For conducting a draw the prize of which was an $11,000 house an officer of the Toronto Buildings Trades Council has been fined $100. And yet service clubs and individuals are selling tickets for similar events almost every day in the year. Tickets for the Building's Trade Council were sold in Stouffville and we know a newspaper man, and professional man, each of whom paid a dollar for a ticket, and they are wondering if part of their money went to pay the fine—but at that thousands of tickets were sold at a dollar each—the draw didn't come off owing to the court proceedings and the fine imposed, thus the fact they were hauled into court proved a blessing in disguise for the organization could do nothing but "keep the change," and the house as well.

The cast is a local company from Pickering, and they have been called to repeat the play time and time again, including engagements in Toronto, Reserve Nov. 20, and patronize the Institute's evening.

The ladies of Stouffville and district may look forward to a coming social event on Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 25, when Mrs. Aitken, noted radio speaker, will be in Stouffville as guest of the local chapter of the Eastern Star. Mrs. Aitken will give a cooking demonstration, and afternoon tea will be served. Those who listen in to Mrs. Aitken's radio talks will keenly anticipate her visit to town, an event to which all ladies are invited through this advance notice.

Rev. S. Goudie of Vineland and Mr. Isaac Pike, Stouffville, enjoyed a business trip to Elkhart, Indiana, as delegates and executive members of the Board of Publishers of the M.B.C. Church in the U.S.A. and Canada. Enroute south by motor car with other friends they visited along the way, and had an opportunity, of seeing their American cousins in the heat of a presidential election. Without knowing anything about the personnel of the publishing board down at headquarters, we venture to say that our Mr. Pike led them all in point of age, which at $6 seems to have no effect on his mental, and but little on his physical capacity. These two veterans hailing from Vineland and Stouffville are the type of men Ontario is not ashamed to send from home to represent one of her church bodies in a business capacity.

Friday evening, Nov. 20, "Dust of the Earth," will be staged in Ratcliff's Hall, under patronage of the Junior Institute. Only 25c.

Shirley Temple is coming back in Captain January at the Stanley this week. Everybody wants to greet the little sweetheart of the stage.

Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Rae were Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Ross and daughter Dorothy and son Gordon, of Vineland, also their son Rodrick, student at Toronto University.

In making reference in our last issue to the gift of flowers to Mrs. Warrinton at the United Church on Monday evening following the anniversary, we omitted to say that flowers were bestowed on Mrs. Ross Winterstein at the same time. Mrs. Winterstein had kindly assisted in the Monday evening program, and many of our readers have called our attention to the omission which we are pleased to rectify at this time.

The problem of seeking the land or lads who are breaking electric light bulbs in the east end has been handed over to Constable Quibell for investigation. On Thursday of last week the electrician put a new bulb on the pole on Main street immediately opposite Mr. Harry Paisley's residence, and before Saturday night it had been broken. The electrician brought the broken piece to the chairman, A. E. Weldon of the Water and Light Committee, and the Reeve, as proof of what is going on. This led to Constable Quibell being asked to investigate.

Some folks are so hungry for news that they manufacture it out of their own imagination faster than a newspaper man can check up on the stories. The other day a double wedding was reported to have taken place at a Mongolia farm home, but when the scribe got in direct contact with at least one of the parties supposed to be subscribing to the contract, we found that it was a story made out of the imagination. However, it may be news to publish a double wedding, and it is still news to assure the people that there is really nothing truthful about the yarn.

On October 28th, about seventy-five friends, neighbors and relatives gathered at the home of Mrs. J. Boadway to express their good wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hoover (nee Mary Barkey). The evening was spent in games and music, a shower of many useful and beautiful gifts were presented to the bride and groom after which refreshments were served. A very happy evening was spent together. We understand their friends in Markham and community presented a shower on Monday evening last which goes to prove the high esteem in which Mr. and Mrs. Hoover are held. Certainly Mr. and Mrs. Hoover take to their new home the best wishes of their many friends.

Mrs. A. S. Collins was in Malvern last week attending a social event at the home of her daughter Mrs. W. McCowan. Mr. and Mrs. McCowan were married 25 years ago at the home of her mother in Stouffville, and the event was fittingly marked on this occasion. Mrs. Edw. Perry who played the wedding march was present, as was the groomsmen. The bridesmaid, now Mrs. Yake, being in Western Canada, was unable to be here. This anniversary was given an added personal touch when the bride of 25 years ago appeared in the same wedding dress as she did in her mother's home on that first memorable occasion, when the bonds of matrimony which made Miss Louie Jerman and Mr. Will McCowan man and wife, were spoken by Rev. J. Unsworth, then Congregational minister at Stouffville.

Mr. Arthur Swift, garageman was the man of the hour on Wednesday afternoon and evening last week, when he entertained the people to a free picture show at The Stanley Theatre. This annual entertainment is provided without any obligation, being purely a good-will gesture on the part of Mr. Swift. "The Keeper of the Bees" was the picture shown, and proved a highly popular form of entertainment. Crowds gathered especially for the two evening performances. When Mr. Swift appeared and gave a talk he was enthusiastically greeted, and his advice to young folk on "Friendliness" was received with every attention. Mr. E. Switzer, acted as Master of Ceremonies and gave the people some inside information about Firestone tires, which should help motorists to choose wisely when making purchases in this line. Mr. Jack Mahaffy, whose education about the inside of a battery box would fill a book, was also instructive. He represents the well and favorably known Exide Battery Co. About 1000 people attended one of the three entertainments.

"HE GOT HIS MAN"

New Deputy Warden Steps into Action

Gordon Lehman of Stouffville, the newest addition to the deputy Game Wardens for Ontario, jumped promptly into action, and has already annexed the title attributed to Royal Mounties, "He got His Man." Last Saturday the officer was ambling on foot over an area of Markham Township on the 8th concession south of No. 7 Highway, when he came upon three would-be hunters. Watching their performance unseen from behind a large tree, one man, says Lehman, shot at a pheasant, but was taken by surprise when the Deputy stepped into view to demand a peep at his gun license. Two of the chaps from Toronto produced the necessary cardboard after questioning the officer and satisfying themselves he really was a "limb of the law," but their farmer friend "was just about to buy one next week." "Tell that to the magistrate," said the deputy warden who seized the farmer's gun and has since turned it over to the Dept. of Game and Fisheries together with the double charge against the man of carrying a gun without a license and shooting off firearms in the vicinity of pheasants. Evidently the local game in our woods have found a friend in the new deputy warden, who is going to enforce the law around here in a manner that has not been done for some time. Gordon has the drop on the average complacent individual on this job. He is short, and is never suspected by the stranger of being an officer, but they live to learn that dynamite can be in very small packages.

POPPIES

Little red poppy, raise your nodding head,
The battle is over, the soldier dead;
Above the darkening sky,
One bright star is gleaming on high.
Little white poppy, white as drifted snow,
The war was over long ago;
Lift your head to the sky above,
To show your cross a Sacrifice of love.

Little poppies, red and white,
Illumined with a brighter light;
The silent Dead are sleeping,
And tired eyes have ceased their weeping.

O'er the hillside bleak and bare;
O'er the poppies growing there,
A long dream is closing 'round the hill;
Darkness falls and all is still.
Nov. 11, 1936 Grace E. Buley

FRIVOLITY BRINGS BROKEN NOSE

Next Hallowe'en a young woman resident of Peterboro will not dress up in a man's suit, or, if she does, she will probably refrain from hugging married women friends on the main street. Today she is suffering from a broken nose and head cuts said to have been suffered when she was knocked through a plate glass window by the weight of a man's fist.

The young woman was walking along George street at 11 o'clock Saturday night, toggled out in a man's suit as a Hallowe'en costume.

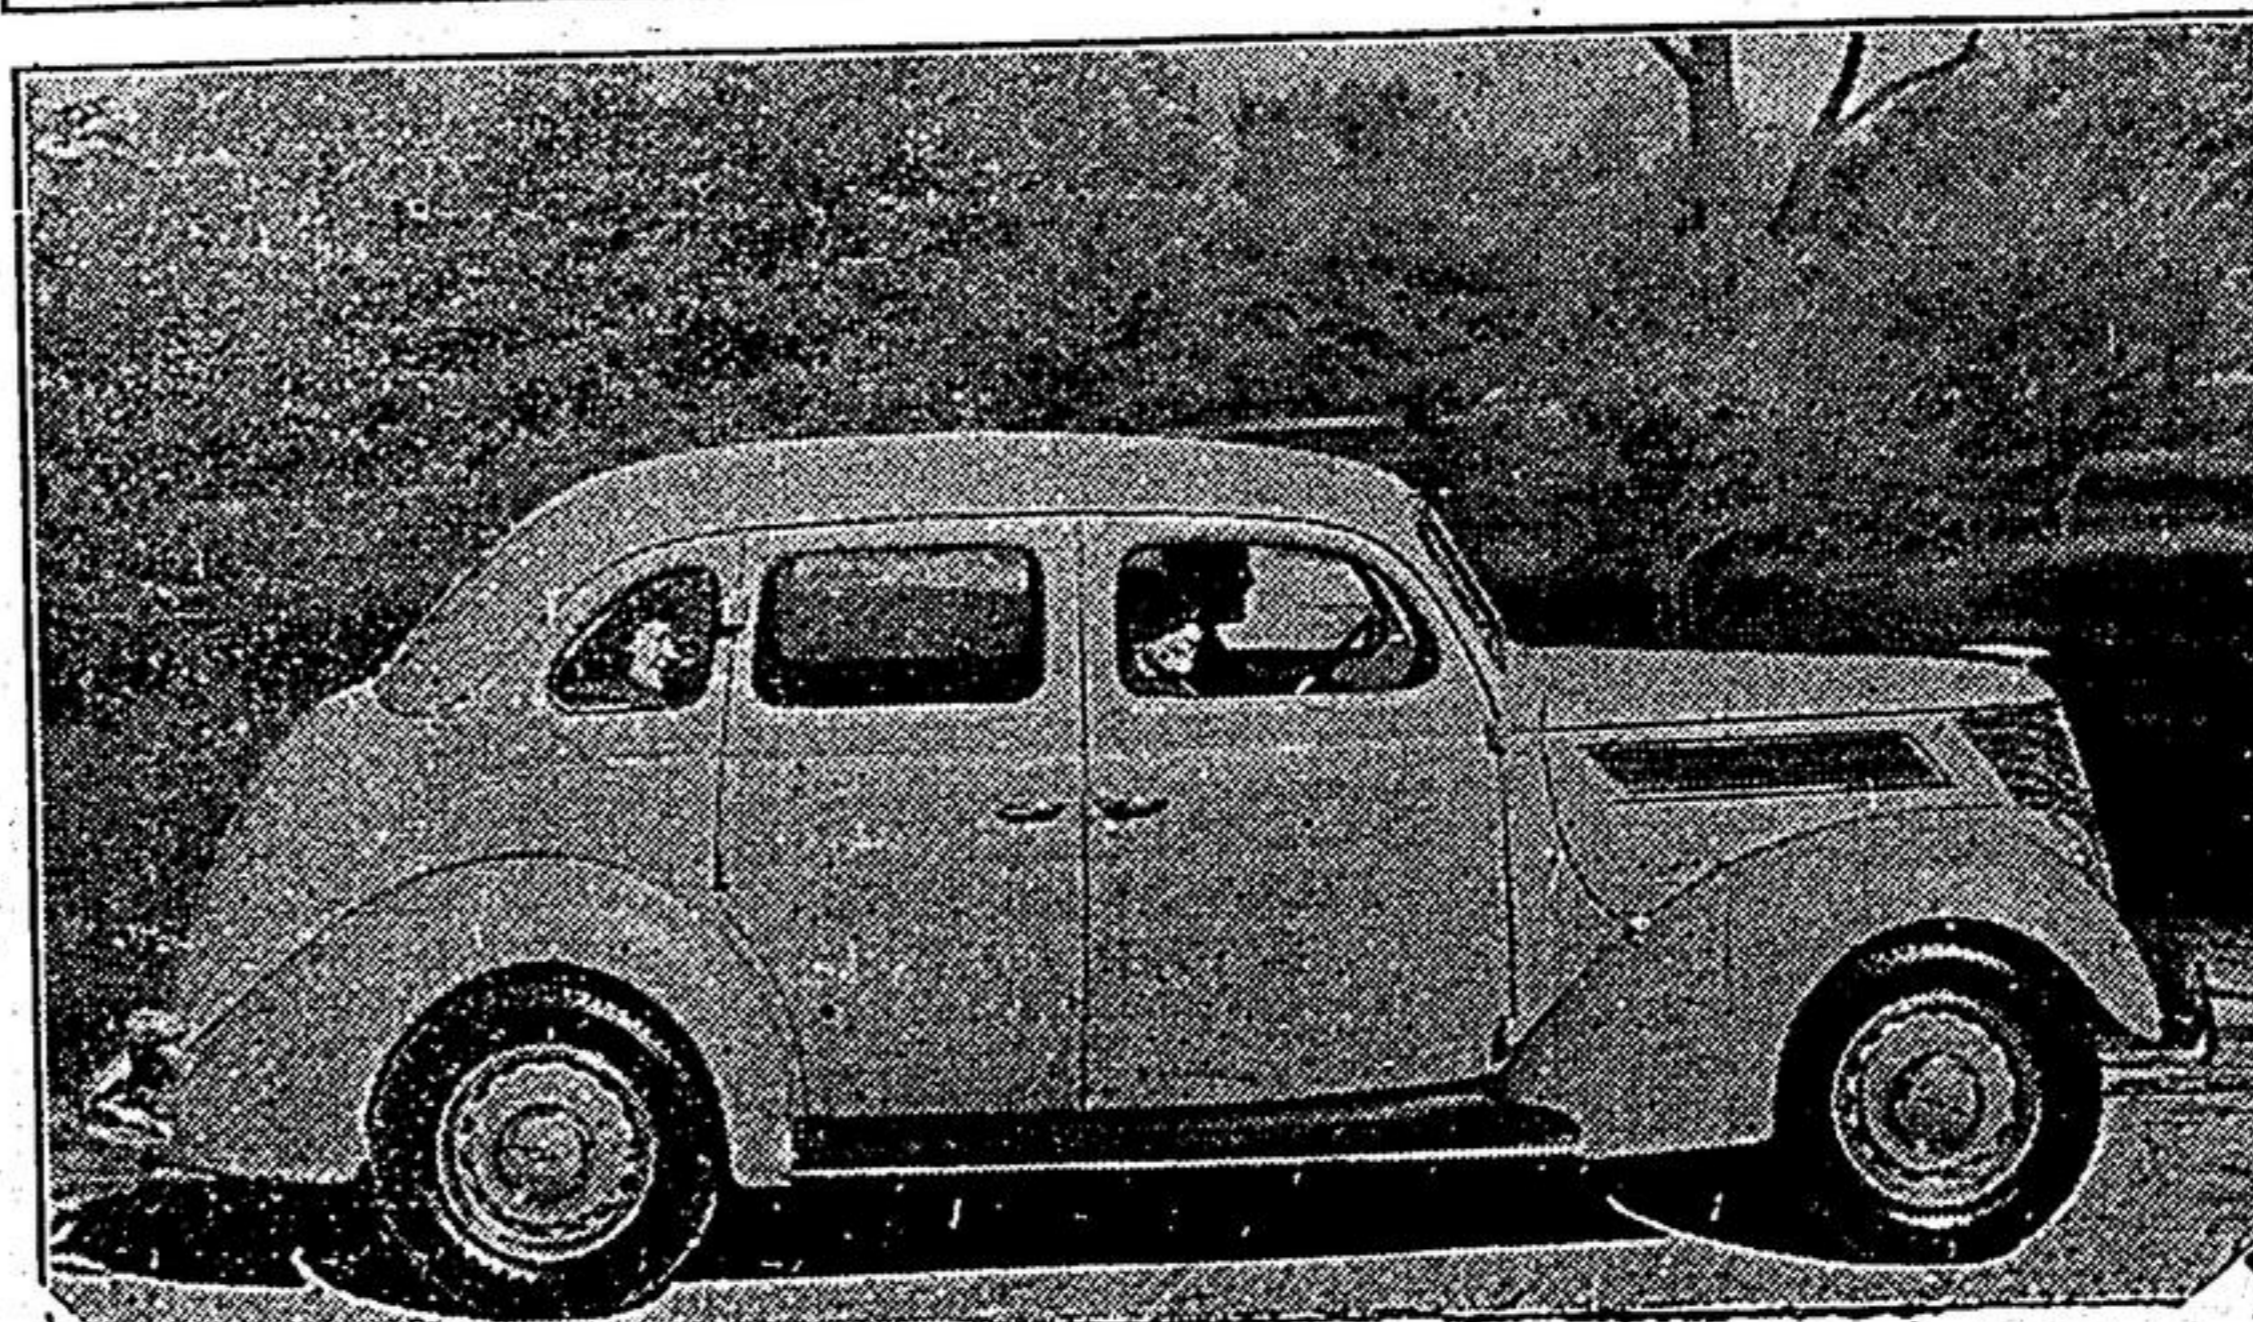

She met married couple whom she knew and threw her arms around the woman's neck as she called her by name. The husband, amazed and outraged, swung a mighty clout at the girl dressed as a man, and broke her nose. The blow toppled her through the plate glass window of the Capitol Taxi Office, operated by Hugh Davis.

In Memoriam

Heise,
Oh we miss her, yes we miss her,
Every morning, noon, and night,
But she's gone to meet her Saviour,
Clad in robes of spotless white,
Encircled in Celestial light.
We'll remember, yes remember,
The sweet companionship we shared,
But she left us in November,
After months of health impaired
Now eternal praise to render.

Lonely but resigned
D. W. H. and Beulah.

This new Findlay Tortoise Cook is a modern cooking and heating stove with all the efficiency of larger and more expensive ranges—built to sell at a very low price. The oval firepot burns either wood or coal—a large fad door accommodating large pieces of wood.

The wood fire box is 18 inches long—a feature not often found in this type of range.

A single door covers fire box and ash pit doors and grate ends—oven thermometer is standard equipment—reservoir 4 1/2-gallon capacity.
