The postponed meeting of the Stouffville Horticultural Society is likely to be held on the evening of Monday, November 13, in the Stanley Theatre. Mr. John F. Clark will be here to show wonderful pictures and give an address to the local people who attend. At this meeting the prize money will be issued for the recent exhibition. Further announcement next issue of this paper.

The Road Committee of the village council had the pavement all cleaned up on Monday with the aid of a few extra men, and a truck. The work accomplished certainly improved the appearance of the main thoroughfare. When the catch-basins were cleaned-out, it was found that one or two of them were filled above the outlet to the sewer indicating that they should be cleaned oftener to keep muck from filling the sewer pipes. Citizens should endeavour to rake up the leaves on the boulevards now so that the road will not become littered again.

One of the popular fall events in Stouffville is the annual supper served by the Ladies' Association of the United Church, which this year will be given on the evening of Monday, Nov. 6, following the anniversary services on Sunday. Chicken pie appeals to almost everybody, but as an extra there will be a popular program rendered for which the services of Mrs. D. E. Jones, elocutionist, Markham, have been secured. Together with local talent. Plan to take in this chicken supper to which everybody is invited. Admission 35 and 20 cents.

Mr. Jacob Yake was able to be out for a short time on Saturday, following a recent collapse to his physical strength, which left him prostrate in his home one day recently for a number of hours before help came. Our 76 year-old citizen was in the act of frying some eggs for his meal, when he suddenly took a weak spell and sank to the floor. Although he did not lose his senses he could not help himself, and lay there with the music of the sizzling eggs in his ears. Fortunately a man called at the door after the space of three hours and heard Mr. Yake's call for help. Needless to say the eggs were done beyond recognition, but Mr. Yake was so exhausted that he couldn't eat anything for some days. A son of the late John Yake, Jacob is the "baby" of the family of three children still surviving. His eldest brother Abram, living on Main street is 91, and John, down on the farm is 81.

Do not overlook the fact that the Junior Institute play 'Chinz Cottage' will be given on the evening of Wednesday, November 15 in Ratchiff's Hall.

Mr. Lount Beebe, teacher in Hawaain Guitlar, will be in Stouffville, Saturday afternoons as well as evenings. Special terms for a winter course.

Hector Pollard, local jeweler, purchased a brand new 'up in Toronto last week, but the unskilled young terror was instantly killed by a motor car on Monday night in front of the jeweler's store. The unfortunate canine was long discovering that the roadway is quite as unsafe in a busy village as in the big city.

There is another "war" on the prices for counter check books. You can purchase them at about half the normal price, but the offer may be withdrawn any day. Let The Tribune quote you on 100 or 500 books. It will pay to attend this matter promptly. A. V. Nolan, agent for F. N. Burt Forms.

The Tribune mailing list was corrected last Friday, and we request our subscribers to consult the label on your paper, and see that it corresponds to the time your subscription is paid to. An early re-shipment on account will be appreciated from those who are in arrears.

Mr. Art Forsyth, tonsorial artist, is the first Stouffville boy to return from the northern woods with a deer this season. He went north with a party of three Toronto hunters, and wasn't in the woods more than ten minutes when he was confronted by a big 235 lb. buck. Art made a sure hit as his prize would indicate. The season opens earlier north of the Mattawa River where the hunters camped, but the customary hunting grounds for Stouffville sports is south of this territory, and the "gang" will go north as usual on Saturday of this week, it is expected.

Happy Hallowe'en parties were held in both the Presbyterian and United Church basements on Monday evening of this week. The entertainment at the United Church included a good program and lunch. The evening was in charge of Miss Lucella Holden's group of the Young Peoples' Society. The Presbyterian party took the form of a Masquerade, and while the writer saw many of those in attendance, we didn't recognize anyone at all. The young people enjoyed the innocent amusement and the entertainment in the church basement.

The local funeral director and furniture dealer, Mr. L. E. O'Neill, was called back to his native heath at Greenbank east of Uxbridge last Friday to assist in the burial of his cousin William O'Neill of Cannington, who was killed while operating a dump truck last Thursday morning for the County of Ontario. O'Neill, who was 29 years old, was caught between the dump box and body of the truck near Cannington, and his life was instantly crushed out. He was one of a gang of men who have been working drawing gravel from the pit west of Cannington to the town line between Brock and Mariposa. The dump box, refusing to work, he got out of the truck, took a look at the mechanism, and was caught by the falling box, when it is supposed, he adjusted a spring which had stuck. The heavy box hit him across the chest "as it fell. Coroner E. B. Blanchard and Dr. Graham were called, and an inquest was ordered. He is survived by his wife and a three-year-old son. His parents live at Greenbank and he was an only son.

Plan to visit the store Saturday and enjoy seeing the season's latest styles under special display.

The alarm felt last week for the safety of many vegetables in the fields, due to the unusual cold spell for the season of the year, was lifted on Monday when the weather became moderate again, and the farmers lost no time in getting after their root crops. Some cabbage were severely bitten by the frost, but will be fit for early use, while others again did not appear to be injured. Late cauliflowers too were nipped in the sudden freeze-up, while apples on the tree were spoiled. No time will be lost now to remove the root crop, with fear that Jack Frost may pounce down on us again without warning.

Dr. Ira Freel, landlord, is repairing the foundation of the building occupied by John Monkhouse as a tailoring shop. Repairs have been made to the south wall, and the building levelled up. "This has nothing to do with the action threatened against the village," says Dr. Freel. "So far as I am concerned the arbitration suit will proceed until justice has been done." The most recent offer of the council, is merely adding insult to injury, according to the view taken by Dr. Herbert Freel. Through his solicitor, Mr. F. L. Button, it is understood that a reply will be made to council's recent offer of settlement by the village paying $25, and that formal application is made for a hearing before the county judge.

One or two thefts committed in the immediate neighborhood the past ten days are still unsolved, and are likely to remain so. When the re-enactment of "John John, the Pipler's son, stole a pig and the way he run," was performed at Tait's slaughter house, the thief is still at large, for as Mr. Tait agrees, it is as hard to recognize your own swine sometimes in another's pen as it would be to know him in a can of pork and beans. Since the Tait pigs were taken, Clifford Raymer of North Markham lost 75 chickens, and his neighbor Gordon Lunau lost 17. The chicken raids were carried out on Tuesday night of last week, and the thieves left little or no trace for the police. Constable Walker is working on all three cases.

When Mr. William Ball and other residents living in the vicinity of the Presbyterian Church on Main street, were moved to, rush from their houses early the other evening to investigate a thunderous noise like the explosion of a bomb, it was discovered that the weight of the first snow of the season on the roof of the sheds at the rear of the "Scotch" church, had caused their total collapse. For some time the sheds were known to be in an unsafe condition and nothing but the town road scraper ventured under them. The suspicions that the shelter for horses and cars was unsafe proved to be justified, when the place collapsed, and lay flat on the ground. The heavy frame also crashed completely. These sheds, about 50 feet long, were erected 40 years ago, and for a long time were taxed every Sabbath Day to accommodate those from the country who drove in to Kirk. A few years ago the north angle was taken down when its condition was bad, but as stated the long stretch running north and south, was left to complete its own distribution. We understand that no arrangements will be made to replace the shelter, partly because the need for such stabling is not very much sought in these days of motor cars and dwindling congregations.

The Junior Institute are practicing for their latest play to be given in Ratchiff's Hall, on the evening of Wednesday, November 15th. The drama is entitled "Chinz Cottage," and has a cast of seven. The Institute always puts over something that appeals to the big audiences they have attracted on previous occasions.

Dr. Hellen McKinley and Miss Ann Davey, niece of E. J. visited at Mr. and Mrs. Davey's Sunday. Dr. McKinley is on the staff at the Children's Hospital, College Street, while Miss Davey is a daughter of Walter Davey, being on the teaching staff of Shaws Schools at the North Toronto Branch, Yonge Street.

A motor accident occurred on the 8th concession of Whitechurch on Saturday night, which proved more or less serious for the two cars involved, although the occupants escaped without serious injury. Harry Thorn who is employed on the Neighorn farm at Lemonville was travelling south about a quarter mile below the marsh and opposite the Nesbitt farm, in a coupe when he met Mr. George E. Davey's Plymouth driven by his son, who was travelling north, and with only one light according to Thorn's story. The cars side-swiped each other, and badly damaged both conveyances, which came to a halt, but did not upset. Mr. Davey's son was alone, while Mr. Thorn was accompanied by a lady friend, and although all parties waited for more than an hour they could not get a policeman, and allowed the cars to be taken to garage for repairs. If the Davey car was travelling with only one light, it was the one on the left which was alright, so that if it were mistaken for a motorcycle, it would minimize the cause for the collision from that angle. However, there will be heavy garage bills for someone to pay, and the court may
