He was the originator of the Barrie Seth Parker group which furnished several programs in this locality a year or two ago.

The date for the Continuation School Commencement is set for Friday evening, Dec. 7, in Ratcliff's Hall. The pupils will sell tickets to parents and others at 25c. This affair is usually well patronized, and doubtless will be again this year.

Mr. Harry Sawyer who recently sold his dairy business, is preparing to erect a house on Main street on the vacant lot immediately east of George Brownsberger's double houses. The new building will be bungalow style with stucco exterior, and will improve that section of the street where a useless field, now is the only thing to look at.

That advertising in The Tribune reveals strange things, was exemplified last week, when the Deputy Reeve of Whitechurch after searching the locality for a used windmill, decided to advertise for one. The first person to answer the advertisement was his colleague in council Reeve Herman Kidd. The revelation in this instance is almost akin to the time when a farmer advertised for some Dutch beet seed, with replies to be left at the office of this paper. Only one person answered this advertisement, but it was the wife of the farmer who wanted the seed. She had some put away for use, but had not confided the fact to her husband. It was very scarce that spring, and she determined to sell some of the seed to gain extra pin money.

Child's crib or cot for sale. Apply Mrs. Sid. Schmidt.

You need a Rain Coat this season. See our stock and you'll marvel at the low prices. F. E. Rae, tailor.

Dr. S. Wesley Dean will speak to the Bible Class on Sunday. Dr. Dean is head of the Pension Board of the United Church.

The special services in the Mennonite Church will come to a close next Sunday evening, and in the meantime they are being held each week night excepting Saturday. Rev. P. Wiseman, the evangelist is an outstanding speaker and teacher, whose addresses bear weight. Hear him while the opportunity is open.

The Stanley Theatre has secured the new and popular picture, "Belle of the Nineties," featuring Mae West, for this Friday and Saturday. It is a romance of a queen set in the glamorous New Orleans of the Nineties. One of the jewelled dresses worn in this picture by Mae West weighs 25 pounds, and she had to walk around in this for eight hours while the picture was being screened.

This Thursday evening the Stouffville Old Boys and Girls Association in Toronto will serve chicken dinner at the Open Hearth Tea Room, 66 College Street, at 7 o'clock. A program of games and dancing will follow. Local people are invited and we trust that a goodly number will be on hand to mingle with the chums of bygone days. The charge is only 45c per person.

As will be noticed in the Full-O-Pep advertisement on the back page of this issue, the Quaker Oat Company are giving away a very finely printed and well illustrated book on the feeding of and care of poultry. The book is appreciated by all persons interested in poultry. Phone in your name NOW. No obligation to buy anything.

Mr. George Watson has sold his beautiful black show mare which has been seen in harness about town recently, to Mr. William Rennie of Mongolla. This mare was formerly owned by Mr. G.A.M. Davidson, clerk of Markham Township, and has carried off the red ribbon at Peterboro and other large fairs in the province. Mr. Rennie will feed justly proud of possessing one of the best turned pieces of horse flesh in the county.

A vote on local option will be taken in Markham village next January when the municipal election is on. It is estimated that Markham's share of the twenty per cent which Premier Hepburn has promised wet municipalities will amount to $250, but whether it will have any great influence on the voters is a question to which Markham people give all kinds of answers. Some say it will win the day for the wets, while others say it will not turn a dozen dry votes wet.

The Town of Uxbridge is negotiating with a firm talking of locating there, to occupy the Gold Medal factory idle for some years, but the concern cannot make the change until a "friend" makes a loan to them. They are not asking the town to advance funds however. Over in Newmarket another concern offers to establish a clothing factory there, provided 300 citizens advance one dollar each to establish a $300 fund to pay a year's rent. Invariably the municipality pays dearly for advancing money to an industry to locate in their midst, for it usually falls to the lot of the hard-pressed tax payer to meet increased taxes by reason of having offered cash inducements, long after the firm is passed out of existence as they usually do. That is why the law was enacted to forbid bonusing new industries.

Another business change took place on Monday morning, when Tait Bros. disposed of their butchering establishment to Norman O'Boyle, a native boy, and son of the late Daniel O'Boyle, and of Mrs. O'Boyle, just east of town. The new owner intends to equip the premises with every modern device for handling the best of meats, which will include electric refrigeration to be installed immediately. Improvements will be made at the slaughter house, which will be brought up-to-date and made thoroughly sanitary in every way. The Tait boys who followed their father in business here have not decided on what they may do in the future. Bert, however, intends to buy stock, we understand, but nothing definite has really been reached. When this establishment is made over into a modern meat market, the town will be supplied with two up-to-date meat markets. Mr. O'Boyle's entry into the business is hailed as a good move by his friends. Norman started in as a delivery boy here seven years ago, and soon went to Toronto, where he was able to widen out his experience, and learn all about carving up a carcass. It is a logical move that he should return to his native town to enter business.

The Town Bible Class are arranging to bring the colored Virginia Jubilee Singers to town on the evening of January 23.

The C.C.F. Study Group meets in the home of Mrs. H. G. Turner, at 8 p.m., on December 5. Subject: Specialist Control of Capital, a paper will be given entitled "Japan Emerges From the Mists."

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Closson moved into their fine new bungalow near their old home in the west end last week, and which has just been completed by the workmen.

The Royal Winter Fair is being well patronized, from this section, and those who attend appear to have appreciated the entertainment more than usual this year.

Fall plowing is still going on under the springlike weather conditions. Excepting for a day or so there has been no interruption to the plow since harvest time.

It is estimated that the annual cut of Christmas Trees from the woods of Ontario, Quebec and the maritimes, if planted a quarter mile apart, would girdle the globe four times over. The statistical department of the C.N.R. is authority for this estimate.

Cream has advanced at the local creamery to 23c per pound butter fat for special grade, and 21 cents for first grade. This is the best price for some months, and will doubtless be appreciated by cream shippers.

Hodgins grocery is opening today in their new premises in the Lawson Block, with larger and more complete quarters. You are invited to visit the new store in the west end. Prompt delivery service, and satisfaction to their customers, is the aim of the new proprietor.

We had a juicy venison steak the other day because of the generosity of Mr. Delbert Holden, who remembered some of his friends when the butcher carved up that 153 pound buck which our Ford agent brought down on one of the Parry Sound trails. If the deer were harder to get, it may have been the reason for them tasting so good this fall.

Only those who are in a position to read the papers of the towns and villages are privileged to know the extent to which local history is written and published. Not a week passes but many of the weeklies, that come to the editorial desk, carrying interesting stories of the pioneers and the days of settlement. All, however, are not given to the round of clearing the land and the first crops, but quite frequently are devoted to the religious and social life, the churches, schools and other organizations that had a place and played a part in laying the foundations on which the successors of those of earlier years have erected such useful and important superstructures. Publication of the tales of early days is worth while and the writers and newspapers co-operating toward this end are doing an invaluable work. As the years wear on, the pioneers are disappearing, hence the lessening of the opportunity of securing information from those who knew the wooden sap bucket, the wooden cradle, the troughed roof and the chinked walls of the log cabin. May the good work go on. The early history of Altona and Pickering Township, as found on page four, will be interesting to every reader, and we hope it will inspire more persons to contribute articles of this nature. We will be delighted to publish them.

CROWDS ENJOY RAYMER HOUR

One of the largest crowds ever to jam into Ratcliff's Hall was seen there on Sunday night in an effort to hear (and more especially to see) the group of artists from CKCL, Toronto, put on the Raymer Evening Hour, one of the popular Sunday evening programs of sacred music heard on the air, as heard from the studio.

Mr. Lloyd Raymer, who by the way conducts a couple of bakery shops on the Danforth, appeared at the little table seated before the microphone with his group of nine singers in a semi-circle on the stage. Following a heavy day in Toronto of practise and broadcasting, the group were visibly tired, but their numbers must have been amply appreciated for the throngs of people fairly stormed the doors and aisles until the program concluded. Standing room was at a premium throughout the two-hour program.

The numbers were all familiar hymns, dear to, to everybody. The set-up of the stage was that of the studio, under broadcasting conditions.

At the intermission period Mr. W. E. Morden, president, and Rev. T. Laidlaw, teacher, of the town bible class, voiced their appreciation and the thanks of the class, to the radio group for coming here to show the people something of the inside working of a real studio.

Mr. Raymer as our readers know, is a native of this place, being born at Dickson's Hill, also Mr. Oscar Grove, one of the party of singers, is a Dickson Hill boy, being a son of the late Henry Grove.

It was suggested that the group return here next summer when such an evening could be put on in the arena where ample accommodation would be available. Hundreds were turned away on Sunday night, unable to gain admission.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Waddell, Main street west, intend to spend the winter in Florida, and are preparing to leave on the trip south next week. Others from this neighborhood who will winter among the orange groves of Sunny California, are Mr. and Mrs. R. Bessie and Mr. and Mrs. Evans, all of Claremont. They left this week by motor.

Those who were not privileged to be present in the United Church, on Friday evening last, to hear the Organ Recital given by the guest organist, Mr. Herman Pouwels, organist and choirmaster of Runnymede Presbyterian Church, Toronto, missed a rare treat. Since the installation of the new organ last summer, several guest organists have been heard, but it remained for Mr. Pouwels to give a masterly and thoroughly satisfying demonstration of its fine qualities. Three groups of numbers were given by Mr. Pouwels, each number being rendered with authority and a fine musical sense that revealed the possibilities of this fine instrument. The organ numbers were interspersed with vocal numbers, the choir under the direction of Mr. Robert Leslie rendering Mendelssohn's "I Waited for the Lord," from "The Hymn of Praise", Misses Anne Lehman and Luella Gayman taking the solo parts very effectively. The duet "The Rosary" by Mrs. Thos. Laidlaw and Mr. Carl Boadway was a delightful number, as were also the solos by Miss Luella Gayman, and Mr. Carl Boadway. At the close, the choir sang Brahms' "Lullaby" with a rare sense of restraint and confidence, that brought sincere appreciation from the audience. Altogether the program was of the very highest merit, and the choir of the church, under whose auspices, the recital was given, have every reason to feel gratified that they were able to give music lovers such a thoroughly enjoyable and artistic treat. —Com.
