

Expects to Pull Through

Senate stock market investigators in the U.S.A. have given the public a glimpse of rich profits of successful U.S. bankers when Albert H. Wiggin, now retired on an annuity of $100,000, testified the Chase National Bank paid him almost $1,000,000 in salary and bonuses from 1929 until the present time.

His largest income was $218,750 salary and a $75,000 bonus in 1930.

Winthrop W. Aldrich, son-in-law of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., came on the Chase Bank payroll in 1930 at a salary of $87,500. He was raised to $150,000 in 1931 and was cut to $135,556 the next year. He is to receive $87,500 this year as Wiggin's successor as head of the institution.

It is confidently expected that both of these gentlemen will weather the depression if things don't get any worse.

THE CURSING HABIT

Swearing is on the increase. We have heard little boys on the streets opposite the office cursing like drunken troopers, and a farmer informed us last week he had heard boys in his town uttering oaths as soon as they were out of Sunday school, says one of our weekly editors last week. Many of the novels today are profuse with oaths and a citizen of Hamilton became so full of righteous indignation at the blasphemous nature of Conan Doyle's "Sir Nigel" that he wrote to the principal of the high school his daughter was attending protesting against his daughter being supplied with a copy of the book.

The letter in part, read: "I feel I must utter a protest against a book of this kind being handed to a child to read with the endorsement of the school authorities; and although she has read part of it without my knowledge I have according to my custom with books of this kind forbidden her to read any more; and am sending it back to you by her hand."

"In glancing quickly over the pages of the book one's eye falls repeatedly upon such profane and blasphemous expressions as the following, which I hesitate to write down—'By God,' the splendor of God," "By God's dignity," "By the Soul of God," "In the name of Christ's passion," "By the blessed mother of God," etc.

"The innocent mind of a teen aged child who has been taught to have a deep reverence for these very things and to abhor profanity, in any form will be polluted, and their sense of reverence lessened by the continual repetition of such expressions."

It is contrary to the Word of God to utter oaths and shows a lack of culture as well. What an awfully depraved mind a person must have who can take the name of God in vain, not only on the least provocation but in ordinary conversation. Some may consider it smart to use oaths but with persons of good refinement one rarely ever hears an oath from them.

Notes and Comments

A writer in one of the evening papers supporting a beer and wine license for Ontario, puts forth the argument that one hundred and twenty million people in the U.S.A. are voting for the return to booze. Surely, he says, all these people are not wrong and a mere fraction of the number (ten million) in Canada right. Sounds pretty good on the surface that "right" must be with the big majority. But how about the time when the Yankees voted prohibition! If they were wrong then in the action taken, it is just as logical that they may be wrong this time. To our way of thinking they were near doing the right thing then. In any case the writer's argument is poor logic.

A mistake was made at a public meeting in Stouffville on Sunday which occurs so often, we are moved to comment on the matter. The audience had assembled to hear a special speaker advance the cause of the U. C. Bible Society. The normal time of such a service is one hour or a little more, but the special speaker who had come with a real message was not given an opportunity to get the ear of the audience until almost one hour was gone. The delay in getting to the sermon of the evening was caused by cramming in undue number of announcements, and a "sermonette" by the chairman. When the man whom the folks had really hoped to hear got his innings, he had a more or less tired audience and if there is one thing that a public speaker hates to face, it is weary listeners. Fortunately Mr. Harrington had a telling message which quickened the interest in the meeting, and held the attention to the end. So often this error is committed. A speaker sometimes comes a long distance, is the real attraction, and yet he is crowded to the last of the evening with no opportunity to get the ear of his listeners like those who appear before him on the program. It would almost seem to be discourteous to the guest speaker, and still it is not done from that motive at all. It is just thoughtlessness, and purely an unintentional blunder.

The accident which resulted in little Bobbie Fong receiving a double fracture to both his legs, is a highly regrettable thing. The motorist was not to blame, but the lad forgot to use the ordinary precaution which too often even older folk overlook. The motorist was passing standing vehicles in the business centre of the village, at a cautious rate of speed, but the boy rushed right into the path of the moving car. Because he was cautious the driver was not held.

How different it might have been had he been travelling at the speed so many pass along our Main street when it is lined with parked cars! An arrest, and a jail term might have been the outcome. Quimmell receives his reward for carefulness by not having the onus for the accident on his shoulders. Other drivers might well be warned by this incident, and if they accept the warning, they too some day may have cause to be as thankful as Mr. Quimmell for having done all they could to avert an accident, and perhaps save a child's life, as surely the slow speed did in this instance.

THE GERMAN BOLT

The Toronto Saturday Night so well expressed our idea of the German Disarmament dispute, a foremost matter among the nations at this time, that we pass it on to our readers:

"The withdrawal of Germany from the League of Nations and the disarmament Conference, while deeply regrettable, does not seem to create so tremendous a change in the international situation in Europe as one might suppose from the size of the headlines, and still more from the bellicose tones, of a portion of the Canadian daily press. The real change took place some months ago, and consisted in the suppression, expulsion or assassination of everybody of importance in Germany who looked forward to a future of peace and co-operation among the peoples of Europe. Since that event the sole assurance of peace has been the relative weakness of Germany in armaments and the improbability of her being able to secure allies among the better armed powers.

It is now fifteen years since the close of the war. It can never have been expected by anybody that Germany could be permanently kept in a state of armament immensely below that of all the nations around her; and the time has now obviously arrived when she can be kept in that state only by means of force. The League of Nations, originally conceived as an organization for imposing the general will-to-peace of the civilized countries upon any and every country which might be disposed to break the peace, has for years been put in a false position by having to act as enforcer of the Versailles limitations upon Germany, and thus to assume the aspect of a League of the Victors. It is conceivable that as a result of the extremely frank attitude of the German Government the League may be led to adopt a more realistic concept of the world in which it has to function and the duties which it ought to perform."

STYLES C.C.F. "FREAKISH"

Liberal Who Once Went Astray Will Wander No More

Dear Sir:—

I was more than surprised to read in the last issue of The Tribune that the C.C.F. had organized in your pleasant village. Surely if there is any place in Ontario where a contented class of people ought to prevail it is right in our own community. Local conditions in the immediate countryside have this year made things materially better, but still we have the agitators and dissatisfied few. I do not believe that our people will be led from the sure and certain path of a tried system, for the flimsy C.C.F. platform constructed on foolish imagination. If the radicals and theorists who lead the party ever attain power here in Canada we would be plunged down to Russia's level. The C.C.F. policies are not only freakish but dangerous to the well-being of Canada. It is perhaps natural that any new political movement should attract a following in times of depression but surely there is little excuse for the astute people of this district to tolerate a local following, where want and hardship do not make us grasp at a straw.

In conclusion allow me to warn the unsuspecting public that it has ever been the history of every period of hard times the world over, for new and impractical ideas to spring up so why be led astray at this time.

Work, save and be thrifty if you want a return to normal conditions, which, when they come will spell the end of the C.C.F. propaganda. I came through the experiences of the Patrons of Industry movement, the only time I forsook honest Liberal principals for a phantom, and I always regretted by disaffection to sound Liberalism. I pen these lines to warn the unsuspecting rising generation through your print.

Yours truly

York County Statistics

Twelve Rural and 14 Urban Municipalities Show Assets of $90,925,854

York County has a total debenture debt amounting to $43,841,569 on a combined assessment of $131,410,899 according to the statistics for the year for the county, issued last week by the Ontario Municipal Board.

The heavy debt includes the following: General debt, $6,731,415; schools, $9,516,552; local improvements, $20,033,094. The assessment is derived on the following basis: Land, $62,648,762; building, $59,664,578; business, $2,395,926; and income $6,701,633. Total assessed population is 216,364, with the assessed acreage being $542,902.

The 12 rural and 14 urban municipalities show total assets of $60,925,845 and liabilities amounting to $60,584,513. Receipts from all sources during 1932 were $12,025,931, against which there were expenditures of $12,142,318, including schools.

Altogether, taxes amounting to $9,180,525 were levied, $6,792,365 of these being for municipal purposes, and $2,388,160 for schools. The only two municipalities having a sinking fund are Richmond Hill, with $25,480 and Woodbridge, $1,827.

Municipalities operating water-works showing profits at the end of the year were: Scarborough, $27,195; York, $10,089; Stouffville, $950; Woodbridge $644; Aurora, $386; and Markham $125. Those showing a loss were Richmond Hill, $5,490; Mimico, $3,007; Weston, $3,142; New Toronto, $2,339, and Newmarket, $1,782.

TAX NOTICES ISSUING

Collector of Taxes F. H. Steckley, is issuing the tax bills for Whitchurch Township, for the year 1933. The downward trend of taxes in the municipality is appreciated by the farmers, and we have heard more than one so express himself. This year the rate still points downward. The rates however must be paid by Dec. 15th, otherwise a penalty of five per cent will be added to each and every tax not so paid. Unpaid taxes for 1932 now carry a penalty of 10 per cent, and in all total $5,000.

The improved farm prices fall for most products of the soil, will it be believed, help materially keep the farmers to meet their tax demand, easier than any time in the last two or three years.

Reeve George B. Elliott of North York, who this year is Warden of York County, has announced that he will seek the Conservative nomination in North York for the next Ontario election. The seat is now held by Mr. Clifford Case of Aurora, who when questioned about the matter states that it will be a matter for the delegates to decide. Mr. Elliott is a
