of her stops at two hours and a half.
