

TOWN TOPICS

Liberal local advertising is doing its share to help fill Stouffville with crowds of people from out of town on business nights of the week. Well kept stores and a liberal range of important factors.

E. A. Grubin, R.O., Optometrist and Optician, will be at his office in Stouffville on Monday, August 9.

Mrs. Angus McKay of Toronto, has been holidaying in town at the home of her sister Miss Alfretha Eckardt, Victoria street.

The auction sale of entire household furniture belonging to the estate of the late Herb Porter will be sold this Thursday afternoon at the Porter Store, next door to The Tribune Office. The sale will be conducted on the grounds at the rear of the premises.

See the Norge display at L. E. O'Neill's. A life-time convenience in your home, and in a big range of prices, according to the size of the refrigerator. Electric charges are practically negligible. Drop in and see this beautiful electric ice box. O'Neill's furniture store.

In case of serious road smash-ups folks are rushed to the nearest hospital for treatment. There's no dispute in the correctness of this action, but the place to take smashed cars and crumpled fenders is Silverthorn's Garage, Stouffville. Emergency telephone call 170.

The heading on the article announcing the death of George H. Trethewey which appeared in our last issue misleading. From the caption one would assume that Mrs. Trethewey who was the former Lillian Percy, had passed away. Whereas she is the one bereaved. Headings of an erroneous nature are common errors in the dailies, and we have to plead guilty of the same error this time.

Porter's furniture sale today (Thursday)

There were six babies born at the Brierbush Hospital, Stouffville, last week, and they are a lusty lot, we are told.

Rev. E. Morton will preach next Sunday at the Oakwood United Church, eight miles southwest of Lindsay. He will also speak at the decoration service for Oakwood Sunday afternoon.

A car load of horses shipped from Maple Creek, Alberta, sold by auction in about three hours one day last week in Alliston. Prices ranged as high as $170, with the average animal selling around $145, says the Alliston Herald.

The crop of early potatoes coming from the farms is selling at around $1 per bag, a lower price than was to be expected some months ago. Dealers say it is too early to predict the prevailing price of potatoes for next fall, but they are of the opinion that the fall market may be better than the early one, while others fear a low priced tuber all through the year.

Falling off a load of hay may be a serious matter, as we here in Stouffville have come to realize, since Edwin Forsythe's serious accident. Just the other day Lloyd Speers, living near the town of Palmerston, fell from a load and broke his neck in three places. His little son had to run two miles to summon a doctor.

Hogs have reached the $10 mark at country points, which will make a very satisfactory return to the farmer who is feeding grain produced on his own premises. In fact a successful hog raiser told us the other day that present prices meant a profit for him; and he must buy all his feed. Other farmers differ with this point of view.

"A slick check artist visited Uxbridge on Saturday evening last and has left woeful feelings among some of our merchants and more joyful feelings among some of those who refused to cash his checks. He would go into a store and order some goods offering in payment a check signed G. M. Barton and purporting to be his son. In one store he got $20 in cash and in two others $20 less the value of his order $3 and $5. He later engaged one of our local taxmen to drive him to Aurora."

The County surveyors have been working along the tenth concession immediately north of Stouffville the past week, presumably getting things in readiness to spend that $15,000 which the Reeve has been informed is ear-marked and set aside to be spent on this highway this summer. The bulk of the money will probably provide a tarvia top as far north as the railway track.

The Irwin family reunion was held this year at Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Hodgson's home, east of Stouffville when about 70 were present. Those from a distance were Ernest and Ralph Irwin from Warsaw; Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Irwin and two daughters of Canada, New York; Mr. and Mrs. Woodhouse, Flint, Michigan; Mrs. Craig, Detroit. Relatives were also present from Aurora, Claremont, Goodwood, Markham, Mount Albert, and Uxbridge. Clayton Paisley was elected president and Clarence Stafford vice president. The original Irwins were pioneers in Whitechurch, settling in the Lemonville district.

Almost weekly we have been telling our readers about a new kind of swindle which had been pulled off in this or that town, and now it looks like our own people have been victimized once more. A few weeks ago a chap called at local homes soliciting orders for neckties—better and cheaper of course than the local merchant could provide—and from reports coming in he certainly captured the business. Strange to say, in almost every instance the soliciting agent, collected for the ties in advance. What is not strange is the fact that he never returned with the neckwear, and is still patiently awaited. A search of the telephone directory does not reveal any such firm name as was printed on the receipt form issued for the ties. This swindle was more pronounced than that worked by a canvasser the week previous. A chap went from door to door selling doughnuts, and when the housewife informed the salesman that they preferred to buy from the local baker, he argued that if he could sell so many doughnuts that day he was in line for a real job with his firm. The trick invariably worked, for the housewife bought out of sympathy, but when such an argument was given serious thought later, it was believed to be a fake presentation. Aside from that, pastry bought at the door this way may be made under unsanitary conditions. In fact if the purchaser could see the inside of the premises from which the pastry came, they might not accept it as a gift. From every angle it is safer to transact business only with those you know, or those who are regularly established and are available to make good in case the goods purchased are not what they should be.

The safest place in the next war will be wherever the dictators are.

This is the season of the year when you can give the comic strips in the newspapers a rest. For amusement walk up and down Main street.

The Stouffville Junior Farmers will hold an ice-cream social at the home of Ruth Storey, on Thursday evening, August 12th, at 8.15. A good program has been arranged. Admission 15c. Everybody welcome.

Tom Hardy was telling us the other day that he has potato stalks standing six feet two inches high in his garden on Rupert street, and he expects to reap a good crop, despite the fact that such phenomenal growth often leaves little or nothing in the way of potatoes at the root.

A young lad only eight years old breezed into town on Civic Holiday morning, seeking employment. While he had the proper spirit and pluck, his youthfulness aroused suspicion and Constable Quibell took the lad in hand for questioning. His father was later communicated with in Toronto and as a result the boy was returned to his home in the evening.

In a double-header exhibition baseball game at Memorial park on Monday afternoon, Stouffville defeated Service Cleaners of Toronto two straight. The locals have been invited to play in Toronto probably this Thursday evening twilight. Monday's crowd was very small owing to so many counter attractions and no attraction other than the baseball in Stouffville on Civic Holiday.

Last week Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Murphy and children moved to town from Creemore, taking up residence in the Holden house on Church street north. Mr. Murphy is the new principal of Stouffville Continuation school as the unanimous choice of the Board when the appointment of a new teacher was under consideration. Stouffville will welcome the latest arrivals as new residents of our modern village.

Almost every day some one is enquiring at the newspaper office as to where they can obtain a house or an apartment in Stouffville for rent. The places are now all fairly well filled up, and for some long time there has not been a modern place available. If a dozen up-to-date homes were erected, they would rent very quickly, and provide a very fair investment. The situation locally is in sharp contrast to some places we have information on, where there are too many vacant houses, and property values stagnant.

Know your town, is a very good motto, but we have to confess that we have lived in Stouffville for 15 years only to learn last week that there are two streets here named Frederick and Manitoba, according to the village plan. How many readers know where they are located or even know what part of the village they are in. Both Frederick and Manitoba are off Church street. Frederick is one street north of Warriner street which is the corner on which Mrs. S. M. Warriner lives on north Church, while Manitoba runs east off Church in the same locality. Probably many other citizens are not conversant with Frederick and Manitoba streets, and for this reason we call attention to the matter. There has been no development on these streets, but they loom quite important on the village surveyor's plan.

Stouffville lost a highly esteemed family last week when Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Sanders with their two children moved to Weston where they have taken up residence at 59 John Street. Since his appointment as assistant county crown attorney Mr. Sanders has had to relinquish his law office in Stouffville, to devote his whole time to the work of the crown which necessitates him being in Toronto daily during week days. Both Mr. and Mrs. Sanders have taken an active part in church work, the former being secretary of the official board, which will make their absence more keenly felt. It is however, a matter of satisfaction to know that they are not leaving the county, and in these days of rapid transport are but a few minutes from the old home town.

Toronto exhibition opens in three weeks—then fall is here!

There was no lack of entertainment over the country last Monday, Civic Holiday, to attract local people in this section. Up at Musselman's Lake there was the big annual ratepayers' picnic and sports day, while over at Goodwood the first reunion since the village was incorporated was held, and this invited its share of supporters. Port Perry put on a sports day and various lawn bowling tournaments were held. For those who did not leave Stouffville a program of baseball was provided in the afternoon and theatre entertainment in the evening.

"The Cat Came Back," says Harry Stover, but it took the power behind a small advertisement in The Tribune to do the trick. The local baker lost his family cat, a prized animal, and inserted a three line ad, in last week's paper. As a result the cat was located on one of the Hoover farms in Markham. It climbed aboard the Hoover car while in town stopping in the west end, and they decided to throw Miss Fuss off as they were enroute home. She refused to be dropped by the way side and was taken on to the farm and placed in the barn to lead a more or less happy life. When The Tribune came in, the owner was discovered, and so the cat came back.

For a town of its size and importance Stouffville is poorly publicized on the highways, and over the immediate district. We have taken notice that "Stouffville" signs are lacking in various places north of the town in the Uxbridge district, north and south of that place. Direction signs such as are put up by the Ontario Motor League are a wonderful advertisement for any community. It creates in the mind of the motorist an urge to see the place if he is constantly confronted with the name, to say nothing of the great convenience to strangers who are unacquainted with direction in the locality they are passing through. Irrespective of what it says in the scriptures about "hiding your light under a bushel", the village council or some other body should make it their business to tack up a few signs to replace those that have been broken or in some instances where signs have not been placed heretofore.

One of the busiest men in town is Robert Stewart. We see him every week delivering vegetables and in the meantime he is busy in his garden cultivating what he grows to sell. Mr. Stewart was 86 years of age on July 26, and needless to say has never been idle, even in those years when younger men could not find employment. He may have due respect for the Scotch Thistle because it is Scotch, but he doesn't allow it or any other thistle to flourish in his large garden.
