

...SMILES...

We have often wondered why the corn begins to curl upon a hot day while the cockle burrs remain green and flourish just the same regardless of whether it rains or not.

September
Now the glad year's afternoon
Hurries on apace,
Now the mountain ash tree,
With a dainty grace,
Dons her lovely party gown—
Coral beads and lace.

No clown in a circus is ever as funny as a dumbbell man or woman who struts around wearing a haughty look.

Man—"You seem to be no lover of music, although you have four musical daughters."

Neighbor—"If you had four musical daughters you would be no lover of music."

Put and Take
"Women take to good hearted men," says a writer. Also from, say we.

Impatient Man Outside Telephone Booth—"Can I help you find the number that you want?"

Sweet Young Thing—"Oh, no, thank you. I don't want a number. I'm looking for a pretty sweet name to give my new dog."

Rapid Transit.
St. Peter—"How did you get here?"
Citizen—"Flu!"

Spring Is Here
"Papa, are you growing taller all the time?"
"No, my child. Why do you ask?"
"Cause the top of your head is poking up through your hair."

Old Ragson Tatters, of Brushville, says he knows night prowlers will never hold his Sary Jane up for anything else but her money, so he never gives her any.

The telephone bell rang in the fire department. The operator plugged in for the call.

Timid Voice—"Is this the fire department?"
Fireman (eagerly)—"Yes, that's right."

Timid Voice—"Well, I've just built a new rock garden and I've just put in some new fall ferns."

Fireman (roaring)—"Where's the fire?"

Timid Voice (going on)—"Some of these ferns and other fall plants are very expensive and—"

Fireman—"Look here! You want a lower shop."

Timid Voice—"No, I don't. I was coming to that in a minute. My neighbor's house is on fire, and I don't want your clumsy firemen treading over my new rock garden when you come here."

Advertisement: "Wanted—Small apartment by couple with no children until September 1."

Minister—"Will you have this woman to be your wedded wife?"
Groom—"What the mischief you think I came here for?"

Mother kicked when Daddy first became a traveling man, but now she's sorry he didn't decide to be an arctic explorer.

Doctor (gazing critically at patient)—"Did you take my advice and sleep with all the windows open?"
Patient (murmuring)—"I did, doctor."

Doctor—"Good. And I suppose you have pretty well lost that cold you had?"

Patient—"No, Doctor. Only my best suit, watch and chain."

Thomas—"I hope we'll agree after we're married."
Tess—"Maybe you won't at first, but you'll soon learn, dear."

Friendship
The value of friendship has never been disputed. Plutus, 200 years B.C., quoted the saying that "A friend in need is a friend indeed." A true friend is a priceless possession. Money cannot buy one. The only way to get one is to be one. When you have a friend to share your pleasures, you get twice the happiness out of them. Success without someone to share it with may be empty. Time given to being a friend is never wasted. It is an investment in happiness, and if one who has befriended proves faithless, that is his loss, not yours. You gain by being a friend. You gain by having a friend.

The death-rate from road accidents is higher in Johannesburg, Cape Town, and Pretoria than in the six largest cities of Great Britain, the ratio being, in Pretoria, 30, in Johannesburg 24, and in Cape Town 22 per 100,000. London's figure is 15.4 per 100,000.

Dentists Disagree on Method of Brushing Teeth

Chicago.—Dentists themselves apparently don't agree on the proper method of brushing teeth, judging from statements of delegates to the American Dental Hygienists' Association in convention here.

"Use a large toothbrush in a swift rotary movement," advised Dr. A. C. Fones, Bridgeport, Conn.

"Use a very small brush with fine bristles, to be jiggled up and down between the teeth," recommended Dr. W. J. Carter of Des Moines, Ia.

"Use any brush, but use it well and often, and it isn't necessary to apply powder, paste or mouth-wash," was the formula of Dr. Benjamin Fishler of Boston.

"Even the dullest work is to most people less painful than idleness," Bertrand Russell.

Hay fever cures are consistent anyway. It isn't a fever and it isn't caused by hay, and they don't cure it.

The most important manufacturing industry connected with field crops in Canada is flour milling, which dates back to the settlement at Port Royal (now Annapolis, N.S.) in 1605.

Building societies are flourishing all over the British Empire, even British Honduras, British Guiana, British West Indies, and the Sandwich Islands each having its own organization.

37 lbs. OF FAT GONE

No Wonder She Looks Younger

"How much younger you are looking! What a pleasure to hear that compliment from your friends' lips—as this woman did."

"Since I started taking Kruschen Salts," she writes, "I have reduced myself by 37 lbs. I am still going down and hope soon to be normal weight. My health has greatly improved. My friends see such a difference in me now. I look younger, and I have such a fresh look always about my face which I never used to have. I take my usual food, but my first drink in the morning is my little dose of Kruschen Salts, which I will never be without." (Mrs. K.)

The six salts in Kruschen keep the organs of elimination in perfect trim and so ensure a regular, gentle and natural clearance of all fat-forming food refuse.

"Return of Horse" Noted in Britain

Improvement Evident in Quality and Quantities of Annual Entries

Derby, Eng.—Motocars may crowd British highways, but in the country the horse is still holding its own. This was indicated by the marked improvement in both the quality and quantity of the horse entries in the Royal Show Britain's principal agricultural exhibition—held here recently.

While all of the horse classes showed an increased number of entries, both Suffolks and hunters were of markedly fine breeding. All 10 hunter classes were well filled, and in the hunter-breeding classes there were 102 entries as against 56 a year ago.

The King and Queen, who visited the show on the second day, showed particular interest in an allotment which had been cultivated on the show ground by the unemployed men as an illustration of what was being done by the Society of Friends' Allotments Scheme for the Unemployed. The plot was representative of more than 100,000 men's gardens, which have been started with the help of that scheme in England and Wales.

Chatsworth, the famous Derbyshire house, at which the King and Queen are staying during show week, contributed an interesting noncompetitive exhibit to the forestry section. It consisted of a variety of farm requisites—from carts to window frames—manufactured at Chatsworth from the timber on the estate, and showing the possibility of a large estate in the English Midlands being self-supporting in this way.

A miniature farm made on the show ground was shown by the Derbyshire County Council, which started it nearly a year ago.

The exhibits included an appeal by the British Wild-Plant Nurseries, which is under the direction of the Wild Plant Conservation Board. Following the lead of many other countries, this British society is protecting the countryside from being denuded of its wild flowers and plants.

Cattle entries, totaling 1,149, showed an increase. Dairy Shorthorns were strongest with 171 head, the famous Lincolnshire Red predominating. The Prince of Wales won a first prize with Cambus Matchmaker, in the class for two-year-old Shorthorn bulls. The King also had some fine entries in the cattle section from his farms at Windsor and Sandringham.

The goats were remarkable this year as the one kind of animal which surpassed all precedent, both in numbers and milk yield.

In the sheep section, for which there were 573 entries, Mr. J. D. Morgan was an outstanding winner with his South Down exhibits. Altogether he had 42 entries in the show and was one of the largest exhibitors. The pig entries showed a big jump, advancing from 551 to 688, and including several new breeds.

Sees Big Boom For Dominion

Wants Financial Structure Ready Declares Lord MacMillan

Winnipeg.—Canada is on the eve of a great economic development and the task of the Royal Commission on Banking is to determine whether the Dominion's banking and general financial equipment is equal to bear the strain when that development comes, in the opinion of Lord MacMillan, chairman of the commission.

The commission passed through Winnipeg en route to Victoria, where western hearings will begin.

"The real question of the moment is whether Canada has an adequate and general financial structure and the proper equipment to deal with its problems," said the noted English jurist.

"This investigation is in no sense an attack on the Canadian banking system," the chairman told interviewers. "The question is, rather, whether the present banking structure is adequate to meet the strain that will be put upon it when Canada enters upon the period of great economic development which is near at hand."

"Our work is not to be restricted to an ordinary decennial revision of the Bank Act. I think the reason for approaching the revision this year through a Royal Commission rather than through a parliamentary committee is the desire for a wider survey of the whole economic situation."

"It would be presumptuous for us to prescribe to the Canadian Government anything that might have a political import. Our inquiry will be scientific."

Lord Macmillan said he expected to hear some criticism in the west.
