On Wednesday afternoon, William Todd, while assisting in cutting ice on White's pond had the misfortune to slip against the running circular saw inflicting a nasty cut in the calf of his left leg. It necesitated three stitches to close the wound. Fontunately the cut was down the leg and not across it or the wound would have been much worse. Mr. Todd will be laid up for a couple of weeks, but in the meanwhile his son Justice, is filling his position.

CREDIT AUCTION SALE

One has only to study the terms on auction sale bills to realize how hard the time-worn long term credit system has been hit by the depression and recent legislative enactments. NO REDUCTION IN COUNTY COUNCIL'S SIZE IS FAVORED.

A motion to reduce the size of the York County Council by eliminating the Deputy Reeves received the support of only six votes when it was introduced in County Council last week.

In moving his resolution, the Deputy Reeve declared: "You have just increased your indemnity, but don't put yourself in a position where you will make monkeys of yourselves. Let's be sensible." "If this Council intends to exist Mr. and Mrs. Walter Howsam, of it must cut down its size. We are becoming a legislature instead of a council," he continued. "We are discussing a lot of things that are

> Deputy Reeve Fred Gardiner, Forest Hill, stated that it was too late in the session to give such a resolution the discussion it warranted. "But I am in agreement with the move," he added. "Why ten men from Forest Hill, standing on their heads, could do more efficient business than forty-nine members of County Council." "Such modesty is beyond understanding in my friend," joked C. C. Downey, Swansea. "But to be serious, it takes a year for a Deputy Reeve to understand the workings of a County Council. Mr. Vale was honest when he remarked on the first day that the County Council was all Greek to him."

Deputy Reeve Fred Gardiner referred to the remarks of the present Warden when he told the Council last November that he was going to expedite its business if he was elected Warden. "I am sorry to say that this move has elongated the session instead of shortening it," he stated.
