RURAL MAIL CONTRACTS

A bill introduced in the Dominion parliament last week to place rural mail contracts on a mileage basis, was ruled out of order. It was said that such a bill would have increased the expenditure of the postal department as much as $27,000,000. Thus will individuals be permitted to go on carrying rural mail at contract rates little above cost. After all, mail carriers set their own rate of pay and to change the system of letting contracts from the tender form to a mileage basis, could only have one object, and that is to protect the mail carrier from his own willful action of putting in a foolishly low bid for the job. Thus we need not only laws to protect us from the other fellow, but to protect us from ourselves. Rather than abandon the tender system for mail couriers, would it not be more fair to give them a moderate increase in pay on renewal of contracts, and where the services of the courier have been satisfactory.

MARKHAM CRIME IS SIGNAL FOR NEED MORE POLICE

County Blames Gangs of City For Crimes and Asks More Protection—Reward is $1,000

The brutal murder of Edward Stonehouse, Markham garageman, by an auto bandit trio, has aroused strong indignation in York County circles for more police protection in both the urban and rural sections of the county. It is intimated that special attention will be given the question at the next meeting of the county warden and commissioners. As Ontario Provincial Police increased the number of men assigned to the case on Saturday Attorney-General Robbuck doubled the reward offered for capture of the bandits. He left a session of the Hepburn cabinet to announce a reward of $1,000 is being offered. The fatal shooting of Mr. Stonehouse and the wounding of his son, James, culminated a series of break-ins of the-Markham garage extending over a period of years. Following the first break-in, Mr. Stonehouse had the garage fitted up with a burglar alarm. He kept a gun ready in his house for an emergency—in spite of these precautions the building was again broken into and the thieves escaped.

Battle Prowlers
When the garage was once again entered Stonehouse and his son attempted to catch midnight marauders. As a result the former is dead and his son is fighting gallantly for his life in the hospital. Father and son were no match for the bandit trio. They were struck down by a rain of bullets without warning. The leader of the gunmen then smashed the skull of the elder Stonehouse with the butt of his murderous weapon.

More Protection
This is the new type of criminal invading small towns and townships throughout the county and officials are realizing the necessity of strengthening their protection against the invasion. They are realizing that one man, however good he may be, cannot protect miles of territory himself.

There is a strong belief that the shooting was the work of gunmen from Toronto or its immediate vicinity. If this is so, it gives strength to the belief that the inauguration of radio police cars by Toronto have driven the so-called city gangsters out into the county to carry out their activities.

WHITCHURCH FOLK WED FORTY YEARS

Groom Former Member of Whitchurch Twp. Council

On March 4th, 1896, Elizabeth Grose, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Grose, of Leroy, Simcoe County, became the bride of Mr. Isaac Morton, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Morton of Keswick. The fortieth anniversary of the tying of this nuptial knot was fittingly commemorated on Wednesday, March 4th at the home on the Third of Whitchurch, when the children, grandchildren, and immediate relatives, to the number of twenty-five, sat down to a bountiful wedding dinner. The four sons and one daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morton, were all present for the happy occasion. These are Mrs. Stuart Stickwood of East Gwillimbury, Henry of Gwillimbury, Clifford of Queensville and Ira and Donald at home. There are seven grandchildren —The bridesmaid and groomsmen of forty years ago were the sister and brother of the bride and groom, and were privileged to be present on Wednesday. Respectively, they were, in turn married five years later, and are Mr. and Mrs. William Morton of Sutton, until recently residing on their farm just east of Newmarket. The two Mrs. Mortons were the only children of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Grose, while the two Mortons were the two oldest of six sons of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Morton. Mrs. King of Newmarket, aunt of Mr. Morton, and for whose father he worked just prior to his marriage, forty years ago, was a much interested member of the party on Wednesday. Norman of Thornhill, Ernest of Keswick, two brothers of Mr. Morton were also present, two other brothers and their one sister not being able to be there. The Rev. A. E. Kemp, pastor of the Street Methodist Circuit, was the minister performing the ceremony forty years ago, while the family pastor, Rev. G. W. Lynd, of Aurora, acted as toastmaster at the dinner on Wednesday. Mr. Morton says there was far more snow forty years ago than now, he and his brother driving over the tops of fences in several places when going to the wedding. There were no cars in that day. Mr. Morton was councillor in East Gwillimbury for three years and served in the township council of Whitchurch for a like number of years. Mr. and Mrs. Morton are quite active workers in Vardorf United Church. All join in wishing them many happy returns of the day and abundance of good things for the future.

SOCIAL CREDITORS SEEK TO PREVENT RIFT WITH EXPERT

Edmonton, Alta., March—Premier William Aberhart has called Maj. C. H. Douglas in England, urging him not to insist on termination of his contract to come to Alberta and aid the Social Creditors in their efforts.

While the text of the cablegram was not given out, it is known that the Premier regrets the world getting the idea that Major Douglas is afraid to come because his theory is not workable. He feels that as the originator of the Social Credit scheme, Major Douglas should be glad of this opportunity to demonstrate the worth of his theories.

Plenty of Backing
Scores of Social Credit groups all over the Province have been wiring their expressions of loyalty and approval to Premier Aberhart's stand and also praise for his ability. A party caucus held Tuesday night showed the party solidly behind the Premier. This is significant since the budget debate will now hold the attention of the legislators.

It is clear that Premier Aberhart has no thought of abandoning his plans for instituting Social Credit in Alberta at the earliest possible moment, whatever happens with regard to Major Douglas's resignation received here Monday.

"The aim of my Government will not be affected in the least by Major Douglas's action. We were elected to do a job and we are going to do it," declared the Premier.

FORTY YEARS AFTER

(Christian Science Monitor)
The new treaty between France and Russia is an alliance in anticipation of war, not in expectation of peace.

The fact is unfortunate. Yet it is a fundamental fully as important as any detail of the diplomatic regrouping which the Franco-Russian pact achieves.

When the accord was negotiated nearly a year ago, emphasis was thrown on the terms which keep it within the framework of the League and Locarno. These provisions were elaborately and skillfully phrased. But since then history has been riding hard.

Out of the current debates in the French chamber, the treaty emerges with its military aspects in boldest relief. There is haste—haste occasioned for France by the swift rearmament of Germany, for Russia by the added pressure of Japanese expansion and militarism.

The original concepts of a pact to which Germany, Poland and other nations might adhere, is practically forgotten.

The development of the Franco-Russian alliance in the months from signature to ratification thus illustrates again that the words of treaties are less important than the spirit in which they are written. For it is not the form but the substance that brings disturbing comparisons with the alliance of 1891 which led the same two countries toward the conflagration of 1914.

The major difference, some forty years later, lies in a world more clearly awake to the needs for collective peace. Throughout France itself there is a sincere desire to find security within the idea of the League. The difficulty—and the need—is to make the wider peace system not a secondary, but a primary objective of policy.
