> It is an interesting fact to record at this time that Mrs. John Elliott of Ballantrae last week was spared in very good health to proclaim her 85th birthday. Mrs. Elliott is spending the winter at the home of her daughter Mrs. George Feasby in Toronto, but she keeps in touch with the home district weekly through the columns of The Tribune of which she is a regular and interested reader. A resident of Ballantrae for half a century or more, there is no place like home, and she looks forward to the balmy spring days that will enable her to return to the friends of a life-time and mingle with them as she has done in the Wednesday last week was a bitter cold day, as the two Johns employed on the Stouffville water works system have reason to know. A break in the water pipe under the boulevard in front of William Ball's home provided an unenviable job for these men, John Castle and John Gower. but they were equal to the task. Digging through frost 18 inches deep they got down to the seat of the trouble, pumped out the water and made the repairs in good time. The "boys" certainly earn thanks of the water users when they undertake such work under the trying conditions which prevailed that day. The leak had made its way along the outside of the pipe leading into Mr. Ball's cellar, which was filling with water.

The constant plea for wiping out of county councils as unnecessary bodies is on the increase. Such incidents are occurred in the York County last week is largely responsible for the people becoming disgusted with county councils. York County Council appointed two members as their representatives on the York County Children's Aid Board, and it was whispered that these committeemen would receive $7 per day for their services as do all other committeemen when meeting in between sessions of the council. The Children's Aid Board of probably fifteen members all serve without any remuneration, and even pay their own travelling expenses, and for the county to send in their Jenny Lynd Chocolates, half lb 20c Bethesda as at all small centres, but representatives at such lucrative fees is certainly something that will Cooper's Dri-Kill 69c that a business in motor oil and not go down with the public or the Sulphur, 6 lbs. 25c gas was made, and then a well kept members of the Aid very well. This is the first shutdown in all those years, and notwithstanding the place is closed for want of more patronage those who know claim that it is an excellent stand opened to the public by his son Hezekiah Pretty, who did a humming business for years. The place and among its owners was Mr. D. W. Heise of Gormley, who carried on there for thirteen years, leaving Bethesda 31 years ago. In his own words Mr. Heise says, "we were able to save some money while in that business, and I think the right party should do very well there." In fact the corner store carried on at time when there was more immediate opposition than at present for another store stood to the south of the corner premises on the place where the Lyons house stands and in which Mr. Jess Cober of Stouffville once lived. The local undertaker had to fall back on the use of horses again last weekend when it was necessary to journey to Glasgow owing to the death of the late Charles Armstrong. The faithful gray horse which hauls the local express and freight was pressed into service, making the journey through the heavy snow and drifts successfully with the flat bottomed sleigh. Like the physician the funeral director must master the snowbanks in some manner when duty calls him. On Monday a large gang opened the road to Glasgow in readiness for the funeral on Tuesday afternoon, but the over-night blow filled in the cuts again, making motor traffic impossible. With this casket was borne by horse-drawn sleigh from the late home to a point nearer Stouffville where it was met by the hearse to complete the
