Veranda Bridges Call For Little Homemade Cakes

Several varieties of little cakes very different in appearance and taste, can be made at the same time and they are so popular for bridge teas, or in fact at any time, that they are apt to be eaten up before the special occasion has come about.

Little cakes made with unsweetened chocolate are the best yet for summer bridge parties. They may be arranged on plates while the hostess is "dummy" and need no special cutlery or china. And now that fresh fruit desserts are popular, these little cakes are the perfect complement at dinner. When you make three different kinds at one baking you can have a change each night with desserts.

Here are some recipes that you will find not only satisfactory but interesting to work on, and the results will be so delicious you are going to have trouble keeping the family from eating them all up out of hours!

Old-Time Brownies

1 1/2 cups sifted cake flour, 3/4 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 1-3 cup sugar, 5 egg yolks beaten until thick and lemon colored, 2 1/2 squares unsweetened chocolate (melted), 1 cup sour cream, 1 cup walnut meats (broken), 1 teaspoon vanilla. Sift flour once, measure, add salt and soda and sift together three times. Add sugar to egg yolks, creaming well. Add chocolate and blend. Add flour alternately with cream, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Add nuts and vanilla. Pour into deep greased cup-cake pans, filling them about 2-3 full. Bake in hot oven (400 F.) 15 minutes. Makes 3 dozen brownies.

Chocolate Macaroon

2 egg whites, 1 cup sugar, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla, 1 1/2 squares unsweetened chocolate (melted), 1L cups coconut southern style shred. Beat egg whites until foamy throughout; add sugar, 2 tablespoons at a time, beating after each addition until sugar is blended. Then continue beating until mixture will stand in peaks. Add salt and vanilla. Fold in chocolate; then coconut. Drop from teaspoon on ungreased, heavy paper. Bake in slow oven (325 F.) 20 minutes or until done. Cool 5 minutes before removing from paper.

Makes 2 dozen 1 1/2 inch macaroons.

Chocolate Nut Tea Cakes

1 1/2 cups sifted cake flour, 1/2 teaspoon baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup butter or other shortening, 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs well beaten, 3 squares unsweetened chocolate, 1/2 cup broken nut meats, 1/2 cup milk, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt and sift together 3 times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually and cream together until light and fluffy. Add eggs and beat thoroughly, add chocolate and blend, then nuts and raisins and beat well. Add flour alternately with milk, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla. Drop from teaspoon into greased small cup cake pans. Bake in moderate oven (350 F.) 20 to 25 minutes, or until done. Makes 2 1/2 dozen small cakes.

THIS WEEK'S WINNER

The following letter came to our desk this morning. The recipes are interesting, and too, it shows the interest displayed in the home town paper.

"No doubt you will be surprised to hear from a Los Angeles girl, but my mother is a weekly reader of her home town paper, 'The Erin Advocate.' I also am quite interested, and want to send my favorite luncheon salad recipe."

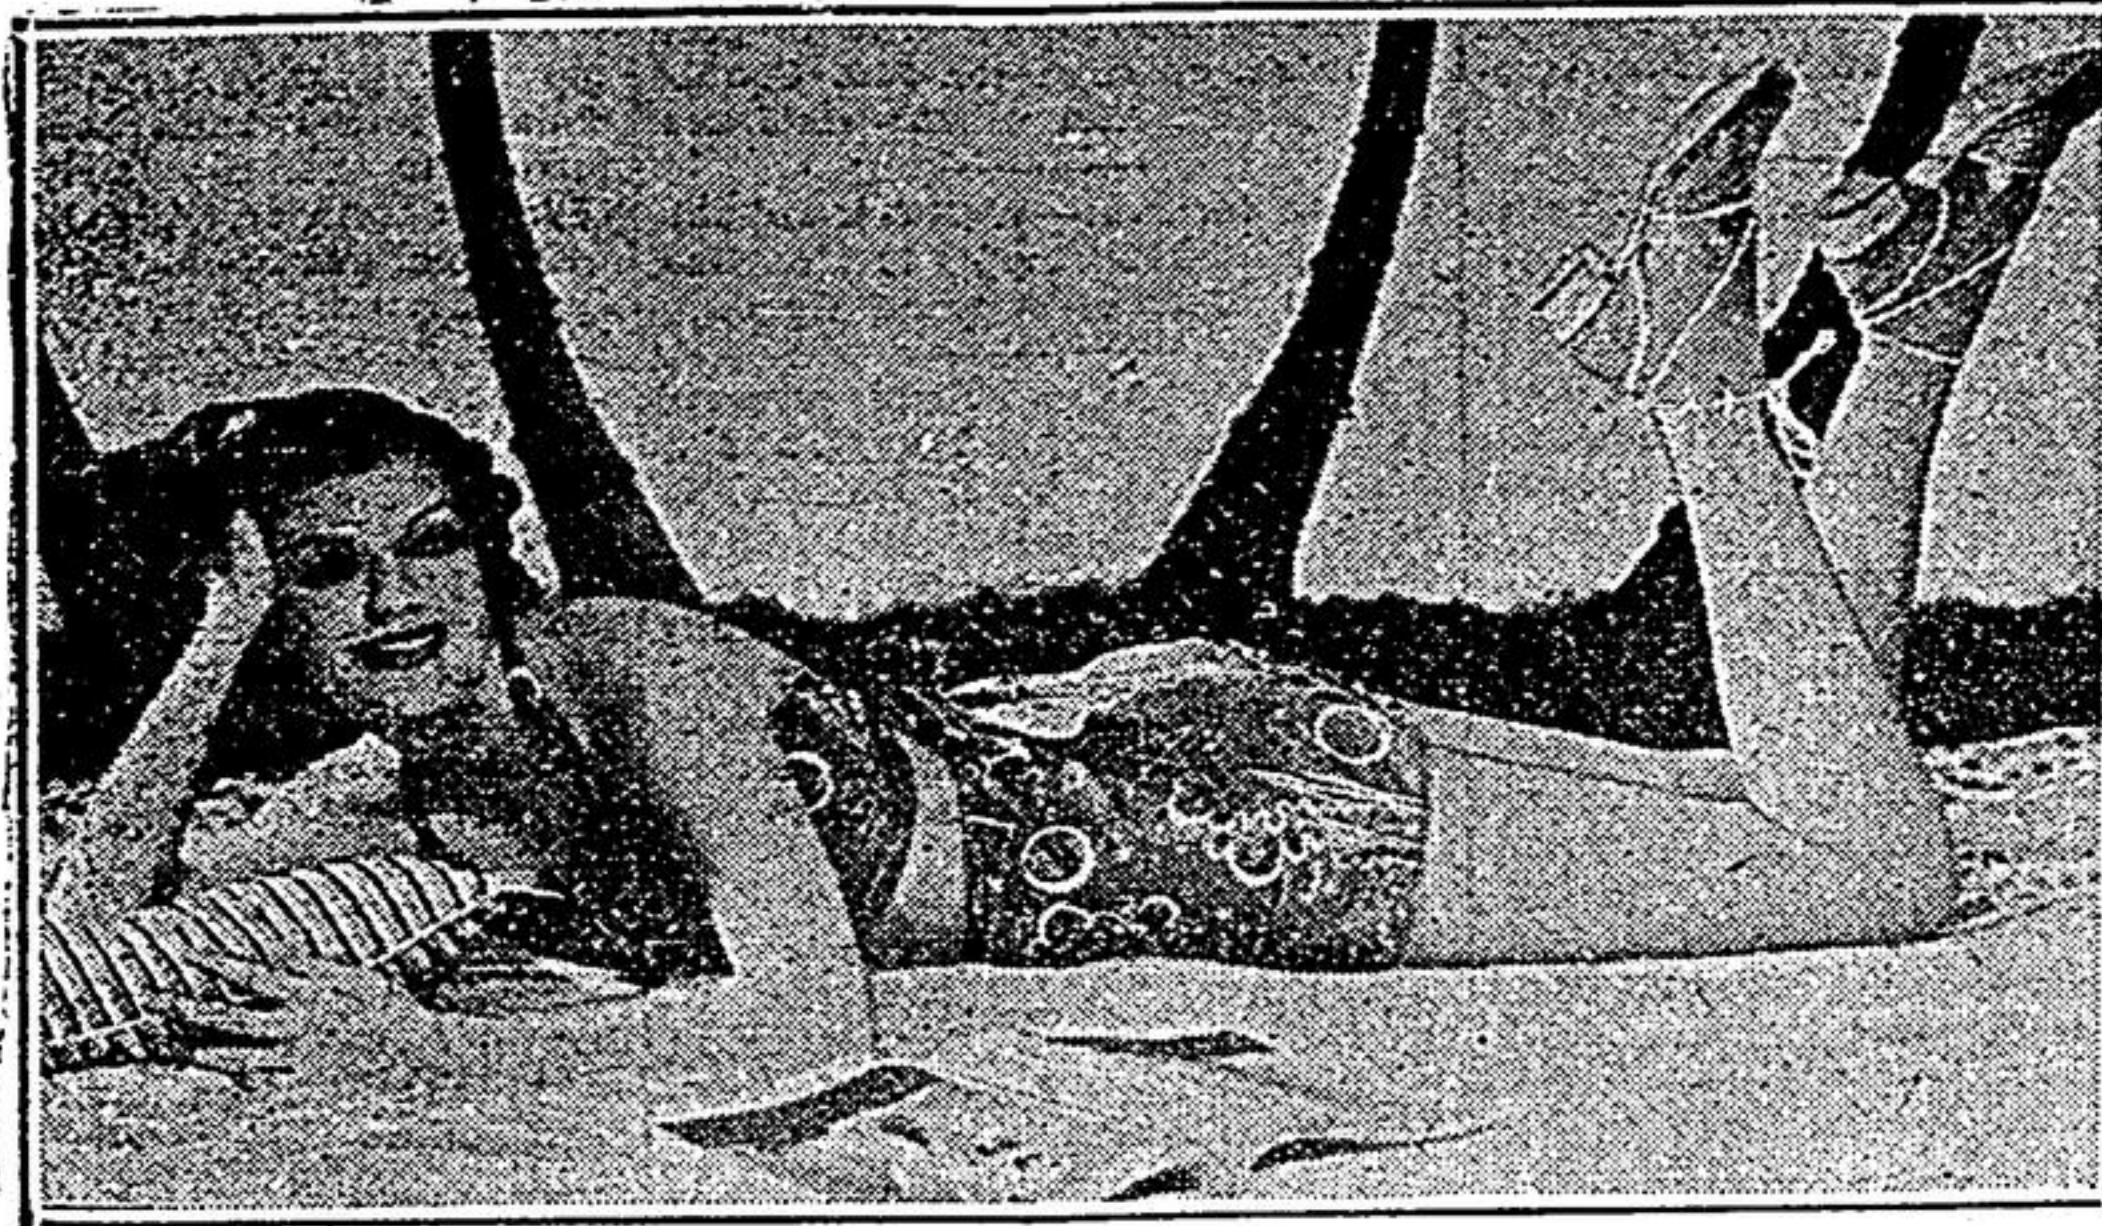

Tuna Fish Salad in Cucumber Boats

Cut 3 or 4 cucumbers in half lengthwise, and hollow out the centers to hold the tuna fish. Place cucumbers in ice water until needed. Marinate tuna fish in French dressing, and let stand in the refrigerator for several hours. Before serving mix with 2 cups of tuna fish 1 cup diced celery, and 3 chopped hard-boiled eggs. Place in the cucumber boats. Then pour over it a ravigote dressing.

Ravigote Dressing

Mash the yolks of 3 hard-boiled eggs until they are smooth. Then mix in 4 tabsp. of salad oil, 3 tsp. cream, 1 tsp. vinegar, 1 tsp. salt, 1/2 tsp. pepper and a little paprika, 2 tsp. chopped green onion, and 2 tsp. finely chopped hard-boiled egg whites may be added. — Leota E. SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON VII SOWING AND REAPING (Temperance Lesson)

Galatians 6: 1-10.

GOLDEN TEXT—Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. Galatians 6:7.

Devotional Reading: Galatians 5: 16-24.

Beginner Topic: Jesus' Friend Tells Us to Help.

Lesson Material: Galatians 6, 2-5, 9, 10.

Memory Verse: Love one another. John 15: 12b.

1. "Brethren, even if a man be overtaken in any trespass..."

That is, if he be detected in the trespass which he has committed, before he can escape. If a man's sin is never discovered, then the problem of the relationship between himself and others never arises. "Ye who are spiritual." That is, those who live by the Holy Spirit, who walk in the Holy Spirit, such as Paul was referring to in the immediately preceding passage (5: 25). "Restore such a one." The verb here translated "restore" often means to "reset," or, "repair what is injured" (Matt. 5: 21; Mark 1: 19). "In a spirit of gentleness." "The restoration of a fallen brother is not to be undertaken in a distant or haughty spirit, or in a hard, dictatorial, or censorious style, which dwells bitterly on the sin, or brings its aggravations into undue relief. "Looking to thyself, lest thou also be tempted." "It is a noticeable thing that men normally weak in any given direction are apt to be the severest judges of those who err in the same respect, just as people who have risen out of poverty are often the harshest towards the poor."

"Bear ye one another's burdens." The word here translated "burden" "donates any weight which presses heavily on the body or the mind, as toil, suffering, responsibility, anxiety."

3. "For if a man thinketh himself to be something when he is nothing, he deceiveth himself." "If a man thinks himself so perfect that he can have no burden which others may carry with him or for him; if he regards himself so far above sin, frailty or sorrow, that he neither needs nor expects sympathy or help—he will not readily stoop to bear the burdens of others."

4. "But let each man prove his own work, and then shall he have his glorying in regard to himself alone, and not of his neighbor." For the proving of one's work, see, e.g., Paul's classic consideration of this subject in 1 Cor. 3: 10-15.

"For each man shall bear his own burden." The word here translated "burden" if a different one from the one similarly translated in verse 2. The one in verse 2 "points to a load of which a man may fairly rid himself when occasion serves," and is sometimes used with reference to the load carried in a boat; the word used in verse 5, however, seems to point to a load which a man "is expected to bear."

"But let him that is taught in the word." That is, the pupil in the catechetical class, the hearer, the church member, the one who receives instruction in the Word of God from the minister. "Communicate unto him that teacheth in all good things." The word here translated "communicate" means "to share in common with others" (Tim. 5: 22; 1 Pet. 4: 13; Heb. 2: 14; 2 John 11).

"Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." As long as the law of this verse—that whatever a man sows he will reap—is allowed to apply to nature, to sowing seed in the ground, every living person will admit its sovereignty and truthfulness, and rejoice in it; but when this law is lifted up into moral and spiritual realms, then men are often deceived into believing that, no matter what kind of seed is sown, the consequences will not be so bad after all; or that they can sow one kind of seed and reap another.

8. "For he that soweth unto his own flesh." By the word "flesh" Paul here means "that for the gratification of which the seed is sown," or "that which forms the ruling end of the man's desires and actions, which conforms and molds the work and the aspirations of his present life." "Shall of the flesh reap corruption." "The field of the flesh yields not full and solid ears of corn, which may be gathered up and garnered for future use, but only blighted and putrescent grain."

"But he that soweth unto the

Shining White Teeth Depend on Daily Care

White, sparkling teeth are important to any woman's beauty. Nature may not have blessed you with nicely shaped, perfectly even teeth, but modern science and the dental profession have provided you with ways and means to keep them clean and shining. There is no excuse for dingy, faded teeth that spoil your smile.

You know, of course, that you ought to see your dentist at least twice a year and that you should brush your teeth two or three times a day. Make sure that you brush correctly—downward on the upper, upward on the lower ones and with rotary motion inside and out. Be careful not to force the gums away from the teeth. Ask your dentist to recommend a dentifrice which will remove stains as well as food particles and film.

You ought to use dental floss at least once a day. This removes foreign substances which cannot be reached with a tooth brush. Remember, too, that it's a good idea to use a mouth wash after each cleansing.

Select toothbrushes (everyone needs two) with firm (not soft, but not harsh) bristles. Keep them hanging up so the bristles will have a chance to dry thoroughly after each brushing. If, in spite of this they seem to get too soft, rinse with a strong solution of salt and water. Let the salt water dry on the brush.

Incidentally, baking soda is one of the finest cleansing agents for stained teeth. You may not like the taste of it, but it will do the trick. If your budget doesn't allow for a commercially prepared mouth wash, try plain salt and water.

Spirit shall of the Spirit reap eternal life." We must not confine our thought of this verse to the dark side. Too often the beautiful promise of the last half of the verse is forgotten. The one who sows unto the Spirit is the Christian who "walks not after the flesh, but after the Spirit." (Rom. 8:4; "For the mind of the flesh is dead; but the mind of the Spirit is life and peace" (Romans 8:6).

"And let us not be weary in well-doing: for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not." Every man and woman attempting to live a straightforward Christian life knows what it is to grow weary in doing what he knows is right. It is a constant battle.

"So then, as we have opportunity, let us work that which is good toward all men, and especially toward them that are of the household of the faith." In this verse the teaching of the entire preceding passage seems to be summed up. The church of Christ on earth is frequently designated as the house or family of God (1 Tim. 3: 15; 1 Peter 2: 5; Heb. 3: 6; Eph. 2: 19).

Telephoning to Canada

The British Post Office, which controls the telephone service of the whole United Kingdom, some time ago inaugurating a popular service of telephoning to any part of the British Isles for one shilling (25 cents) after 7 p.m. Distances are short there by comparison with Canada, but even that is an excellent bargain as the maximum distance would run to nearly 1,000 miles, writes the Stratford Beacon-Herald.

Recently a London man received his telephone bill for the quarter amounting to nearly $150. Some mistake, he thought, so he sent it back asking adjustment. But the Post Office returned it to him with details showing four trans-Atlantic calls to Canada.

Then the truth came out. His household had telephoned to her boyfriend over here, and proffered four shillings—about one dollar—to pay for the calls. She thought a telephone call cost only one shilling to any part of the British Empire.

Our guess is that the maid has one year's work ahead of her for nothing.

League's Success In Drugs Fight

So much has been said and written of the failures which have attended the efforts of the League of Nations that satisfaction may be found in recording one of its out-standing successes, observes the Toronto Globe.

This is in connection with its work for the suppression of the drug traffic, a work which it has pursued despite the most discouraging difficulties, and which it has brought to a high pitch of achievement.

Early conventions gained from League members an agreement not to allow the passage of narcotics across frontiers unless accompanied by a permit from the exporting country and a license granting entry into the importing country, and also limited the quantity of such drugs allowed to be manufactured legally.

This summer the representatives of forty governments met and drew up a further convention which was signed by twenty-five States.

By its provisions the signatory countries undertook to inflict severe penalties upon any one who assists the illicit drug trade in any way, not merely by buying and selling drugs, but by offering for sale, or even entering into an agreement to assist in the transporting of illicit narcotics.

The signatories also agreed to make penalties against traffickers uniform in all twenty-five countries so that no longer will a crime punishable by a long imprisonment in one country be looked upon as a mere delinquency condoned by a light fine in another.

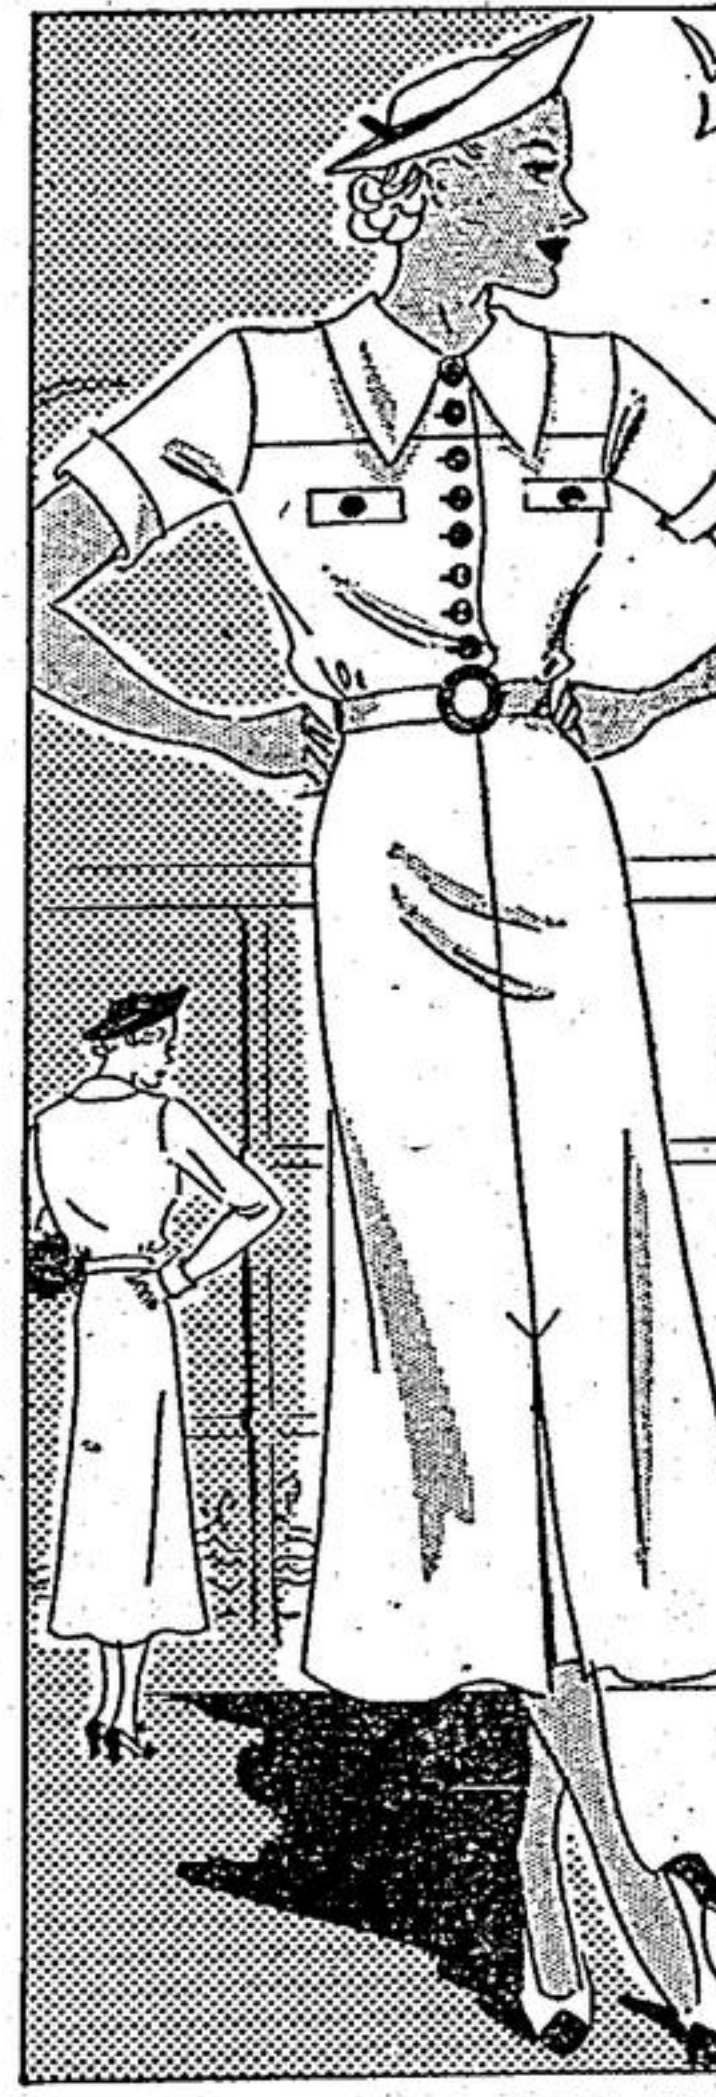

Moreover, the police in all the signatory countries will keep one another informed concerning known traffickers, and a person caught selling illicit drugs in one country will be liable to have convictions in other countries brought against him.

Narcotics offenses of every kind also are to be considered cause for extradition, and traffickers will no longer be able to flee from one country to the safety of another to evade the penalty for their offenses.

Police officials who took part in the recent discussions declared that the extradition provisions of the new convention would help them immeasurably in breaking up international rings of traffickers, who previously had laid their plans in one country and carried out their operations in another.

That there is still much to be done before the drug evil finally is banished goes without saying, but the ever-rising price of narcotics and the number of successful prosecutions are sufficient proof of the efficacy of the work done by the League in this connection.

FU MANCHU

By Sax Rohmer

Nayland Smith and I preceded the others back to the house. Never have I seen him so haggard, beaten. "What on earth can we do, Pettie?" he muttered. "What does it mean?" I gave him no answer. There was none. Donby's disappearance was utterly mystifying.

"Search! Everywhere!" Eitham cried. He ran into the rose garden and began beating among the flowers like a madman. Greba Eitham joined the hunt. For an hour we searched, and it was a group terrified and awestricken that came together again on the terrace. Eitham sank upon a bench and buried his head in his hands.

Nayland Smith, who had been pacing up and down, suddenly snatched a lantern and strode off to the shrubbery once more. I followed him quickly.

At the margin of the shrubbery where we had passed only a few minutes before, Smith tripped and almost fell over the body of Vernon Denby!

Take Census in One Day

MOSCOW.—Using the services of 1,320,000 enumerators the Soviet Union expects to complete its census of 1937 in one day.

The work of enumerating will start at 8 a.m. on January 6 and will continue until midnight.

Over 1,000 tons of paper will be used to print the census papers, and these will be counted in central stations as Moscow, Leningrad and Kharkov by tabulating machines. The results of the census will be summarized within a year.
